Part II makes amendments to various provisions in the Goods and Services Tax Act 1985. These include the insertion of the definition of "Offices of Parliament" and the introduction of a new "hybrid" basis of accounting for goods and services tax, in addition to the existing invoice and payments basis. Part III amends the Stamp and Cheque Duties Act 1971 by redefining the term "public authority". The amendment is to ensure that the Stamp Duty exemption enjoyed by public authorities is confined to property held by public authorities on behalf of the Crown.
