Summary of Bills Introduced

Industry Training

This bill provides for the funding of industry training organisations, and for the payment by persons engaged in industries of levies providing funds for recognised organisations administering the delivery of industry-based training in those industries.

The bill seeks to encourage and improve industry-based training, and provide for the administration of approved programmes of industry-based training and training arrangements in the nature of apprenticeships. The bill also aims to provide for the protection of people receiving industry-based training.

The Technicians Training Act 1967 and the Apprenticeship Act 1983 are repealed and the bill provides for the continued administration of contracts under those Acts.

Energy Sector Reform

This bill effects major reforms in the electricity and gas industries.

The principal features of the bill are as follows:

- (a) Electric Power Boards are to be restructured. An Electric Power Trust will be established in respect of each Board, and the Board and the Trust will be required to form an electricity company in which the shareholders are the trustees of the Trust. The undertaking of the Board will then be vested in the electricity company, and the Board dissolved. Special provision is made in respect of the Waikato Electricity Authority:
- (b) The Local Government Act 1974 is amended to require local authorities to establish energy companies in which the shareholder is the local authority. The local authority will be required to transfer its electricity undertaking, and any gas undertaking, to the energy company. Provision is made for two or more local authorities to transfer their respective energy undertakings to one energy company in which the shareholdings are the local authorities so transferring their energy undertakings:
- (c) Provision is made for the holding of polls in relation to the ownership of the assets of Electric Power Boards and of local authority energy undertakings. An Electric Power Trust will be required to hold a poll if directed to do so by Order in Council, or if five percent or more of the consumers of the associated electricity company demand that a poll be held. The result of a poll will be binding:
- (d) The Electricity Act 1968 is repealed, and new provisions enacted in relation to the regulation of the supply of electricity. These include—
 - (i) The abolition of licences to supply electricity and consequentially the obligation on licenceholders to supply (although a licensing regime is continued on a transitional basis until 1993 in relation to the supply of electricity to consumers with an annual consumption of not less than 0.5 gigawatt hours for the year ending 31 December 1991):
 - (ii) The abolition of subsidies for rural electrical reticulation (although subsidies already granted will be honoured):
 - (iii) The abolition of the right of electricity suppliers to enter private property to construct and maintain electrical works (other than works already in existence):
 - (iv) New provisions relating to access, by electricity suppliers, to the road reserve and level crossings:
 - (v) New provisions relating to the disclosure of information by electricity suppliers:
 - (vi) New provisions empowering the making of regulations imposing price restraint in relation to electricity conveyed or supplied to domestic premises:
- (e) The Electric Linemen Act 1959 and the Electrical Registration Act 1979 are repealed, and new provisions enacted relating to the registration of electrical workers and the carrying out of electrical work. These include—
 - (i) The establishment of an Electrical Workers Registration Board to be responsible for the registration and discipline of electrical workers:
 - (ii) Provision for the issuing of licences to enable non-registered employees of approved organisations to do electrical work:
 - (iii) Greater scope for non-registered persons to do electrical work:
 - (iv) Provisions for registered persons carrying out electrical work to test and certify their own work, with provision for random inspections to be carried out under the supervision of the Electrical Workers Registration Board:
- (f) The Gas Act 1982 is repealed, and new provisions enacted in relation to the regulation of the supply of gas. These are similar to provisions for electricity listed under (d) (i), (iii), (iv), and (v) above.
- (g) The Plumbers, Gasfitters, and Drainlayers Act 1976 is amended with respect to gasfitting. These amendments include—
 - (i) Provision for the registration and discipline of gas inspectors:
 - (ii) The imposition, on the Plumbers, Gasfitters, and Drainlayers Board, of the responsibility to ensure the ongoing professional competence of registered persons undertaking gasfitting:

This section also contains similar provisions listed under (e) (ii), (iii), and (iv).
- (h) The State-Owned Enterprises Act 1986 is amended to provide for the Southland Electric Power Supply to become a State owned enterprise.

Financial Reporting

This bill requires issuers of securities to the public to file financial statements with the Registrar of Companies. It also provides for the establishment of an Accounting Standards Review Board which will have, as its principal function, the function of approving accounting standards. Financial statements will be required to comply with applicable accounting standards approved by the Board. If, however, the financial statements of the public issuer do not give a true and fair view of the affairs of the issuer, the financial statements will have to contain information and explanations so as to ensure that they give a true and fair view of those affairs.

Private Savings Bank (Transfer of Undertakings)

This bill provides for the transfer of the businesses of private savings banks to their parent banks.

Private savings banks are savings banks operated by subsidiaries of ANZ Banking Group (New Zealand) Limited, Bank of New Zealand, The National Bank of New Zealand Limited, and Westpac Banking Corporation.

The bill makes provision for assets and liabilities of a savings bank to become assets and liabilities of its parent bank on a date appointed by the Governor-General by Order in Council and for the dissolution of the savings bank company. The bill will also repeal the Private Savings Banks Act 1983.

Authorities and Other Agencies of State

Broadcasting Standards Authority

Broadcasting Act 1989

Tamaki By-Election—Qualification of Political Parties for Allocation of Broadcasting Time for Election Programmes

The Broadcasting Standards Authority ("the Authority") is writing to broadcasters in the Auckland region, and national broadcasters whose signals are transmitted in Auckland, inviting them to make free time available to political parties for the broadcasting of election programmes before the Tamaki by-election. While it has not received responses from all the broadcasters concerned, the Authority gives notice, pursuant to section 70A of the Broadcasting Act 1989 (as amended by the Broadcasting Amendment Act 1990 No. 2) ("the Act"), that any political party that considers that it will qualify for an allocation of time under section 73 of the Act (should it be made available by broadcasters) for the broadcasting of election programmes during the election period associated with the 1991 Tamaki by-election ("the election") must, pursuant to section 70A, notify the Authority in writing that it considers itself so qualified.

Any such notice must be received in writing by the Authority no later than noon on Monday, 23 December 1991. It should be addressed to the Executive Officer, Second Floor, 54-56 Cambridge Terrace, P.O. Box 9213, Wellington.

Any political party that considers it will qualify for an allocation of time under section 73 of the Act in respect of the election period must state, pursuant to section 70C of the Act—

(a) the full name of the political party;

(b) in respect of each person belonging to the political party who has declared his or her intention of becoming a candidate at the election—

(i) the full name of that person;

Under the provisions of section 70D of the Act any such person named in a notice to the Authority shall, until noon on nomination day for the election, be deemed, for the purposes of subsection (1) (d) of section 75 of the Act to be a candidate at the election, whether that person is nominated or not.

The attention of political parties is drawn to section 75 (1) of the Act, which provides that—

"The Authority shall not allocate any time to a political party under section 73 of the Act unless—

"(a) That political part conducts its affairs throughout New Zealand and has a national organisation; and

"(b) That political part has consistently expressed philosophies or policies on a range or issues over the 12 months immediately preceding the issue of the writ for the election; and

"(d) In the case of a by-election,

"(i) A person belonging to that political party is a candidate at that by-election; and

"(ii) Persons belonging to that party were candidates at the immediately preceding general election for at least 10 seats in the House of Representatives.

The Authority requests that any party giving notice by the due date include submissions in support of its consideration that it qualifies for time, according to the criteria of section 75 (1); and submissions on the allocation of time according to section 75 (2) and other relevant parts of the Act. Should free time be made available by broadcasters, the Authority will consult with parties as required by section 76.

The Act further provides, in section 76, that the failure of any political party to give notice in accordance with section 70A of the Act or to avail itself of the opportunity to meet with and be heard by the Authority under section 76, or to comply with any other request by the Authority shall not prevent the Authority from making decisions on the allocation of time, or affect the validity of those decisions.
