Special Arrangement for Fees for General Medical Services Provided as Paediatric Services

PURSUANT to section 117 (1) of the Social Security Act 1964, Michael Edward Rainton Bassett hereby makes the following special arrangement for fees for general medical services provided to children by medical practitioners who signify that they are willing to supply paediatric services for the fees and in accordance with the terms of this special arrangement.

Interpretation—For the purposes of this special arrangement:

- “Paediatric services” means those general medical services provided to:
 - (1) A child in respect of whom a family benefit is being paid.
 - (2) A child in respect of whom a family benefit would be paid under Part 1 of the Social Security Act 1964, if the Social Security Commission were satisfied that the child is likely to remain permanently in New Zealand.
- “Consultation” shall mean any general medical service other than an immunisation.

- “Surgery consultation” means a consultation provided at the medical practitioner’s surgery or place of residence.
- “Visit” means a consultation provided at any place other than at the medical practitioner’s surgery or place of residence.
- “Urgent” as in urgent surgery consultation or urgent visit shall refer to any general medical service for which additional fees are payable under the provisions of section 93A of the Social Security Act 1964.
- “Department” means the Department of Health.

Terms of special arrangement—

1. From 1 February 1985 and thereafter during the currency of this special arrangement, sections 93 and 93A of the Social Security Act 1964 shall not apply to paediatric services by any medical practitioner who has notified a Medical Officer of Health of his name, the address of his surgery, and that he is willing to supply paediatric services in terms of this special arrangement, and instead of the fee provided by the said sections 93 and 93A, the following fees will be payable:

Surgery consultation	$ 9.50
Visit	$11.50
Urgent surgery consultation	$13.00
Urgent visit	$15.00

2. Subject to clause 7 hereof, in respect of all paediatric services for which the above fees by way of benefit are claimed the total fees for surgery consultations which a medical practitioner may charge to patients inclusive of the fees by way of benefit shall be equal to or less than the fees (hereinafter called the “guideline fees”) which shall be:

Surgery consultation	$12.50
Urgent surgery consultation	$18.00

(Until reviewed under clause 4 of this agreement) or such higher fee as the Minister may approve in respect of individual medical practitioners on the recommendation of a Children’s Fees Advisory Committee or the Central Paediatric Fees Committee as hereinafter described.

No guideline fee shall apply in respect of visits.

3. The guideline fees provided by clause 2 of this special arrangement shall, by 1 August in each year, be reviewed by a committee to be known as the “Central Paediatric Fees Committee” appointed by the Minister of Health, under section 121 of the Social Security Act 1964.

4. The terms of reference for the committee appointed under clause 3 of this special arrangement shall be:

- To determine the guideline fees for paediatric services by way of surgery consultation and urgent surgery consultation with a general practitioner for each year beginning 1 August, and
- To consider applications, from individual medical practitioners, referred to it by a Children’s Advisory Fees Committee, to charge a specified amount (hereafter called “the premium fee”), over and above the guideline fee and to make a recommendation to the Minister in accordance with clause 2 hereof.
- To report as required to the Minister on the level of premium fees recommended by the Children’s Fees Advisory Committees.

5. If the Central Paediatric Fees Committee appointed under clause 3 of this special arrangement fails to agree by a majority on guideline fees as from 1 August in any year the matter shall be referred to an arbitrator appointed by the Minister. This clause shall be deemed to be a submission within the meaning of the Arbitration Act 1908; and all the provisions of the Arbitration Act 1908 applicable to such a submission, including section 4 (implied terms) shall be incorporated therein.

6. Twenty-one Children’s Fees Advisory Committees will be appointed by the Minister under section 121 of the Social Security Act 1964. The committees’ geographical areas of responsibility will correspond to the divisional areas of the New Zealand Medical Association.

Each committee will comprise 4 members:

- Two general practitioners appointed by the Minister of Health.
- A Medical Officer of Health.
- One lay member appointed by the Minister of Health.

The committees will be serviced by the department.

Committees will select their own chairperson.

The committee will—

- (1) Examine and assess the justification for those fees for paediatric services of those doctors who either are in the special arrangement, or who apply to enter the special arrangement, and who wish to charge premium fees for paediatric services over and above the guideline fees.

- (2) If in the committee's opinion the premium fees proposed by the medical practitioner are acceptable, the committee shall recommend to the Minister accordingly.
- (3) If the committee does not make a recommendation under paragraph (2) above, then the committee shall refer the matter to the Central Paediatric Fees Committee.
- (4) Record the premium fees, for paediatric services by way of surgery consultation, by participants in the special arrangement. Every approval recommended by the committee may be reconsidered by the committee at not less than 3-yearly intervals, upon appropriate notice to the practitioner concerned, who may make recommendations to the committee.

7. Any medical practitioner who is within the special arrangement may apply to a Children's Fees Advisory Committee for approval of a premium fee above the guideline fee specified in clause 2 of this agreement.

8. Any motor vehicle allowances and rural bonuses to which the medical practitioner is entitled under sections 94 and 94A of the Social Security Act 1964 shall apply with respect to paediatric services.

9. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions, any medical practitioner within the special arrangement shall be entitled on any particular occasion to charge a fee higher than the guideline fee for paediatric services which are of more than normal complexity or of longer than normal duration, but the reason for the higher fees must be clearly explained to the patient. In cases where accounts are sent to patients, a written explanation for the higher fee shall be furnished.

10. The medical practitioner shall impose surcharges only in respect of non-medical services such as the posting of accounts, if such surcharges are his or her well established practice at the time of signing this request and undertaking.

11. The medical practitioner shall provide at his or her surgery, the following information about his or her services;

- The hours at which services are available;
- The arrangement for out of hours services;
- Whether visits are made in appropriate circumstances;
- Whether maternity services are available;
- Whether family planning services are provided;
- His or her usual charges for paediatric services and the paediatric services benefits available;

That the medical practitioner has undertaken to provide services under the terms of this special arrangement.

This information shall be provided in such a manner as to be available to patients before consultations take place.

12. A medical practitioner who has requested participation in the special arrangement may withdraw from participation upon 2 months notice.

13. The Minister may remove from the special arrangement any medical practitioner who has breached any term of this special arrangement.

14. The special arrangement made on the 17th day of December 1984 is hereby revoked.

Dated the 31st day of January 1985.

MICHAEL BASSETT, Minister of Health.

Decision No. 3/85
IND 22/84

Before the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963 and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the following application:

Gay Scene, Volume 15 No. 1, published by Regiment Publications U.S.A.

Chairman: Judge W. M. Willis.

Members: Mesdames H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera; Messrs J. V. B. McLinden, I. W. Malcolm.

Hearing: Wellington, 13 December 1984.

Appearances: No appearance of importer, the Lawrence Publishing Company (N.Z.) Ltd. Mr K. Wild for Comptroller of Customs.

DECISION

This is a single copy of a private importation seized at Auckland in July 1984. The importer has disputed forfeiture so that it is referred for classification.

Although there was no appearance at the hearing, there was a suggestion in a letter dated 20 November 1984 that the publication was a newspaper and therefore not within the jurisdiction of this Tribunal. The letter also mentions what might be made relevant to this Tribunal.

Our jurisdiction is clear. "Book", is defined in section 2 as meaning:

"any book, magazine, or periodical (other than a newspaper published at intervals of less than a month) whether in manuscript or final form; and includes any picture-story book, whether likely to be read by children or not."

Gay Scene is said to be published monthly so that it comes within the definition of a book.

The submissions of the comptroller were very brief:

"This publication is clearly aimed at the male homosexual market. The textual content, photos and advertisements are almost entirely homosexually oriented and would only have appeal to persons so sexually inclined.

It is submitted that because of the content of this publication the Tribunal may consider it to be indecent and it therefore submitted under the provisions of section 14 of the Indecent Publications Act 1963."

We agree that the publication is clearly aimed at the homosexual market but there is a substantial section of the contents which are unexceptional. About 5 pages are devoted to film reviews and two pages of obituary notices of prominent people. There are some other pages about which we would have no complaint. Despite this we must agree with the submissions of the Comptroller that the publication is directed towards a homosexual market. The so-called "personals" on page 22 are clearly so directed. So, too, are other parts of the contents. We accept that homosexuality is not an offence. However, when a publication tends or is intended to lead persons to homosexual behaviour then it can be said to come within the definition of indecency.

The dominant effect of this particular publication would be to encourage rather than discourage homosexual behaviour. It has no literary, artistic or other merit, although we acknowledge that it is not badly written. The price appears to be $US1.25 which could, in the circumstances, be a barrier to sale particularly as it is an American publication. The likelihood of corruption would out-weigh any benefit. The purpose is honest enough but once again it is directed towards a criminal activity. In our view it is injurious to the public good and therefore must be classified as indecent.

Dated at Wellington this 1st day of March 1985.

W. M. WILLIS, Judge.

Decision No. 1/85
IND 27/84

Before the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963 and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the following publications:

9 Mail Order Forms to Swish Publications Ltd.—published by Swish Publications Ltd., England;
TRANZ, Volumes Nos 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, published by Swish Publications Ltd., England.

Chairman: Judge W. M. Willis.

Members: Mesdames H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera; Messrs J. V. B. McLinden, I. W. Malcolm.

Hearing: Wellington, 13 December 1984.

Appearances: Mr R. P. Wotherspoon for importer. Mrs A. E. Gaskell—counsel for informant.

DECISION

The publications which the Tribunal is called upon to consider were taken along with other items pursuant to a search warrant issued under a Customs Act. A prosecution followed. The District Court has referred them to the Tribunal for classification.

We will deal with the mail order form first. Mrs Gaskell, for the informant, submitted that although they are not specifically included in a definition of books, the Tribunal had jurisdiction to classify them because, on other occasions, catalogues had been classified in one way or another.

It is true that catalogues have been classified as indecent but in the view of the Tribunal these mail order forms differ in appearance and presentation from previous material considered. For example in the Venus Shop catalogue (Decision No. 999) decision dated 6 August 1981 we noted that the publication under consideration was a catalogue which consisted of a listing of sexual aids, apparel, and vibrators with a booklet consisting of 32 pages. In addition to that material each catalogue showed photographs of semi-nude women posed in contrived and provocative positions.

In Decision No. 1039, dated 7 October 1982 we considered the publication Centurians Whole Catalogue of the Exotic and Bizarre. In the course of our decision we noted:

"Bondage appliances feature entirely through the 146 pages while most of the products advertised depict nude or near-nude females attired in bondage gear. . ."

We repeat that neither of the above publications is similar to the present material.

We think that these single page mail order forms could not be classified as books although they obviously may be documents. In that regard we note in passing that in Police v. Brian (1971) NZLR 119 Roper J held that a book displaying a single page could constitute a document.

It was suggested to us by the defendant to the District Court proceedings that the Tribunal had jurisdiction to classify the forms because both he and the informant had consented to that course. Unfortunately the consent of the parties to have the matter heard by the Tribunal was irrelevant because section 17 of the Indecent Publications Act would have required that the Tribunal should have dealt with the matter anyway. The provisions of the Act make it mandatory for the Court to refer the question of indecency to the Tribunal, which has exclusive jurisdiction to consider that issue so far as it relates to books and sound recordings. But as we have ruled that these mail order forms are not books we are required by the terms of the legislation to decline jurisdiction and to rule that they must be considered by the District Court.

Turning now to the TRANZ magazines, it is convenient to relate the submissions of the informant and of the importer in full. For the informant Mrs Gaskell said this:

"The above mail order forms are in the nature of advertisements for magazines, books, photographic journals and films on the subject of transvestism. Each mail order form is in black and white and has an illustration or photograph on it, usually showing a male in female clothing or underclothing. Each leaflet contains some text, designed to titillate the reader and to tempt him to buy the advertised publication.

The six TRANZ magazines are, again, in black and white and consist of text, photographs and advertisements for the paraphernalia of transvestism and publications dealing with that subject. The text of the magazine includes letters from readers relating their experiences and feelings as transvestites. There is also a personal contact column in which people can advertise their willingness to meet others of like inclination and preferences.

The standard of the TRANZ magazines is variable, but tends to be lightweight in content and amateurish in presentation. The photographs range from unobjectionable to very explicit shots of male genitalia. The motive for these publications is to stimulate interest through sexual fantasies relating to transvestism, female domination and homosexuality. In my submission, there is no redeeming artistic or literary merit in these magazines.

It is submitted that because of the contents of these publications, the Tribunal may consider them indecent."

Mr Wotherspoon, for the defendant said:

"The TRANZ magazine is published for a special interest group those who have a personal interest in transsexual matters. It is not for public distribution and sale in New Zealand and can only be subscribed to from Britain. It does not therefore present any danger to the public good. It does not set out to have literary or artistic merit but rather it is designed to be a forum for sharing experiences. The magazine is not designed to arouse but to inform. Finally it is submitted that explicit shots of male genitalia are not indecent. It is further submitted that these photographs are not purient, do not involve copulation and other models are not involved to suggest any intimacy of "group" scenes.

The readers of TRANZ are unlikely to be corrupted by the contents of these magazines because to be aware of the publication they are likely to have a prior knowledge of and an interest in the material that TRANZ contains.

It is submitted that these publications present no danger to the public good and that the Tribunal should not consider them to be indecent."

We think, generally speaking, the submissions of Mrs Gaskell must be accepted as being correct, although there are few of what she described as "very explicit shots of male genitalia".

We are unable to accept Mr Wotherspoon's submission that these publications could not be obtained in New Zealand for public distribution and sale. In any event, the fact that they are obtained by a private subscription does not mean that they cannot be classified as indecent.

We accept that in certain circumstances explicit shots of male genitalia are not indecent but this obviously depends upon the context in which the photographs are presented. In this case we see the material as being part of a publication which is injurious to the public good in that it seeks to promote aberrant sexual practices.

We are also unable to accept Mr Wotherspoon's submissions that the readers of TRANZ are unlikely to be corrupted by the contents of the magazine. It is enough to refer to the dicta of Lord Wilberforce in DPP v. Whyte (1972) 1 All ER 12 at 19 (HL) and what we said in Decision No. 1033, dated 8 October 1982, Penthouse U.S. Volume 13 to show that this argument has been rejected on previous occasions.

In our view the dominant effect of the TRANZ publications is that it would be injurious to the public good and so they ought to be classified as unconditionally indecent.

Dated at Wellington this 1st day of March 1985.

W. M. WILLIS, Judge.

Decision No. 2/85
IND 21/84

Before the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963 and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the following publications:

Knockabout Comix 6—published by Knockabout Comics, England;

DOA Comics No. 1—published by Saving Grace, U.S.A.;
The Checkered Demon—published by the Last Gasp, U.S.A.;
Deviant Slice—published by the Print Mint Inc., U.S.A.

Chairman: Judge W. M. Willis.

Members: Mesdames H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera; Messrs J. V. B. McLinden, I. W. Malcolm.

Hearing: Wellington, 13 December 1984.

Appearances: D. Campbell for importer, Blue Funk Press, K. Wild for Comptroller of Customs.

DECISION

We were informed that these publications were single copies of a shipment of sample copies stopped at Auckland. The Comptroller of Customs, sparsely worded submission does not tell us the date of interception. The submission suggests that these publications are indecent because of previous rulings for this type of publication by the Tribunal.

A Mr Donald Campbell appeared for the importer, which was an entity calling itself Blue Funk Press. He was not a principal of that organisation, but we gathered that he either worked for them on a full-time or freelance basis. He advised us that he had selected the comics from a reference catalogue, and had not known of the contents of the publications until he had a chance to inspect them at the hearing.

His principal submission was that the comics should not be held indecent because they would be used in his research as an artist/comic writer. When we asked him to provide details of his background in this area he said that he had been interested in comics for a number of years and in fact had published and sold two issues.

In response to further questioning he stated that he was a self-taught artist and had no formal qualifications. Unfortunately Mr Campbell had not brought any of his work with him when he came to the hearing. We invited him to provide the material when he returned to Auckland and he did so. He informed us in the letter accompanying his work that his basic theme was human folly. The material supplied to us is clearly of an amateur nature, but we have no doubt from its content, and from Mr Campbell's actions in attending the hearing and sending the material when requested, that he is genuinely trying to convey his views about our society in his work.

Under section 10 of the Indecent Publications Act one of the functions of the Tribunal is to:

"... classify books... as indecent unless their circulation is restricted to specified persons or classes of persons or unless used for a particular purpose, as the case may be."

We think that prima facie we have the power to release some or all of the imported publications into Mr Campbell's possession for the purposes specified by him. Two matters arise for consideration before such a course can be followed and we deal with these in turn:

Firstly, are the publications suitable for the purpose stated by Mr Campbell?

It has to be borne in mind that Mr Campbell selected these publications from the titles which were listed in a catalogue. He had no opportunity to assess the publications' content prior to them being seized by the Customs Department. It seems to us that because of this factor, his bona fides in importing or assisting to import the publications were at the time beyond doubt. Notwithstanding that, it is necessary to outline in some detail the content of the various publications. There is a mixed bag. Some are bizarre and offensive in that they deal with cannibalism, mutilation, infanticide and sexual perversity of a gross nature.

However a number of the comics deal with themes the subject of current debate in New Zealand, e.g., the use of nuclear weapons. We set out the salient points of the individual publications as follows:

The Chequered Demon (2 identical issues)—This is a comic featuring a character known as the Chequered Devil. The cartoons tell the story of the character being kidnapped and enslaved in some Middle Eastern country. Sex and violence are predominant features of the publication, and it does not appear to us to have any redeeming features.

DOA Comics No. 1—This publication carries a number of articles dealing with death and sex. One section features a character called the Old Codger who dismembers and eats people; another features a character called "Kid Kill" who specialises in infanticide of the most revolting kind.

Occult Laff Parade—This magazine features a number of stories mostly dealing with offbeat and occult themes. One section features a cartoon of a sexual nature but the other parts of the comic are relatively innocuous.

The "Welcome to 1984" issue of Knockabout Comix—This comic mainly contains cartoons of a political nature. Themes of anarchy and nuclear war are dealt with. One section of the comic deals with satanic and sexual themes. Although the publication contains some profanity the material is not as offensive as contained in some of the other publications, and it could be argued that the balance of its content is of significance.

"Obscene" issue Knockabout Comics—This publication deals with cartoons relating to censorship. Some of the material contained in these features could be declared offensive but the material is presented largely in the course of an anti-censorship theme. We see nothing wrong in publishers attacking the laws of censorship, although this attempt is crude in places.

Aline & Bob's Dirty Laundry Comics—This is a difficult publication to classify as it deals with the relationship between the two characters named in the title. The characters go through a bizarre relationship, little of which is intelligible. In the course of the sketches some explicit sexual acts (intercourse and oral sex) are depicted. It has no genuine social theme as far as we are concerned and as a result we doubt its honesty of purpose.

Knockabout Comics No. 5 Hot Jazz—This publication deals with a number of innocuous themes. There is one feature that deals with issues of women's liberation in a crude and explicit fashion, but on balance we consider it has redeeming features.

Aline & Bob's Dirty Laundry Comics—This publication deals with the same characters as referred to in the other issue. It is unnecessarily sexually explicit and this leads us to doubt its honesty of purpose. It has no features which commend its value.

Deviant Slice—This publication deals mainly with violence. Firstly, in the story of a heroin addicted Vietnam war veteran who hallucinates and perpetrates a mass murder when robbing a bank to buy some more heroin; the publication culminates in a knife fight, torture and mutilation session between a man and a woman in a setting in which the sexes are warring. The level of violence approaches that in DOA Comics No. 1 and drives us to the view that it is unacceptable because of its brutality.

Deviant Slice—This publication deals mainly with anti-war themes in a manner which we think may have some social significance.

It appears from our analysis that some of the publications are clearly contrary to the public good and are out of the area of Mr Campbell's concern. In the past we have had no hesitation in holding publications of a similar nature to be indecent, see e.g., decisions No. 941 (Tales from the Leather Nun, Volume 1) and 1047 (1984 Nos 9 and 10, 11 and 23).

The only issue remaining is whether any provision of the Indecent Publications Act prevents the less offensive material being released into Mr Campbell's custody. The most difficult provision is that contained in section 11 (3) of the Act which reads:

"When the Tribunal decides that any picture-story book likely to be read by children is indecent in the hands of children under a specified age that picture-story book shall be deemed to be indecent in the hands of all persons."

It could be seen from the above provision that two meanings could be taken from the words "... likely to be read by children ..."

One view might be that the publication falls within the above provision, because it appeals to and could be understood by children. An alternative interpretation is that a book is unlikely to be read by children if it is physically unlikely to be seen by them—i.e., there are not large numbers of the publication available and the copies that do exist are held in controlled circumstances designed to ensure that children do not have access to them.

With some hesitation we adopt the latter interpretation in this case. As we understand the position, there is only the one copy of each of these publications in New Zealand, as they were not commercially imported. We stress however that we have not had an opportunity to hear any detailed arguments from either of the parties in this case on the construction of s. 11 (3) and it might well be that the Tribunal could be persuaded to take a different view of that section. However, in the present circumstances we feel able to release certain of these publications into Mr Campbell's custody on the condition referred to below. The formal order is that the following publications are declared indecent:

The Chequered Demon (two issues)
DOA Comics No. 1
Aline & Bob's Dirty Laundry Comics (two issues)
Deviant Slice (Vietnam issue).

The following publications are indecent except in the hands of Mr Campbell who is to use them for his own research as an artist/comic writer:

Occult Laff Parade
The "Welcome to 1984" issue of Knockabout Comics
"Obscene" issue of Knockabout Comic
Knockabout Comics No. 5 "Hot Jazz"
Deviant Slice (nuclear war issue).

Dated at Wellington this 1st day of March 1985.
