Decision No. 4/83
Com. 31/82

Before the Broadcasting Tribunal

In the matter of The Broadcasting Act 1976, and in the matter of a complaint by the SOCIETY FOR PROMOTION OF COMMUNITY STANDARDS INC.:

Warrant Holder BCNZ (Television 1)

B. H. Slane, Chairman; Lionel R. Sceats, member, Ann E. Wilson, member; Gordon C. Ell, co-opted member; Robert Boyd-Bell, co-opted member.

DECISION

THE society complained of a segment in the Television 1 Close Up programme broadcast at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, 28 July. The society claimed the programme, in breach of section 24 (1) (e), Broadcasting Act 1976, failed to maintain, in its programmes and their presentation, standards generally acceptable in the community. In particular it failed to have regard to the principle that when controversial issues of public importance are discussed, reasonable efforts are made to present significant points of view either in the same programme or other programmes within the period of current interest.

The society also complained that the same segment of the programme breached Rule 5.1 which provides:

A television news and current affairs service should take account of the following points:

(e) Children form a significant part of the early evening audience.

This should be considered when deciding on the extent to which an item may be treated or illustrated in bulletins before 8.30 p.m.

The programme was trailed as "Gay Pride 10 Years On—What's Really Changed", and was entitled "Pride and Prejudice".

The society complained that the programme was concerned with a controversial issue of public importance, the gay or homosexual scene in New Zealand, and the introduction of a Bill to legalise homosexual acts which are at present illegal. The society said its secretary Miss P. M. Bartlett was the only person interviewed on the programme with an opposing view while a number of people were interviewed who supported the change in the law.

The society also considered that the subject was inappropriate for 8 p.m. when 10- and 11-year-old children were not yet in bed and were watching television. It also objected to the showing in the programme of a scene from an R18 movie called Making Love currently screening in the country in which viewers could see two men caressing one another's bodies and kissing.

The item, it was complained, also contained scenes of homosexuals dancing cheek to cheek in an Auckland cabaret frequented by homosexuals. The society considered the programme should not have been broadcast before 9 p.m. but in any event in accordance with the rules should not have been broadcast before 8.30 p.m.

The Corporation did not uphold the complaint. It considered the programme struck a reasonable balance in itself giving, among others, the views of mainstream churches and the legal position. It noted that the topic was one which had been, and would continue to be, controversial. The Corporation considered there would be more opportunities for expression of further points of view as the question of changes in the law was debated.

While some sympathy was expressed with the view that the segment should have been placed later in the programme, it was thought that the way in which the subject was treated was not such as to breach Rule 5.1 (e).

The society referred the complaint to the Broadcasting Tribunal adding that it did not consider that homosexual lovemaking scenes from R18 movies which children were not permitted to see in cinemas should be permitted to be screened on television in family viewing.

The society said no mainstream church leaders were on the programme, nor was there a lawyer voicing a different view from the person on the programme who advocated legalising homosexual acts for 16 and over.

In submissions to the Tribunal, the Broadcasting Corporation said it was only at the very end of the programme, where expected changes in the law were examined, that there was a clear need to attempt a balance of opposing views. Up to that point the programme attempted to reflect what was occurring today, a back-grounder. There was almost an equal balance in the number of words spoken by an advocate for change and Miss Bartlett. There would be scope for further balance in comment of parliamentarians and church leaders.

The Corporation pointed out that there was no prohibition under section 24 (2) from televising any part of an R18 film provided it did not include any portion which the Government Film Censor had required to be excised. That was not at issue in this complaint.

The Corporation also argued that the excerpt, together with other filming of homosexual recreational activities, was portrayed in subdued light. No element of obscene exposure entered the reckoning.

The Corporation claimed that in the dim light it was not possible to determine whether homosexual or heterosexual activities were occurring. The Corporation considered it was reasonable to expect that young children in the age range quoted by the complainant would not be viewing a programme such as Close Up at 8 p.m.

The Tribunal viewed a video tape of the programme and examined a transcript.

The Tribunal does not consider that the programme ultimately did provide a balance between the views of those who advocate change in the law and public acceptance of the homosexual way of life and those who oppose it.

This occurred principally by the programme choosing to confine itself to Miss Bartlett's views as representing the views of those who opposed a change in the law. There would obviously be a range of views opposed and it appeared that Miss Bartlett's view had been chosen to support the opinion that the opposition was based on prejudice.

The programme also examined the commercial acceptance of homosexuals and the absence of any legal reform. If it had confined itself to that then we would not have seen the need for balance to occur in the programme or later. But a number of those interviewed went further and advocated reform of the law to which Miss Bartlett was the only respondent.

However, it is one thing to say that the programme was not itself balanced and another to say that the complaint should be upheld. At the time of the preparation of the programme the reporter believed that a Bill was to be introduced to Parliament. It would be reasonable to assume then that there would be some debate on the matter within a reasonable time. The Tribunal takes the view that the programme content was not such that it was imperative that there should be balancing material within the same programme.

But we consider that balancing material should be provided in another programme. Since the expected debate has not taken place, Television New Zealand will no doubt consider the ways in which it can adequately represent the views of those who oppose homosexual law reform in terms other than those put forward in the programme. The period of current interest has not yet concluded and is unlikely to do so immediately but the need for some balance cannot be put aside indefinitely.

In respect of section 24 (1) (e), the complaint is not upheld.

With regard to the time the programme was shown the Tribunal has considered a number of factors. The first is that the programme itself set about dramatically presenting a trailer of its content and it cannot be assumed that younger viewers would not have been attracted to watch. As the homosexual item was the first in the Close Up programme, it was broadcast shortly after 8 p.m.

The Tribunal would not consider it improper for excerpts from an R18 film to be shown in the programme but regard must be had to the excerpt chosen. While in the context of this programme it cannot be said to be obscene or even erotic, it did spend some 30 seconds showing in silhouette two males caressing and then kissing. They were identified (by the voice over) as men.

The Tribunal finds that, in this programme, the material shown was not essential.

Nor was it suitable for broadcast before 8.30 p.m.

It is concluded that the material was inserted for the dramatic effect it would have. This was not a case where the display of the material was natural in context or part of a drama presentation. The chosen content of the movie was shown not just to identify the movie but for its impact.

Having regard to the material included in this segment of the programme, the Tribunal finds it was not appropriate for broadcast before 8.30 p.m.

The complaint in that respect is upheld.

Co-opted Members:

Messrs Ell and Boyd-Bell were co-opted as persons whose qualifications or experience were likely to be of assistance to the Tribunal in dealing with the complaint. They took part in the consideration of the complaint and the deliberations of the Tribunal but the decision is that of the permanent members.

Dated the 16th day of February 1983.

For the Tribunal:

B. H. SLANE, Chairman.

Exchange Rates

In terms of section 25 (2) of the Reserve Bank of New Zealand Act 1964, the Reserve Bank today released outer limits for rates of exchange to be used in transactions involving the conversion of New Zealand currency into foreign currencies and foreign currencies into New Zealand currency when delivery of the foreign currency dealt in will be effected by telegraphic transfer. The following range of rates, for the main currencies used by New Zealand traders in settling foreign exchange transactions, will remain in force until replaced by a new Schedule issued by the Reserve Bank. These rates do not apply to transactions for settlement after the expiration of 2 business days (forward transactions) or to transactions in which instruments are purchased which do not entitle the buyer to foreign currency balances in the foreign centre until the instruments have been delivered at the foreign centre. In the latter case interest at foreign centre rates may be deducted from the telegraphic transfer rate to compensate the purchaser for his loss during the transit period.

To Credit Managers. And to Whom It May Concern:

DOMINION PAINT CENTRE LTD.

ON the 1st day of December 1981 a petition to wind up Dominion Paint Centre Ltd. (herein called "the company") was presented to the Auckland High Court. The petition was based on failure by the company to pay the amount of a judgment obtained in the District Court at Auckland on the 25th day of September 1981. At the time the petition was filed the company had appealed to the High Court at Auckland against that judgment and the hearing of the appeal was still pending. The petitioner nevertheless advertised the petition on the 13th day of January 1982. The petition alleged the company's inability to pay its debts.

The company has at all times been able to fully satisfy its creditors. The non-payment of the judgment was because the company alleged that it had a valid ground of appeal that should be heard. The judgment has now been satisfied in full.

This notice is inserted by Graham Greene and Partners, chartered accountants, Newmarket, on behalf of Dominion Paint Centre Ltd.
