Before the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the following publications: Penthouse U.S. January 1982 to December 1982 inclusive (Vol. 13, No. 5 to Vol. 14, No. 4) published by Penthouse International Ltd., New York:

Judge W. M. Willis (Chairman); Mesdames H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera; Messrs J. V. B. McLinden, I. W. Malcolm.

Hearing: 16 December 1982.

Decision: 16 March 1983.

Appearances: Mr Leloir for Comptroller of Customs. Mr Heron for importers, Gordon & Gotch (N.Z.) Ltd. Written submissions from Society for Promotion of Community Standards Inc.

DECISION

Twelve Penthouses for the year January to December 1982 have been referred to us by the Comptroller of Customs in accordance with section 14(1) of the Indecent Publications Act. It should be noted that this is the third reference of the U.S. edition of Penthouse to the Tribunal in 1982. In Decision 1038 the Tribunal classified a private importation of the May and June 1980 Penthouse issues as indecent. The commercial importer had not imported those issues because of the danger of such a classification. In the second Decision, No. 1033, the Tribunal was referred 3 consecutive issues of Penthouse (September, October, November 1981) and was asked by the commercial importer to make an age restriction order pursuant to section 15A of the Act so that for the next 2 years the issues of the magazine might be classified as indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18. For the reasons specified in Decision No. 1033, the Tribunal refused on that occasion to make the section 15A order sought. Much of what was said in the decisions referred to is applicable to the present issues, and we would expect the principles expressed earlier to be read in conjunction with this decision.

Before making any general comment on the US edition of Penthouse we propose to outline the special points of concern we find in each issue. Some of the magazines are grouped because we think they share more or less the same characteristics. (Although we refer only to pictorial items, we are not overlooking or discounting the other extreme features of Penthouse such as Forum, Call me Madam, and Sweet Chastity. Rather we find the photographs' effect to be cumulative on the impact of the features described.)

1. The August 1982 edition. This has a portfolio of photographs running from pages 113 to 127, entitled The Bank Robbery. The photographs depict a male and 2 female models in various setting in a bank robbery and its aftermath. In concept and execution this article is similar to that which was contained in the November 1981 issue entitled To Rush in with Love. In classifying that issue indecent the Tribunal stated in decision 1033:

"We find that the scenes are not only offensive and tasteless, but also that they are injurious to the public good because:

- (a) Of the mixture of sex and violence depicted;
- (b) Of the needless multiplicity of models and the degree of intimacy among them;
- (c) Of the lesbian and prurient aspects of sex presented."

We would reiterate the same view in respect of the present article. Mr Leloir submitted that this issue (August 1982) should be classified indecent. Mr Heron initially submitted that none of the 1982 publications had the aggressive element combining violence and lesbianism which the November 1981 issue had, but conceded, when asked to comment on this particular portfolio, that it appeared to fall within that category.

2. The January, March, July, and September issues. The common element of these issues is that they all feature lesbian love scenes. In the January issue the portfolio is entitled The Waiting Game and is contained from pages 131 to 143.

In the March 1982 issue the article is entitled A Woman Left Lonely and runs from pages 110 to 123.

In the July 1982 issue the article is entitled Marlene and Brinkie and runs from pages 58 to 67.

The September 1982 issues contains the feature White Tie and Tales. This article runs from pages 108 to 121.

In all these features there is a high degree of physical intimacy between the models. Most are gross and explicit, and show touching and kissing by one model of the other's genitalia and breasts.

"In Decision No. 1033 we imposed an age restriction on the Penthouse October 1981 issue notwithstanding it contained a portfolio of photographs of 2 young women fighting in a mud pit. While we were prepared to find the pictures bizarre and tasteless, we did not condemn the whole magazine because of it. We did note, however, that we would have found the material to have progressed from the crude and tasteless to that which was injurious to the public good if there had been lesbian overtones to that portfolio. Such is clearly the case in the features mentioned in this section."

3. The February, April, and October 1982 issues. The common aspect of these magazines is that they feature heterosexual scenes. The February issue features the same couple as appeared in the September 1981 issue which we gave an age restriction. In that decision we said that although some of the photographs ran close to the line of indecency, we were not prepared to say they were so offensive that we found them to be injurious to the public good. Although the present photographs of the couple are more explicit, we feel there has still been some restraint exercised in comparison with the 2 other heterosexual portfolios to be referred to.

In the April issue the article is entitled Ron and Robin and runs from pages 103 to 117. We feel this contains a much higher degree of intimacy between the models. The photographs depict oral sex, fondling of the genitalia and other intimacy between both models.

In the October 1982 issue the article is A Room of Their Own running from pages 108 to 121. The scenes depict fondling of the female models' breasts and cunnilingus by the male model, and suggested fellatio by the female model. Again we feel the degree of intimacy between the models is significantly higher than appears in the February 1982 issue.

4. The May, June, November, and December 1982 issues. Apart from a single portfolio in the November issue, all these magazines contain what used to be the "standard" Penthouse pictorial content. This was a centrefold feature of a female model, accompanied elsewhere in the magazine by 2 further features of single female models.

Although the present photographs vary in degrees of explicitness, we are not prepared to condemn any of the publications because of the scenes in which the single models are depicted.

The November portfolio referred to is an article entitled Realm of the Senses and runs from pages 76 to 85 of the magazine. These pictures depict scenes between a number of models, but the photographs have been taken through frosted glass. It appears to us that the photographs have been taken in an artistic way, and not in a method calculated to arouse prurient interest. We think it is relevant to refer here to what was said by the Tribunal in Decision No. 881 which concerned the February and July 1976 issues of Penthouse. The Tribunal said of a scene which depicted, albeit fantastically, a sadistic and lesbian episode:

"The presentation of nudity is not indecent if it is not prurient or salacious. Fantasy or fantastic presentation can lessen the indecency in sadism or other sexual matters which, in other ways of presentation, are obscene and pornographic."

We think that this portfolio of photographs falls clearly within that statement. It can be distinguished from the To Rush in With Love type of fantasy which was discussed in the decision relating to the November 1981 issue of Penthouse classified as indecent in Decision 1033.

The dominant effect of Penthouse:

It is clear as might be expected, that Penthouse still has the presentation of sex as its dominant effect. The magazine uses letters, cartoons, feature columns, fiction and non-fiction and photographs to provide its readers with a veritable kaleidoscope of sexual content. Some of the material is helpful or harmless, more is aimed at the prurient and lascivious aspects of sex. The Tribunal has accepted that Penthouse contains some articles of literary and social merit. However, the fact that a magazine contains content of a positive nature does not give a publisher carte blanche so far as the remainder of the publication is concerned. As we stated in Decision No. 1033:

"... we think we can justifiably declare a publication unconditionally indecent if, in bringing about part of its dominant effect, it carries a section too far. If this were not so Penthouse or any similar magazine could present a section or portfolio of gross photographs of any kind it wishes, with complete immunity, because of the existence of the other material in the issue."

The Tribunal reiterates its concern at the emergence of multiple model pictorial sections in Penthouse. We feel that when such sections are added to the remaining content, the publication progresses from merely being offensive to being injurious to the public good. We find most of the issues containing multiple model scenes depicting sex and violence, lesbianism and intimate heterosexual scenes to be indecent.

This classification covers the January, March, April, July, August, September, and October 1982 issues. The only exception to the classifications concerning multiple models are in relation to the February issue because the photographs, while explicit, did not depict such a high degree of intimacy as contained in the other 2 heterosexual portfolios. In permitting the February issue an age restriction classification we are stretching tolerance to the limit. The November issue we find unobjectionable because of the presentation we referred to earlier.

We are unable to find in the remaining provisions of section 11 any consideration which would help to save the issues listed above from a classification of "indecent". We do not traverse the various matters in detail, having set out the principles in Decision 1033.

We classify the February, May, June, November, and December publications as indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18.

However, our function does not end here because Mr Heron urged us to make a section 15A order imposing an age restriction of 18 on Penthouse for the next 2 years even if we should find that the preponderance of issues were indecent. In those circumstances he said the Tribunal still had power to make the restriction order sought, but should direct that the magazines which were thought indecent should be re-submitted for classification so that they individually might be declared indecent. Although he had argued to the contrary in a previous case (see Decision No. 485), Mr Heron was prepared to accept that the rather roundabout course of action described above was envisaged by the provisions of section 15A because the Tribunal on 2 previous occasions (Decision Nos. 845 and 1038) had ruled that publications may be referred to the Tribunal for individual classification notwithstanding that a 2-year restriction classification is in force in respect of that publication.

Mr Heron submitted that we should accede to the approach he put forward because section 15A was enacted so as to facilitate the free flow of controversial magazines and to avoid the constant reference of serial publications to the Tribunal. While we agree with some aspects of Mr Heron's interpretation, we think it desirable to make some comment of our own on the purpose of section 15A.

We think the section is specifically aimed at periodical magazines such as Penthouse, which are published at regular intervals during the year.

In order to circumvent the necessity for such periodical or serial magazines being constantly seized and referred to the Tribunal the Legislature has permitted the Tribunal a discretion to make a 2-year forward classification of further issues of the publication in circumstances where it is able to form a clear opinion of the general nature of the publication. The Legislature has obviously thought that the Tribunal may be able to form an opinion on the perusal of no less than 3 issues of that publication, all published within a period of not more than 12 months.

We think it important to note in our view that the power to make a restriction order only exists in circumstances where the Tribunal has confidence that further issues of the publication will fall within the boundaries of the publications it uses to consider whether a section 15A order is merited. We think there is considerable strength in Mr Heron's submission that as a condition precedent to our ability to impose a section 15A order and an age restriction in the present case, we should find that the preponderance of the particular issues before us were not indecent. Conversely, we think that where the Tribunal anticipates that a publication may deteriorate, or where it is unhappy with the standard of the issues referred to it, a section 15A order should not be made.

Mr Leloir for the Comptroller of Customs submitted that if the Department did not have a section 15A order which imposed a blanket guideline in respect of Penthouse issues, chaos could reign in respect of the seizure of Penthouses imported by private individuals coming into New Zealand. Not only would customs officers have difficulty knowing the classification which attached to individual issues of the magazine, the situation was even more complicated because sometimes overseas travellers were able to purchase copies of the magazine published in advance of those available in New Zealand.

As well, Mr Heron strongly submitted that an age restriction together with a section 15A order should be made in the public interest. He said such an order would remove uncertainty as to classification for the distributor, and would also protect people from prosecutions that might follow a Penthouse issue that is only declared indecent after it has been distributed.

We sympathise with both the Comptroller's and the distributor's position in this matter. However, the Tribunal must not lose sight of the fact that the difficulty which precludes us from making a section 15A order is caused by the standard of content the publisher chooses to place in its magazine. If the objectionable scenes were omitted from the issues we classified indecent, then there is little doubt the Tribunal would have made the order sought by Mr Heron. The Tribunal should not be pressured into making a section 15A order because the Customs Department and the distributor may be caused considerable inconvenience. Indeed Mr Heron disclaimed the suggestion that the commercial interests of the distributor should prevail over the public interest. We agree. While section 15A is a "convenience" section in that it helps to avoid the constant reference of a serial publication to the Tribunal, we feel that caution must be invoked in relation to its use lest the commercial "convenience" of a publisher gain more importance in the eyes of the Tribunal than the interests of the general community.

In any event we do not think the distributor's position to be totally uncertain. We were informed by Mr Heron that proof or advance copies of Penthouse are usually available some time before the main importation of that issue into New Zealand. Such advance issues could easily be referred to the Tribunal for classification, thereby allowing the distributor to import according to the Tribunal's classification in individual cases.

Alternatively, we think that we have given reasonably clear guidelines in Decisions 1033, 1038 and the present case to enable the importer to know with some certainty when any particular issue of Penthouse may run into the danger of being classified as unconditionally indecent. Although we hesitate to lay down hard and fast rules, the danger at present when the normal content of Penthouse is embellished by:

1. Scenarios involving more than 2 models, and in which sex and violence and intimacy and/or deviant aspects of sex are depicted among the models;
2. Multiple model scenes which depict lesbian acts;
3. Heterosexual scenarios in which there is a high degree of intimacy (e.g., fellatio or cunnilingus or intercourse) depicted in the couple's actions.

The formal orders will therefore be:

- (a) The January, March, April, July, August, September, and October issues are declared indecent;
- (b) The February, May, June, November, and December issues are declared indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18;
- (c) The Tribunal refuses to make a section 15A order either in respect of a classification of indecent or a classification involving an age restriction on the U.S. edition of Penthouse.

Decision No. 1054

Reference No. Ind. 7/83

Before the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the following publications: Penthouse U.S. Volume 14, No. 5 (January) 1983, No. 6 (February) 1983, No. 7

(March) 1983, published by Penthouse International Ltd., New York:

Judge W. M. Willis (Chairman); Mesdames H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera; Messrs J. V. B. McLinden, I. W. Malcolm.

Hearing: 17 March 1983.

Decision: 18 March 1983.

Appearances: Mr Hillman for Comptroller of Customs. Mr Heron for importer, Gordon & Gotch (N.Z.) Ltd.

DECISION

THE January, February, and March 1983 numbers of Penthouse have been referred by the Customs Department for classification. This has been done at the request of the distributors, Gordon & Gotch (N.Z.) Ltd. Mr Hillman, who appeared for the Comptroller, submitted that the January issue be classified indecent but that the remaining 2 issues should be given an age restriction of 18 years. The distributors agreed with this view.

This is the fourth decision we have given in respect of the U.S. edition of Penthouse, in recent months. (See Decision Nos. 1033, 1038, and 1053). Because of what has been stated in those decisions we have not gone to any length to give detailed reasons for this decision. We have, of course, had regard for what has been said earlier.

In Decision 1053 in which we examined the January to December issues of that magazine for the year 1982, we made it clear that we were not prepared to make a section 15A order in order to permit Penthouse to be imported for the next 2 years, with an age restriction. We referred to the inconvenience and difficulty the distributor and the Comptroller might experience as a result of our ruling, but in order to try to alleviate their difficulties we set out broad guidelines in order to assist the parties when making their respective judgments as to the likely classification of future issues of the magazine. In summary, the Tribunal indicated that issues were likely to be classified as indecent if, in addition to their normal content, they contained pictorial scenes including the following:

1. Scenarios involving more than 2 models, and in which sex and violence and intimacy and/or deviant aspects of sex are depicted among the models;
2. Multiple model scenes which depict lesbian acts;
3. Heterosexual scenarios in which there is a high degree of intimacy (e.g., fellatio or cunnilingus or intercourse) depicted in the couple's actions.

Decision 1053 was released on 16 March 1983, and both the Comptroller and Mr Heron for the distributors have had an opportunity to peruse it before making their submissions in respect of the present 3 publications. The parties had obviously had regard to the third category above (heterosexual scenarios in which there is a high degree of intimacy) in accepting that the Tribunal would probably rule the January 1983 edition indecent. The article for concern in this issue is entitled A Tempest for Two and is contained at pages 134-147. It depicts scenes between a male and female model and is, in our view, needlessly and indecently explicit. We therefore propose to classify this issue as indecent.

The February and March 1983 issues are unexceptional and contain the usual Penthouse content. As we have indicated in our prior decisions, we are not prepared to rule material of this type indecent in the hands of adult readers. The formal orders will therefore be:

1. The January 1983 issue of Penthouse is declared indecent.
2. The February and March issues of Penthouse are declared indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18 years.

District Court Judge W. M. WILLIS, Chairman.

STATEMENT OF ACCOUNTING POLICIES

1. (a) Amortisation of public securities—Book values of New Zealand Government and local authority securities which were purchased at a discount or a premium, are being amortised annually so as to attain their redemption values by maturity date.

(b) Profits and losses on realisation of public securities—The difference between book value and proceeds on realisation of New Zealand Government and Local Authority Securities is taken to Profit and Loss Account in equal annual instalments over a period of 5 years commencing with the year in which they arise.

2. Investments—The New Zealand Government and Local Authority Securities are all redeemable at par at fixed dates. Whilst in the ordinary course of business some realisation of the Bank's investment in these securities may take place at prices below book values, it is the opinion of the Directors that existing reserves are sufficient to cover any losses that are likely to arise on sales undertaken in the normal course of business.
