Dumping and Countervailing Duties Act 1988

Termination of Dumping Investigation: Canned Catfood from Australia

Whereas by notice in the New Zealand Gazette of 23 March 1989, I gave a preliminary determination pursuant to section 12 (1) of the Dumping and Countervailing Duties Act 1988, that prepared catfood in airtight containers, put up for retail sale, manufactured by Uncle Bens of Australia, and imported or intended to be imported into New Zealand, is a good in respect of which I may direct the imposition of an anti-dumping duty in accordance with section 14 of the Dumping and Countervailing Duties Act 1988:

And whereas I am satisfied in respect of the goods specified above that there is insufficient evidence that material injury to a New Zealand industry has been or is being caused or is threatened or the establishment of a New Zealand industry is being materially retarded by means of the dumping of the goods:

Now therefore, I, David John Butcher, Minister of Commerce, acting pursuant to section 11 (1) (c) of the Dumping and Countervailing Duties Act 1988, hereby give notice that, for the reasons specified above, I have terminated the investigation with respect to the goods specified above.

Dated at Wellington this 15th day of June 1989.

Notice of Prohibition

1. Pursuant to regulation 8 of the Electrical Wiring Regulations 1976, notice is hereby given that the apparatus described below, in my opinion constitutes or may constitute an electrical hazard and is unsuitable for use in New Zealand.

Description: Tester Screwdriver for use on low voltage (230 V) equipment sold as part of "Electrical Home & Auto Tester Kit" and possibly also available as a separate item.

Construction: Handy Screwdriver with hollow plastic handle. The hollow section of the handle has inserted a voltage dropping device comprising an impedance, neon type bulb, and tension spring. Components are arranged in a series connection between the steel shaft of the screwdriver and a brass contact in the end of the handle.

The method of operation for testing advised is to place the tip of the screwdriver in the outlet, plug, etc. and touch the brass end of the handle. The neon bulb will illuminate if the circuit is ALIVE.

2. Faults—The known faults of the device are:

a. the impedance, which is essential for safety, is easily bypassed either intentionally or unintentionally because of the poor arrangement of the impedance and neon.

This could result in full mains voltage being applied to the handle end of the screwdriver.

b. the reliability of the impedance and/or the neon is questionable which could lead the user to assume a circuit is "dead" whereas the impedance or neon may have failed.

Dated at Wellington this 14th day of June 1989.

General

New Zealand Wool Board

Wool Industry Act 1977

Export Packaging Standards

Preamble

This "Direction on Export Packaging Standards" has been made by the New Zealand Wool Board (the "Board")

pursuant to its authority contained in section 21 (1) of the Wool Industry Act 1977. Notice of this direction is being given as required by section 21 (5) of that Act. The direction may be amended from time to time. Any such amendments will be published in this Gazette or as otherwise provided by section 21.

Enforcement

To ensure that all exported wool is packed in a condition fit for shipment the Board may appoint inspectors who shall be empowered to:

(i) enter on to any premises where previously packed wool ("bales") is held prior to export whether before or after dumping;

(ii) inspect the condition of the packaging of any such bale to determine if it is in a condition fit for shipment;

(iii) prohibit the shipment of any bale which is not in a condition fit for shipment;

(iv) inform the operator of the premises and the owner of the wool that such a prohibition has been imposed and require the owner of the wool or his authorized agent to have the bale(s) or dumped bale(s) restored to a condition fit for shipment.

The export of any bale(s) that is not in a condition fit for shipment is a breach of this direction and would constitute an offence against the Wool Industry Act 1977.

Objective

The objective of the application of Export Packaging Standards is to ensure that the packaging of each bale and each dumped parcel:

Provides acceptable containment of the contents, has not contaminated the contents; cannot contribute to further contamination; and will prevent such contamination.

Provides identification marks that are clearly and easily readable whether before or after dumping.

The requirement that all bales will be in a condition fit for shipment will be applied to all raw wool (greasy, scoured and slipe) delivered to and intended for shipment from source packing scours or Central Wool Facilities from 1 July 1989. The requirement applies to all bales—standard (capped and capless); dumped; and high density packed.

All bales to be exported from New Zealand shall be in a condition fit for shipment. All bales to be exported from New Zealand will be deemed for the purpose of this direction to be in a condition fit for shipment if shipment is not prohibited by this or any supplementary direction. The New Zealand Wool Board prohibits the exporting of bales that are not of a condition fit for shipment.

Prohibition will occur when in the case of:

1. The Standard Bale—The pack used is not:

(a) a regulation pack which meets the New Zealand Wool Board's specifications for new or recycled packs or;

(b) in the case of reused packs packed by Brokers, Scourers, Private Merchants, or Fellmongers the pack shows any previous branding.

Any repairs made to a pack do not comply with the standards set by the New Zealand Wool Board as necessary for approval for recycled packs.

Any grab slit does not accord with the following requirements:

(a) the length of any slit shall not exceed 200 mm;

(b) it shall not be made other than diagonal to the weave;

(c) in the case of polyethylene packs it shall be made only with a "hot knife";

(d) in the case of jute packs it shall be made only with a sharp knife;

(e) the slit must not in the opinion of an inspector contribute to contamination by being torn or having wool protruding from it;

(f) the slit must not weaken the pack by being on the same face as a repaired slit.

Greasy bales must not have more than 4 otherwise acceptable grab slits or have more than 2 on any one side of the pack.

Scoured bales must not have more than 2 otherwise acceptable grab slits.

Cuts and tears other than grab slits in packs must not have:

(a) protruding wool that is in the opinion of the inspector likely to be contaminated; or

(b) any cuts or tears that exceed 100 mm in length; or

(c) a number of small cuts and tears that in the opinion of the inspector could cause contamination or weaken the pack.

There are burst pack seams and burst repairs that in the opinion of the inspector create conditions in which contamination can occur, or allow wool to protrude, or lead to inadequate containment of the contents.

The cap is not sewn with approved twine or the individual stitch length exceeds 100 mm and/or has wool protruding from the stitched area, which is in the opinion of the inspector likely to contribute to contamination. All capped packs will be prohibited after the 30th day of May 1992.

The clipping of capless bales is done with:

(a) other than the approved wire clips; or

(b) less than 3 approved clips correctly spaced to hold the underflaps closed; or

(c) less than 4 regulation clips correctly spaced to hold the outer flaps closed, or

(d) wool protrudes from the clipped area to an extent which in the opinion of the inspector is likely to contribute to contamination.

If:

(a) overlapping brands, smudged brands, visible innerside brands, or painted-over brands prevent the identification marks and particularly the shipping brands from being clearly and easily readable;

(b) the shipping brand is not stencilled and/or the branding substance is other than the type approved by the New Zealand Wool Board;

(c) in the case of capless packs the shipping brand is not stencilled on the butt;

(d) the pack is wet and/or dirty causing in the opinion of the inspector damage or contamination of the wool or obscurity of the brands and identification marks.

2. Dumped Parcels:

(a) any individual component bale is not in a condition fit for shipment;

(b) the dumped parcel is not easily identifiable;

(c) an inadequate number of bands has been used to contain the parcel;

(d) the fabric is cut, torn or burst in a manner which could in the opinion of the inspector lead to contamination.

3. High Density Packs:

(a) the wrapping fabric is not of the type specified by the New Zealand Wool Board for high density packs;

(b) the wrapping fabric does not completely envelop the wool;

(c) the fabric is burst, cut or torn and is therefore likely in the opinion of the inspector to contribute to contamination;

(d) overlapping brands, smudged brands, visible innerside brands, or painted-over brands prevent the identification marks and particularly the shipping brands from being clearly and easily readable;

(e) an inadequate number of bands are used to contain the pack.

Disclaimer

Neither the board nor any inspector shall be liable for any claims, actions or proceedings whatsoever either in contract, tort or otherwise howsoever arising out of or consequential upon the application or enforcement of this direction.

Dated this 19th day of June 1989.

T. D. C. CULLWICK, Director, New Zealand Wool Board.
