DECISION

(1) Auckland University Students Association Inc.

The applicant seeks a series of authorisations to permit broadcasting from Sunday, 16 February 1986 to Sunday, 7 December 1986 daily from 7 a.m. to 1 a.m. on weekdays and continuously in weekends.

In the previous year the station had broadcast for a similar period but terminated its weekday morning transmissions at 10 a.m. on weekdays and resumed at 4 p.m. There were also periods during the year when it broadcast right through the day.

The application is otherwise similar to the previous year and attracted support from several private commercial stations in Auckland but drew opposition from the Broadcasting Corporation. On 17 October the Corporation wrote:

"The Corporation objects to and opposes this short-term application.

"1. From its beginning as a part time station to cater for students' needs during term times, the Auckland University Students station now has the aspect of a full time warrant without the obligation (incumbent on all other full time operations in Auckland) to justify itself in an open Tribunal hearing. With respect, this makes a mockery of the Tribunal system.

"2. Some of the advertising revenue of $70,000 would have to be advertising pool money which would normally accrue to the young adult station, 1ZM. That advertising pool is limited, and the warrant condition under which 1ZM operates requires a 24 hour operation for 365 days of the year. That operation is open to regular review before the Tribunal.

"3. In section 3.1 of this application, 50 percent of the purposes of the station are purely concerned with alternative radio. Only 1 of the 8 purposes is specifically student orientated.

"The Corporation submits that if the student station is not to have a full (Tribunal) hearing the following restrictions should apply:

- (a) The station be restricted to broadcasting during weekdays only in term time, and
- (b) Advertising be restricted only to a proportion of the broadcast day."

The applicant was informed of these objections and responded to them, making the following points:

1. The applicant has expanded with increased staff resources and expertise over 11 years in steady natural growth but was not ready for full time broadcasting because of limited income and the use of voluntary services of students.
2. Although 1ZM's ratings have dropped, the applicant's ratings have not correspondingly increased. The advertisers use the station because no other station attempts to appeal specifically to students and other young people interested in student activities and alternative entertainment.
3. The objectives have been virtually unchanged for the past 5 years.

The applicant saw the radio station as having a twofold function: providing services for students and providing an alternative to mass market radio for Aucklanders with differing interests and tastes, the majority of whom are students. Five of the 8 stated objections cover services specifically aimed at students.

A large number of letters were directed to the Tribunal from listeners which, to say the least, indicated a loyal and committed following which disdained much of the mass audience mainstream programming epitomised by other stations including 1ZM.

The Broadcasting Corporation wrote again on 10 December 1985 as follows:

"Further to my letter of 18 October 1985, it is considered desirable (particularly in view of the response contained within your letter of 8 November) to clarify the Corporation's view and position.

"The Corporation at all times upholds and supports the specified student aims of University student radio stations. In this case the Corporation, while not opposing this short-term application, wished to raise objections to and comment on some points of that application.

"I would be pleased if you would forward a copy of this letter to the applicant for its information."

The BCNZ had clearly opposed the application and still requests a shortening of hours previously broadcast by eliminating weekend coverage and requests a reduction in advertising, unless the Tribunal holds an oral hearing.

On a number of occasions objectors to student applications have raised the bogey that the applicant does not have to go through the same procedures as a commercial warrant applicant.

The Tribunal has set out the considerations it takes into account in student applications. Decision 11/82 will be reissued by the Registrar with this decision.

When the Broadcasting Act was first passed in 1976 there was provision for authorisations for up to 28 days. The Broadcasting Amendment Act 1979 extended the powers of the Tribunal to permit a series of short term broadcasts each for a period not exceeding 28 days during a period not exceeding 1 year, in all.

One of the purposes of this amendment was to permit student applications to be dealt with annually rather than repetitively through a number of separate 28 day applications.

The Tribunal considers that for student applications this procedure is the most appropriate. With a shifting student population and frequent changes of management it is inappropriate for a student station to contemplate an application for a permanent warrant unless it is employing full time permanent executive staff.

The stations are generally of much lower power than warranted stations.

Furthermore, the present procedure is in fact stricter than the warrant procedure, in that the applicant has no right of renewal at all, whereas a warrant holder has a perpetual right of renewal subject to a review on every third renewal if it is an FM station.

Therefore the student stations have to lodge applications annually and other operators or anyone else can raise objections as the Corporation has in this case. The stations have a far greater incentive to abide by the terms of the authorisation and to maintain standards because a new application has to be approved each year, not a renewal.

On the other hand it would be quite ridiculous, in terms of resources, to be having full formal hearings for a number of student applications in a number of centres each year unless there were serious objections.

The Tribunal therefore generally deals with applications on the basis of written submissions.

It is important however that the students bear in mind the limitations of their authorisations. If they wish to become full time commercial broadcasters seeking a commercial market and to obtain the permanency of a warrant then somewhat different standards will be applied to such applications than are applied to the present applications which are made each year.

Although the Corporation has withdrawn its objection and there is no other objection, it is appropriate to deal with the matters it has raised, since the Tribunal indicated to the parties that it would approve an authorisation along similar lines to the ones granted for 1985.

On a full consideration of the matter the Tribunal has now decided to grant the application for the extended hours as made. In doing so it has taken into account the matters raised in the objection.

For 1985 the applicant applied for an FM station. The site on the top of a city hotel was not a high site but it was not a low site either. The power applied for was 500 watts but only 100 watts was certified by the Post Office. The applicant accepted this to avoid confrontation with other Auckland stations intending to make applications for FM authorisations. Signal coverage allowed the station to serve only a proportion of its members.

The applicant said it would investigate the possibility of broadcasting from a site in the Waitakeres, as soon as additional frequencies and finance were available in 1987 or 1988. The station however had raised a loan to set itself up with FM transmission equipment instead of replacing its AM equipment and some hardship would have been involved in refusing the FM application.

No guarantee could be given in respect of short term authorisation that the frequency would be made available again. It might have to be surrendered at some time.

The Post Office has indicated its willingness again to certify the station at 100 watts which indicates that there were no serious problems encountered with the transmission. It is clear however that further assignments may need to be made in 1986 and this short term authorisation will not necessarily have priority over other services for frequency assignment.

The station has progressed over the past 11 years to the point where strong reasons would have to be given to justify restricting services to students. If the station attracts wider audiences by providing alternative music (as distinct from setting out to adopt a format and style directly competitive with commercial warrant-holders) we can see no result adverse to the public interest.

In the case of 1ZM when the station transferred to limited sponsorship it had an opportunity to provide public service broadcasting free from commercial objectives. It has eschewed that role and continued with a commercial type format and broadcast music for most of its broadcast hours.

It is therefore surprising that it should seek to limit the student station, unless it was because of the embarrassment caused by the student station fulfilling some needs which ought to have been met by public radio. The BCNZ should be encouraging diversity and innovation in other radio stations if it sees its own role as serving different interests. It already has a dominant position in Auckland radio and it seems remarkable to the Tribunal that it should have endeavoured to have the student station's transmitters turned off at weekends.

The revenue of the student station is miniscule compared with the total revenue of the Auckland market. The Tribunal accepts that it provides a good advertising service for certain advertisers, probably attracting a proportion of revenue which would not otherwise be spent on radio.

The Tribunal considers it appropriate that university students should be encouraged in radio endeavours. It is widely acknowledged that the experience gained by young student broadcasters has been usefully employed in the industry.

The station provides a service to those whose special music needs are satisfied only by a variety of music offered to them at convenient hours. Commercial interests do not adequately meet these needs and this merely emphasises that there are needs outside mass audience formats waiting to be served.

Two commercial stations have written indicating support for this application. No doubt the applicant would be even more encouraged if the commercial radio stations in Auckland were actually to assist and support or even help finance the student station as an indication of their commitment to broadcasting outside their profit centred activities.

The application will be granted as applied for.

It should be understood that the availability of the FM frequency is subject to other demands on the FM band and the applicant cannot be assured of this availability for the full period authorised.

(2) Victoria University of Wellington Students Association Inc.

The Victoria University of Wellington Students Association application this year seeks an extension of hours to enable broadcasting between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. on weekdays during the whole period from 16 February to 7 December. This was permitted for a limited period last year.

Having regard to the service offered, the recent performance and the fact that there has been no objection to the application, and also bearing in mind some of the considerations which relate to Auckland University Students Association application, the Tribunal grants the application as applied for.

(3) Massey University Students Association Inc.

This application is for 18 hours per day, broadcasting from 7 a.m. until 1 a.m. during the period 16 February 1986 until 18 October 1986.

The previous year's application was for 7 a.m. to 1 a.m. for the earlier part of the year, and 4 p.m. to 1 a.m. weekdays and 7 a.m. to 1 a.m. on weekends from 11 August to 28 September.

The same comments made in relation to the Victoria University of Wellington Students Association Inc's application apply here. There have been no objections to the application, considering the service offered and their recent performance, the Tribunal grants the application as applied for.

(4) Waikato University Student Union Inc.

This application is for the period 16 February until 23 November 1986. Hours for weekday broadcasts will be from 7 a.m. until midday and 4 p.m. until 1 a.m., with weekend broadcasts from 9 a.m. through to 1 a.m. Weekday hours during Orientation, Capping, No Ordinary Weeks and the last week of broadcast will be 7 a.m. to 1 a.m., and the holiday periods' hours will be midday to 1 a.m. (a period of 12 weeks out of the total 40 weeks).

For the same reasons this application is granted.

Decision No. 11/82

BRO. 18/82

Before the Broadcasting Tribunal

IN the matter of the Broadcasting Act 1976, and in the matter of an application by AUCKLAND UNIVERSITY STUDENTS' ASSOCIATION INC. for a short term broadcasting authorisation:

Chairman: B. H. Slane.

Counsel: A. Dormer—for the Applicant.

B. Hudson—for the Broadcasting Corporation of New Zealand.

B. G. Impey—for the Independent Broadcasters' Association Inc.

REASONS FOR DECISION

THE applicant applied for a short term broadcasting authorisation to permit broadcasts during the second term at the University from 30 May to 14 August 1982 and during the third term from 5 September to 27 November 1982.

It was proposed that the station (known as Radio B) would broadcast from 1600 hours until 0100 hours on the following morning on weekdays and from 0700 to 0100 hours on the following day on Saturdays and Sundays.

The total maximum hours of broadcasts for the two periods stated above would be 891 and 972 respectively—a total of 1863 hours. The proposed station would be used to provide information to staff and students of the University, to promote the activities of clubs and societies and welfare and other services available to students, to promote cultural events that have relevance to the audience, to provide a progressive and alternative music programme, to feature and promote original New Zealand music, to provide specialist music programmes such as jazz, blues, reggae and ethnic music, and to provide an outlet for advertisers who offer products or services of relevance to the audience.

The station has broadcast previously under short term authorisations.

An advertised public sitting was held at the request of Radio I Ltd. which proposed to object to the application. Part of the objection was on technical grounds which we will refer to later.

The principal objection was on a matter of principle that the authorisation would establish broadcasting over periods extending over the greater part of the year with a significant commercial content.

Radio I Ltd. subsequently withdrew its objection and did not appear at the hearing.

However, the Independent Broadcasters Association appeared as an objector but did not formally oppose the grant. In effect Mr Impey appeared on behalf of other private warrant holders who he said supported student radio as a training ground and had supported Radio B in practical ways. The IBA wanted policy to be laid down by the Tribunal rather than to prevent Radio B from going to air. It was concerned about a series of short term authorisations and suggested the station should apply for a full time warrant rather than use a backdoor method. He submitted that there was a blurring of aims and suggested that consideration should be given to the FM mode.

Evidence was given in support of the application by Michael Brady, a former station manager, who traced the history of student radio which had developed to the stage where the station had broadcast for the whole of the first term carrying advertisements. He said that the present thinking of the station was that having provided a service which had met with an enthusiastic response from both students and the relatively small but clearly identifiable wide audience, it saw itself as being more than a fringe attempt at commercial radio operated for the amusement of the participants. He saw it as a valuable service to be extended and improved.

Mr Brady said the staff was voluntary and only managers and assistant managers received an honorarium of $20 per week during authorisations. The maximum period any staff member was likely to be with the station was 4 years and managers held office for no longer than 2 years. The transitional nature of staff and changes in personnel led to the evolution of new ideas and new formats and also created a degree of uncertainty as to the future directions of the station, so the Auckland University Students' Association was not in a position to give undertakings or commitments relating to the nature or size of its operation for more than a year in advance. The flexibility permitted by the short term authorisation procedure was ideally suited to the station's operation because it permitted change in development but allowed the Tribunal to review the station's operations from year to year. Mr Brady outlined the information services provided, the alternative music played and the promotion of New Zealand artists and labels.

He claimed that as a non profit making and essentially non commercial venture Radio B was not in the ratings game. It could afford to take risks with locally produced or alternative music which the majority of listeners in the age group might dislike. Listeners to Radio B expected a mixed bag and they were not put off by what they didn't like. Commercial stations could not afford to take the risk of playing music which may cause their listeners to turn to another station. Having identified their audience they must cater to its taste or risk alienating it. The music Radio B played could not be integrated into existing commercial station programme formats. Surveys had showed that there was a demand and the station produced a large number of letters and petitions to the Tribunal which had arisen out of a series of announcements on air about the forthcoming hearing.

He said that the advertising was primarily directed to students and was in the nature of a service to listeners and advertisers more than a commercial operation. He cited the Auckland Savings Bank extensively advertising its campus branch on the station. Other advertisers were suppliers and retailers who offered a student discount and those who provided service of special interest to the students such as speed reading and speed typing courses. The station also advertised concerts by band groups "who play our type of music." The advertising budget of $20,000 was miniscule compared with Radio I and Hauraki. The advertising content had been consistently held well below the 4 minutes per hour permitted by previous authorisations.

Mr Brady said that Radio B provided a training ground for Radio from which commercial radio stations had greatly benefited.

With regard to technical considerations he said that the Hobson Bay transmitter operated at 250 watts and the station had voluntarily offered to reduce its powers to 100 watts on receipt of any complaints from Hauraki or Radio I which could be substantiated. No complaints had been received from them or from any member of the public. He understood that no complaint had been lodged with the Post Office.

In cross-examination Mr Brady said he could see a time in the future when a warrant application might be made but the Association could not support and run a full time station as the students are engaged in full time study at the same time. The station had chosen 1404 kHz having had this assigned to them by the Post Office on a previous application. The aim of the station was to provide for students and music for a student audience. It was directed to students and others listened because they liked the music which was a vital ingredient of the station. The programme material was directed to Auckland University and Auckland Technical Institute students. The station did not carry any national advertising.

Evidence was also given along similar lines by Andrew Dickens the present station manager.

For the applicant, Mr Dormer amended the application to provide for a series of 28 days, namely—for the first term, 30 May to 27 June, 28 June to 26 July and 27 July to 14 August; in respect of the second period from 15 September to 1 October, from 2 October to 29 October and from 30 October to 27 November.

The Tribunal had an opportunity to read some of the letters that had been sent to the station and the Tribunal. While such letter writing can be orchestrated and petitions need to be taken with a certain amount of reserve, it was obvious from reading the letters that the feelings towards the station were strong and reasoned. The reader could be pardoned for thinking that both commercial and non-commercial operators in Auckland should be alarmed at the disillusionment that occurs among some thinking young adults about the lack of stimulation in the music presented in mass appeal commercial formats.

Contrary to the original submission made by Radio I Ltd., the Tribunal has previously considered the implications for broadcasting of extensive broadcasting by student radio stations. (Decision 3/81).

The Tribunal accepts the evidence put forward by the applicant. The Tribunal is satisfied after hearing this evidence that the application ought to be granted in the public interest. Not only is the service desirable, it is filling the needs of a section of the community and the impact on other stations is not such as to outweigh those considerations. Indeed no evidence of any possible commercial impact was produced other than by the applicant who referred to the station receiving recognition of its existence in a McNair survey which was not produced to the Tribunal.

The audience for such a station will be self-limiting providing the station continues properly to serve its student audience. In a previous decision (3/81) we said:

"Let it first be said that the Tribunal has encouraged student radio and has been disappointed that the provisions made in the Act which arose out of their own submissions for a more permanent form of authorisation or warrant have never been used by the student unions. We are not clear why. It is unfortunate that a number of applications have to be considered from some of the universities every year when it should only be necessary to consider one from each.

"It also needs to be said that the Tribunal does not regard such stations as general broadcasting stations providing a service to a young audience. Every application has to be treated on its merits and the student association applications are invariably put forward to provide a service to students. Any wider purpose invites the examination of the application on a commercial basis akin to a warrant application. It would have to be decided the extent to which the station should be in competition with those holding existing warrants which carry continuous transmission responsibilities and obligations to provide a number of other services to the community.

"University student association stations provide a worthwhile service to students. We do not consider that broadcasting by these stations should necessarily be confined only to periods such as orientation and we believe it would be better for such stations to have a more flexible approach as to hours of broadcast and the maximum number of hours per annum to develop services and provide for the needs of the university students without the need for several formal premeditated applications each year."

The evidence in this case points to the Students Association in Auckland conducting a station which is providing a good service to a specialist audience in accordance with its resources which would not justify an application for a full time commercial warrant. It is clear that the invitation from the Independent Broadcasters Association to make such an application is by no means an indication that it would meet with the support of the commercial operators in that city. It is rather an effort to try and have the proposals of the broadcasters at Auckland University adjudged on a full commercial warrant basis. The nature of their broadcasts and the limitations they place on themselves mean that their purpose is to broadcast to their own audience at specific times to suit that audience and not as a general broadcasting station.

The short term broadcasting procedure as provided for in the 1979 Amendment Act provides an ideal situation for the control and licensing of a student station. It gives an opportunity once a year for a hearing such as the present one to take place, for the personnel who change from time to time to be notified and for the station to remain sensitive to criticism and complaints.

The Tribunal considers the procedure exactly appropriate to the type of operation conducted.

We must say that it may well be that in serving their particular audience they will have some impact on other stations in the area. We have referred to this in previous decisions.

We have to remind private operators that the prime consideration of the Tribunal in such matters must be the interests of the public and not the commercial and fiscal interests of the proprietors of commercial radio stations.

That they may lose some small part of their audience follows from the authorisation of any broadcasting concurrent with the broadcasting from warranted stations. That some enterprising students might partly fill a gap in commercial radio services in Auckland should be a matter of congratulation for the system, not the basis of an attempt to stultify student broadcasting or to confine it to a self-financing training scheme for commercial radio.

The application has been granted for the purpose of providing an entertainment and information service to students of Auckland University. Advertising is limited to 4 minutes per hour.

The Registrar was directed to issue accordingly with the following conditions:

- (a) The holder of this Authorisation shall comply with the requirements of the Act and all Regulations issued thereunder.
- (b) Unless otherwise approved in writing by the Tribunal the holder of this Authorisation shall comply with all rules issued by the Tribunal.

- (c) The holder of this Authorisation is required to reduce power or cease transmissions at the direction of the Post Office at any time should harmful interference result from transmissions.
- (d) The holder of this Authorisation shall maintain a programme log and an advertising schedule and shall keep copies of any scripts used. The log, schedule and scripts to be available to the Tribunal if so called upon within 6 months.
- (e) The holder of this Authorisation shall, unless exempted by the Tribunal, conform to and maintain the technical standards and rules as formulated by the Corporation in consultation with the Independent Broadcasters Association Inc. including the furnishing of such technical returns as may from time to time be required by these rules and standards.
- (f) An audited statement of receipts and expenditure is to be forwarded to the Registrar within 3 months of the completion of broadcasting.
- (g) Advertising will be permitted to a maximum of 4 minutes per hour and shall be directed to the university student audience. If required by the Tribunal a list of advertisers and amounts paid for advertising shall be supplied within 1 month of the request therefor.
- (h) The necessary licence to operate a broadcasting station is to be obtained from the Post Office.
- (i) Programming material may also be directed to students of the Auckland Technical Institute.

Subject to the above, the station shall be operated in accordance with the application relating to the authorisation.

Dated the 23rd day of July 1982.

SCHEDULE II
CONDITIONS OF APPROVAL

CNG fuel cylinders are approved subject to the following conditions—

- That they be permanently and clearly marked, on a thickened portion of the cylinder, with characters not less than 6 mm high, if space permits, but in any case not less than 3 mm high, displaying the following information:
  - The specification to which the cylinder was manufactured.
  - The manufacturer's name or mark and the serial number of the cylinder.
  - The date of the original cylinder inspection and the identification mark of the inspection authority who made the inspection.
  - The date of any periodic cylinder test and the identification mark of the cylinder testing station who made each test.
  - The cylinder test pressure.
  - The design charging pressure of the cylinder.
  - The nominal water capacity of the cylinder.
  - Where required by the marking provisions of the specification to which the cylinder was manufactured, the tare weight of the cylinder.
- That they be clearly marked or labelled to indicate that the cylinder is suitable for use with CNG.
- That they be provided with valve threads of the form specified in British Standard BS 341 "Valve Fittings for Compressed Gas Cylinders".
- That they shall not be charged with CNG to a greater pressure than that approved by the Chief Inspecting Engineer appointed under the Gas Act 1982, as notified in the New Zealand Gazette.
- That they be provided with a cylinder shut off valve designed for the cylinder working pressure and compatible with the test pressure of the cylinder. Cylinder shut off valves shall be fitted with a handwheel to facilitate ease of opening and closing of the valve and shall be fitted with a pressure relief device, which remains in contact with the gas contained in the cylinder whether the handwheel is in the open or closed position, comprising of a burst disc backed by fusible alloy having a nominal melt temperature of 100°C. Should the alloy melt the burst disc shall yield at a pressure of not less than 24.7 MPa and not more than the test pressure of the cylinder, otherwise it shall remain inoperative. Cylinder valves shall be provided with an outlet thread of ¼ in NPT (female) and a stem thread compatible with the cylinder neck thread.
- That they be tested at periods not exceeding five years in accordance with the requirements of Australian Standard AS 2337-1980 or in accordance with the periodic test requirements laid down in the specification to which the cylinder was manufactured.
