Income Tax Act 1976

Determination G16: Discounted Value of Amounts Payable in Relation to Trade Credits Denominated in New Zealand Currency

This determination may be cited as "Determination G16: Discounted Value of Amounts Payable in Relation to Trade Credits Denominated in New Zealand Currency".

1. Explanation (which does not form part of the determination). (1) This determination provides the method to be used to calculate the core acquisition price for a trade credit under section 64BA (1) (b) (iii) of the Act where—

- (a) The trade credit is not a short term trade credit; and
- (b) The amounts payable in respect of the trade credit are denominated in New Zealand dollars; and
- (c) In relation to the trade credit all amounts payable and the dates on which they are payable are known at the first balance date after supply date; and
- (d) The term of the trade credit is known at the date of entry into the trade credit.

(2) A short term trade credit, where payment is required within 63 days after supply of the goods or services, is exempted from the scope of the accrual provisions by the definitions in section 64B (1) of the Act.

(3) Any other trade credit is subject to the accrual provisions of the Act and relevant determinations. In such cases the core acquisition price must be determined as at the date of supply of the goods or services.

(4) Sections 64BA (2) and (3) of the Act define acquisition price in terms of the core acquisition price, which is itself defined in section 64BA (1). Paragraphs (b) (i) and (ii) of that section provide two ways of determining the amount "u" which is required for calculating the core acquisition price. Where neither of these apply, paragraph (b) (iii) provides that "u" shall be "the discounted value of the amounts payable for the goods or services, as determined pursuant to a determination made by the Commissioner under section 64E (1) (f) of the Act".

(5) This determination requires an interest rate to be ascertained in accordance with Determination G13: Prices or Yields, as at the date on which the parties agree to enter into the trade credit. This interest rate is the market yield applying to bank bills of a similar term to the term of the trade credit; if the term of the trade credit is longer than 12 months the market yield on New Zealand Government securities must be used.

(6) The amounts payable are then discounted to the date of supply using the yield so ascertained and the present value calculation Method A in Determination G10: Present Value Calculation Methods, or an alternative method producing not materially different results. The present value so calculated is the amount of "u" to be used for calculating the core acquisition price.

2. Reference—This determination is made pursuant to section 64E (1) (f) of the Income Tax Act 1976.

3. Scope of Determination—This determination shall apply to every trade credit denominated in New Zealand currency in relation to which a person is a holder or an issuer, but it shall not apply—

- (a) To a short term trade credit; or
- (b) To a trade credit to which paragraph (b) (i) or paragraph (b) (ii) of the definition of "core acquisition price" in section 64BA (1) of the Act applies; or
- (c) Where in relation to the trade credit any amount payable or the date on which any amount is payable is not known at the first balance date after supply date; or

- (d) Where the term of the trade credit is not known at the date of entry into the trade credit.

4. Principle—The discounted value of amounts payable for the specified goods or services is calculated using—

- (a) The market yield to maturity available on traded debt securities of a similar term to the term of the trade credit, ascertained in accordance with Determination G13: Prices or Yields; and
- (b) Present value calculation Method A provided in clause 6 (2) of Determination G10: Present Value Calculation Methods, or an alternative method producing not materially different results.

5. Interpretation—(1) In this determination, unless the context otherwise requires—

Expressions used have the same meanings as in the Act and where a word or expression is given a particular meaning for the purposes of sections 64B to 64M of the Act is shall have the same meaning as in the said sections 64B to 64M;

"The Act" means the Income Tax Act 1976;

"Bank bill" means an order to pay, denominated in New Zealand currency to pay and drawn upon, and accepted by—

- (a) A registered bank as defined in section 2 (1) of the Reserve Bank of New Zealand Act 1964; or
- (b) Any person referred to in Part A of the First Schedule to the Reserve Bank of New Zealand Act 1964;

"Final payment" in relation to a trade credit means the last payment required to be made by the issuer of the trade credit under the trade credit, other than any amount that is not material in relation to the total consideration required to be given by the issuer under the financial arrangement;

"Paid", in relation to any amount paid to or paid by any person, includes distributed, credited, or dealt with in the interests of or on behalf of or to the order of the person; and, in relation to any amount, "pay", "payable" and "payment" have corresponding meanings;

"Specified goods and services" in relation to a trade credit means the goods and services supplied under the trade credit;

"Supply date" means the date on which the specified goods or services are supplied under the trade credit;

"Term" in relation to a trade credit means the period commencing on the day after the supply date and ending on the day on which final payment is required to be made.

(2) Any reference in this determination to another determination made by the Commissioner shall be construed as including a reference to any fresh determination made by the Commissioner to vary, rescind, restrict, or extend that determination.

6. Method—(1) For the purposes of subparagraph (iii) of the definition of "u" in section 64BA (1) (b) of the Act, the discounted value of the amounts payable for the specified goods or services in relation to any person shall be the present value as at supply date of amounts payable to or, as the case may be, by the person for the specified goods or services after the supply date.

(2) For the purposes of this determination, the present value as at supply date of amounts payable shall be calculated, subject to subclause (3) of this clause, using Method A provided in clause 6 (2) of Determination G10: Present Value Calculation Methods, or an alternative method producing not materially different results.

(3) For the purposes of subclause (2) of this clause the annual rate of interest at which the present value of the amounts payable is required to be calculated shall be—

- (a) Where the term of the trade credit is 12 months or less, the yield for bank bills of a similar term to the term of the trade credit:
- (b) In any other case, the yield for New Zealand Government stock of a similar term to the term of the trade credit—determined as at the date on which the parties agree to enter into the trade credit and according to Determination G13: Prices or Yields.

7. Example—(1) A trade credit is entered into on 1 December 1988. Under the trade credit, goods supplied on 17 February 1989 are to be paid by $400,000 in New Zealand currency on 14 July 1989. The term of the trade credit (period from day after supply date to final payment date) is therefore 147 days.

(2) The market yield on 1 December 1988 of bank bills maturing in 147 days is 13.5 percent ascertained in accordance with Determination G13: Prices or Yields.

(3) In this case, the purchaser is the "issuer" for purposes of the accruals legislation.

(4) Method A of Determination G10: Present Value Calculation Methods, is applied to calculate the present value as at 17 February 1989 (the "specified date") as follows—

$$\begin{aligned}
 A &= 0 \\
 B &= $400,000 \text{ (payable by the issuer or receivable by the holder)} \\
 C &= 0 \text{ (payable by the holder or receivable by the issuer)} \\
 R &= 13.5 \text{ percent (the specified rate)} \\
 N &= 365/147 \\
 &= 2.48299 \\
 F &= \frac{R}{100 \times N} \\
 &= 0.05437 \\
 \text{present value} &= \frac{A + B - C}{1 + F} \\
 &= $379,373
 \end{aligned}$$

This is "u" to be used in calculating the core acquisition price.

This determination is signed by me on the 10th day of July in the year 1989.

R. D. ADAIR, Deputy Commissioner of Inland Revenue. 20

Determination G17: Discounted Value of Amounts Payable in Relation to Deferred Property Settlements Denominated in New Zealand Currency

This determination may be cited as "Determination G17: Discounted Value of Amounts Payable in Relation to Deferred Property Settlements Denominated in New Zealand Currency".

1. Explanation (which does not form part of the determination). (1) In this determination an agreement for the sale and purchase of property or a specified option, where payment in full is not made at the time at which the first right in the specified property is to be transferred, will be called a "deferred property settlement". Where the first right in the property is transferred at the time of payment of the purchase price in full, the purchase price will be the lowest price determined for the purposes of section 64BA (1) (c) (i) and the discounting provisions described in this determination will not apply.

(2) This determination does not apply—

- (a) To short term agreements for the sale and purchase of property; or

(b) To short term options; or

(c) To private or domestic agreements for the sale and purchase of property; or

(d) To deferred property settlements where any amount payable is denominated in foreign currency; or

(e) To deferred property settlements where the total deposits and other amounts payable more than 31 days prior to the transfer date exceed 20 percent of the total purchase price (the reason for this is that the Act does not allow payments made before the transfer date to be accumulated with interest; it is therefore necessary to limit the misstatement of the core acquisition price that could occur as a result); or

(f) Where in relation to the deferred property settlement any amount payable or the date on which any amount is payable is not known at the first balance date after transfer date; or

(g) Where the credit term of the deferred property settlement is not known at the date of entry into the deferred property settlement.

(3) Short term agreements for the sale and purchase of property and short term options are agreements or options under which settlement is required within—

(a) 93 days of entry into the contract in the case of real property; or

(b) 63 days of entry into the contract in the case of other property.

Such short term agreements or options are excepted from the accruals provisions of the Act. A private or domestic agreement for the sale and purchase of property as defined in section 64B (1) is also an excepted financial arrangement.

(4) For all deferred property settlements, a core acquisition price must be determined as at the date on which the first right in the property is transferred; for ease of reference, this date is called the "transfer date" in this determination. Sections 64BA (2) and (3) of the Act define "acquisition price" in terms of the "core acquisition price", which is itself defined in section 64BA (1). In section 64BA (1) (c) (i) an amount "w" is defined as the lowest price that the buyer and seller would have agreed upon for the property on the basis of payment in full at the time at which the first right in the specified property is to be transferred. If there is no such lowest price, then paragraph (c) (ii) provides that "w" shall be "the discounted value of the amounts payable for the specified property as determined pursuant to a determination made by the Commissioner under section 64E (1) (f) of the Act".

(5) This determination requires an interest rate to be ascertained in accordance with Determination G13: Prices or Yields, as at the day the person becomes a party to the deferred property settlement. This interest rate is the market yield applying to bank bills of a similar term to the credit term; if the credit term is longer than 12 months the market yield on New Zealand Government securities must be used.

(6) The amounts payable are then discounted to the transfer date, using the yield so ascertained and the present value calculation Method A in Determination G10: Present Value Calculation Methods, or an alternative method producing not materially different results. The sum of the discounted amounts and any deposit or other amounts paid on or before the transfer date is the amount of "w" to be used for calculating the core acquisition price.

2. Reference—This determination is made pursuant to section 64E (1) (f) of the Income Tax Act 1976.

3. Scope of Determination—This determination shall apply to any deferred property settlement in relation to which a person is a holder or issuer, but shall not apply—

- (a) To any deferred property settlement where any amount payable (other than the property that is the subject of the deferred property settlement) is not denominated in New Zealand dollars; or

(b) To any deferred property settlement where more than 20 percent of the amounts payable is required to be paid more than 31 days prior to the transfer date; or

(c) Where in relation to the deferred property settlement any amount payable or the date on which any amount is payable is not known at the first balance date after transfer date; or

(d) Where the credit term of the deferred property settlement is not known at the date of entry into the deferred property settlement.

4. Principle—The discounted value of amounts payable for the specified property is calculated using—

(a) The market yield to maturity available on traded debt securities of a similar term to the credit term of the deferred property settlement, ascertained in accordance with Determination G13: Prices or Yields; and

(b) Present value calculation Method A provided in clause 6 (2) of Determination G10: Present Value Calculation Methods, or an alternative method producing not materially different results.

5. Interpretation—(1) In this determination, unless the context otherwise requires—

Expressions used have the same meanings as in the Act and where a word or expression is given a particular meaning for the purposes of sections 64B to 64M of the Act it shall have the same meaning as in the said sections 64B to 64M;

“The Act” means the Income Tax Act 1976;

“Bank bill” means an order to pay, denominated in New Zealand currency and drawn upon and accepted by—

(a) A registered bank as defined in section 2 (1) of the Reserve Bank of New Zealand Act 1964; or

(b) Any person referred to in Part A of the First Schedule to the Reserve Bank of New Zealand Act 1964;

“Credit term” means the period commencing on the day after the transfer date and ending on the day on which the final payment is required to be made;

“Deferred property settlement” means an agreement for the sale and purchase of property or a specified option under which any amount is payable after the date on which the first right in the specified property is transferred;

“Final payment” in relation to a deferred property settlement means the last payment required to be made by the issuer of a deferred property settlement under the agreement, other than any amount that is not material in relation to the total value of consideration required to be given by the issuer under the financial arrangement;

“Paid”, in relation to any amount paid to or paid by any person, includes distributed, credited, or dealt with in the interests of or on behalf of or to the order of the person; and, in relation to any amount, “pay”, “payable” and “payment” have corresponding meanings;

“Specified property” in relation to a deferred property settlement means the property that is the subject of the deferred property settlement;

“Transfer date” in relation to a deferred property settlement means the day on which the first right in the specified property is transferred.

(2) Any reference in this determination to another determination made by the Commissioner shall be construed as including a reference to any fresh determination made by the Commissioner to vary, rescind, restrict, or extend that determination.

6. Method—(1) For the purposes of subparagraph (ii) of the definition of “w” in section 64BA (1) (c) of the Act, the discounted value of the amounts payable for the specified property in relation to any person shall be calculated by summing—

(a) Every amount payable to or, as the case may be, by the person for the specified property on or before the transfer date; and

(b) The present value as at the transfer date of amounts payable to or, as the case may be, by the person for the specified property after the transfer date.

(2) For the purposes of this determination, the present value of an amount payable shall be calculated, subject to subclause (3) of this clause, using Method A provided in clause 6 (2) of Determination G10: Present Value Calculation Methods, or an alternative method producing not materially different results.

(3) For the purposes of subclause (2) of this clause the annual rate of interest at which the present value of the amounts payable is required to be calculated shall be—

(a) Where the credit term is 12 months or less, the yield for bank bills of a similar term to the credit term:

(b) In any other case, the yield for Government stock of a similar term to the credit term—determined as at the day on which the person becomes a party to the deferred property settlement and according to Determination G13: Prices or Yields.

7. Example—(1) A commercial property is sold for $1,500,000 under a sale and purchase agreement, subject to certain planning consents being obtained.

A deposit of $150,000 is paid on 20 December 1988, when the agreement is entered into. The balance of $1,350,000 is payable in two equal instalments due 3 and 6 months after the date of possession.

Under the agreement, possession passes to the purchaser on the date the sale becomes unconditional; the purchaser has no other prior rights.

On 3 March 1989 the planning consents are obtained and the sale becomes unconditional.

The credit term of the agreement (3 March 1989 to 4 September 1989) is 185 days (or 2 quarters). As this is under 12 months the yield on bank bills must be ascertained.

(2) The yield on bank bills of a similar term to the credit term ascertained on 20 December 1988 pursuant to Determination G13: Prices or Yields, is 13.2 percent.

(3) In this case, the purchaser is the “issuer” for purposes of the accruals legislation.

(4) Method A of Determination G10: Present Value Calculation Methods, is applied to calculate the present value as at 3 March 1989 (the “specified date”) as follows—

$R = 13.2$ percent (the specified rate)

$N = 4$ (since the payments are at quarterly intervals)

$$F = \frac{R}{100 \times N}$$

$$= 0.03300$$

(a) At 3 June 1989:

$A = 0$

$B = $675,000$ (payable by the issuer or receivable by the holder)

$C = 0$ (payable by the holder or receivable by the issuer)

$$\text{whence present value at 3 June 1989} = \frac{A + B - C}{1 + F}$$

$$= $653,437$$

(b) At 3 March 1989:

$A = $653,437$

$B = $675,000$

$C = 0$

$$\begin{aligned} \text{whence present value at 3 March 1989} &= \frac{A + B - C}{1 + F} \\ &= $1,285,999 \end{aligned}$$

(c) To this must be added the $150,000 deposit, giving a total present value of $1,435,999 which is the item "w" used in calculating the core acquisition price.

This determination is signed by me on the 10th day of July in the year 1989.
