Cattle breeds for NSC purposes

Dairy cattle breeds which are not bred as part of a dairy farming business (for example, if they are bred on a sheep or beef cattle farm) may be valued under the NSC for beef cattle breeds. In all other cases, the NSC applies directly to the breed concerned.

- e is the number of male non-breeding beef cattle purchased during the income year by the taxpayer which are, or would have been if still on hand, rising three or older male non-breeding beef cattle of the taxpayer at the end of that income year.

7. Valuation of pigs

Pigs valued in the weaners to 10 weeks of age category of livestock (excluding suckling pigs).

Pigs, on hand at the end of an income year, which are weaners to 10 weeks of age (excluding suckling pigs) shall be valued at the national standard cost for the income year for this category of livestock.

Pigs valued in the growing pigs 10 weeks to 17 weeks of age category of livestock.

Pigs on hand at the end of an income year which are growing pigs 10 weeks to 17 weeks of age or pigs which are grown on to an older age (including the purchase of pigs intended for breeding purposes) shall have an average value, at the end of an income year, for the purposes of the national standard cost scheme, calculated in accordance with the following formula:

$$\frac{((a - b - c) \times d) + ((a - c) \times e) + f}{a - b - c + g}$$

where—

- a is the number of growing pigs which at any time during the income year were aged between 10 and 17 weeks of age and which were sold during the income year or are on hand at the end of that income year;
- b is the number of weaned pigs purchased by the taxpayer during the income year for the purposes of rearing to about 17 weeks of age or older;

- d is the national standard cost for the income year for pigs in the weaners to 10 weeks of age category of livestock;
- e is the national standard cost for the income year for pigs in the growing pigs 10 to 17 weeks of age category of livestock;
- f is the aggregate purchase cost of pigs purchased at the age of weaning or older during the income year excluding boars to be valued under the herd scheme by the taxpayer;
- g is the total number of pigs purchased by the taxpayer at the age of weaning or older during the income year excluding boars to be valued under the herd scheme.

Provisions which apply to Paragraphs 3 to 7 of this Determination

8. Treatment of high-priced livestock transferred from high-priced livestock scheme to national standard cost scheme

Where any high-priced livestock was valued under the high-priced scheme in the preceding income year and is required under section 86i of the Act to be valued under the national standard cost scheme in the current income year, that livestock shall be treated under this determination as livestock purchased at the national average market value for the preceding income year.

9. Exclusion of certain livestock from livestock cost calculations

Exclusion of breeding sires where the herd scheme is being used in conjunction with national standard cost

Where the herd scheme has been adopted for a particular livestock type and the taxpayer is using that scheme to value any livestock of that type, the purchase cost of breeding sires of that livestock type and the number purchased during the income year must be excluded from the calculation of average cost of the taxpayer's livestock of the type under the national standard cost scheme. In any case where a taxpayer commences to use the herd scheme in conjunction with the national standard cost scheme, no adjustment to the calculation of average costs under the national standard cost scheme shall be made in respect of breeding sires purchased in earlier income years.

Exclusion of high-priced livestock

Any animals purchased during the income year which must be valued under the provisions of section 86i of the Act as high-priced livestock at the end of the income year must be excluded from the calculation of average cost under the national standard cost scheme with regard to both the number and cost of animals purchased.

10. Establishment Of NSC Where Calculation Of NSC Using Any Of Paragraphs 3 To 7 Produces Nil Values

In the event of any of the formulas in paragraphs 3 to 7 of this determination producing an average value at the end of an income year of nil, the average value shall be deemed to be, in the case of:

- a rising one year class of livestock, the national standard cost of rising one year livestock of that type for that income year; and

- a rising two year and older intake of livestock other than rising three year male non-breeding cattle, the national standard cost for rising one year livestock of that type plus the national standard cost for rising two year livestock of that type for that income year; and
- rising three year male non-breeding cattle, the national standard cost for rising one year male non-breeding cattle plus an amount equal to twice the national standard cost for rising two year male non-breeding cattle for that income year.

Inventory System Requirements under the National Standard Cost Scheme

11. General

In respect of sheep, cattle, deer and goats, as this livestock ages until it becomes mature livestock, the costs of production of the livestock accumulate and are incorporated into average values over balance dates. Once the livestock has first become mature livestock of the taxpayer at the end of an income year, the value of the livestock to the taxpayer under the national standard cost scheme becomes fixed (not accumulating any further production costs) and remains in the taxpayer's inventory valuation for the mature inventory grouping until such time as the livestock is sold, transferred to another livestock valuation option or dies (each as determined having regard to any sub-inventory grouping adopted by the taxpayer and to the cost flow identification system applied by the taxpayer, as each is detailed further below).

In respect of pigs, the average cost identified with respect to the pigs entering inventory in any particular income year and remaining on hand at the end of the income year remains fixed (not accumulating any further production costs) and remains in the taxpayer's inventory valuation for the mature inventory grouping until such time as the pigs are sold, transferred to another livestock valuation option or die (as each is determined having regard to any sub-inventory grouping adopted by the taxpayer and to the cost flow identification system applied by the taxpayer, as each is detailed further below).

For the purposes of identifying the end of year valuation of mature livestock under the national standard cost scheme, a taxpayer must have a cost flow identification system involving specific identification, average costing or first-in first-out (FIFO) costing, as detailed further in paragraphs 13 to 15 of this determination.

The average cost inventory system or the first in first out inventory system represent the minimum standard of inventory accounting for all types of livestock. The taxpayer may choose to use more accurate inventory accounting systems.

Different systems may be adopted by the same taxpayer for different types of livestock.

Where a mature inventory grouping of a type of livestock is broken down by a taxpayer into sub-inventory groups (as detailed further below), each sub-inventory group of that type of livestock must be valued by the taxpayer under the national standard cost scheme using the same cost flow identification system.

Where a taxpayer is using the national standard cost scheme to value any livestock of a type within an inventory grouping, or as the case may be, sub-inventory group, the taxpayer shall value all livestock of that inventory grouping or sub-inventory group under the national standard cost scheme, except for:

- livestock of that type valued under the herd scheme at the end of the relevant income year; or

- Bailees who elect to account for deficiencies of bailed livestock at market value or replacement price.

12. *Separate sub-inventory groups for non-breeding and breeding livestock

Notwithstanding any other provisions of this determination (including in particular the formulae in paragraphs 3 to 7), a taxpayer may elect to establish separate sub-inventory groups, with respect to each livestock type, for the livestock:

- (a) Intended to be used by the taxpayer for breeding purposes; and
- (b) Intended to be used by the taxpayer for purposes other than breeding.

Where separate sub-inventory groups are established by a taxpayer:

- (c) All livestock of the relevant inventory group which are valued under the national standard cost scheme and are intended for breeding purposes or, as the case may be, purposes other than breeding purposes, must be included in the relevant sub-inventory group of the taxpayer until disposed of or death; and
- (d) Separate calculations of average cost for each sub-inventory group may be made under the formulae in paragraph 3 to 7 of this determination and the taxpayer may separately apply the cost flow identification system adopted by the taxpayer for mature livestock of that type to each sub-inventory group.

Once livestock is included in a sub-inventory group it must continue to be accounted for under that sub-inventory group until treated as sold, disposed of, or valued under one of the other livestock valuation options. It may not be moved to another sub-inventory group.

Cost Flow Identification Systems for the Valuation of Mature Livestock

13. *First-in first-out system (FIFO)

Where the taxpayer elects to use the FIFO system for cost flow identification, the cost and number of the livestock intake entering the taxpayer's inventory system in an income year must be recorded. In accordance with the normal rules applying under FIFO systems, dispositions and deaths of mature livestock of the type in question, and where the taxpayer so elects maturing livestock of that type, will be treated as reducing first the oldest intake of livestock of that type on hand.

A taxpayer may however, at the taxpayer's option and to such extent as the taxpayer chooses, with regard to any specific livestock, adopt a specific identification system for accounting for acquisitions, dispositions and deaths.

Refinements to the minimum standard of the FIFO inventory system as described above to more accurately account for purchases, sales and deaths affecting different intake years within the FIFO inventory system may be made.

Where the average closing cost calculated in accordance with paragraphs 4 and 6 (and 7 at the taxpayer's option) of this determination is to be used in association with the minimum standard FIFO inventory system that average closing cost shall be applied to all of the livestock intake of that livestock in that income year valued under the provisions of section 861 of the Act at the end of the income year.

14. *Average cost system where the herd scheme was not used in the current income year or in the immediately preceding income year

This inventory system is the minimum standard of inventory accounting where the herd scheme was not used in the preceding income year or the current income year.

Where a taxpayer uses the average cost system of cost flow identification, the value of the taxpayer's mature and maturing inventory grouping of any type under the national standard cost scheme at the end of an income year shall be calculated by multiplying the number of mature and maturing livestock of that type on hand by the average cost calculated in accordance with the following formula in relation to that type of mature and maturing livestock and the income year:

$$\frac{((a - b) \times c) + ((e - (a - b)) \times d)}{e}$$

where—

a is the number of livestock of the taxpayer on hand at the end of the immediately preceding income year, being at that time mature livestock;

b is the lesser of a and—

(i) The number of livestock of the taxpayer on hand at the end of the immediately preceding year, being at that time mature livestock; or

(ii) At the election of the taxpayer except where the livestock are pigs, the number of livestock of the taxpayer, being livestock of the taxpayer on hand at the end of the immediately preceding income year which were at the time mature livestock or during the income year maturing livestock of the taxpayer,— which are disposed of by the taxpayer or die (while owned by the taxpayer) during the income year;

c is the average cost or value of mature livestock of the taxpayer on hand at the end of the immediately preceding income year;

d is the average cost of livestock intake of the taxpayer as calculated under paragraph 4, 6 or 7 of this determination;

e is the number of mature livestock of the taxpayer on hand at the end of the income year.

The average closing cost calculated according to the formula shall be applied to all livestock of the mature inventory group which are to be valued under using the average cost system the provisions of section 86C of the Act at the end of the income year.

15. Average cost system where the herd scheme was used in the preceding income year or is to be used in the current income year

This inventory system is the minimum standard of inventory accounting where the herd scheme was used in the preceding income year or is to be used in the current income year.

Where a taxpayer uses the average cost system of cost flow identification, the value of the taxpayer's mature and maturing inventory grouping of any type under the national standard cost scheme at the end of the income year shall be calculated by multiplying the number of mature and maturing livestock of that type by the average cost calculated in accordance with the following formula in relation to that type of mature and maturing livestock and the income year:

$$\frac{((a - b) \times c) + ((e - (a - b)) \times d)}{e}$$

where—

a is the number of livestock of the taxpayer on hand at the end of the immediately preceding income year, being at that time mature livestock valued under a valuation method other than the herd scheme;

b is the lesser of a and—

(i) The number of livestock, other than male breeding sires, of the taxpayer on hand at the end of the immediately preceding year, being at that time mature livestock; or

(ii) At the election of the taxpayer, except where the livestock are pigs, the number of livestock, other than male breeding sires, of the type of the taxpayer, being livestock of the taxpayer on hand at the end of the immediately preceding income year which were at the time mature livestock or during the income year maturing livestock of the taxpayer,— which are disposed of by the taxpayer or die (while owned by the taxpayer) during the income year;

c is the average cost or value of mature livestock of the taxpayer on hand at the end of the immediately preceding income year valued under a valuation method other than the herd scheme;

d is the average cost of livestock intake of the taxpayer as calculated under paragraph 4, 6 or 7 of this determination;

e is the number of mature livestock of the taxpayer on hand at the end of the income year valued under the national standard cost scheme.

The average closing cost calculated according to the formula is applied to all of the livestock of the mature inventory group which are to be valued using the average cost system under the provisions of section 86C of the Act at the end of the income year.

Where the herd scheme is to be used in conjunction with national standard cost in relation to a type of livestock and no rising one year livestock of that type (or rising two year male non-breeding dairy or beef cattle in the case of dairy or beef cattle) were valued using a valuation method other than the herd scheme in the immediately preceding income year, then the rules contained in paragraph 28 of this determination must be applied before calculating the average closing cost in accordance with this paragraph.

16. Change in cost flow identification system when using the national standard cost scheme

Subject to the rules contained in this paragraph and in the following paragraphs of this determination, a taxpayer may change the cost flow identification system used when valuing the taxpayer's mature inventory grouping under the national standard cost scheme from FIFO to average cost or vice versa.

Where a taxpayer changes to the average cost system, for the purposes of determining the average cost in the year of change, the average cost of mature livestock of the type in question on hand at the end of the immediately preceding income year will be calculated as follows:

$$\frac{a}{b}$$

where:

a is the total closing cost of that inventory grouping valued under national standard cost in the preceding income year; and b is the total closing number of livestock in that inventory grouping valued under national standard cost in the preceding income year.

If the FIFO inventory system is being adopted, the opening inventory cost in the year of the change will be the total closing cost of that inventory grouping in the immediately preceding income year.

17. Reduction in livestock numbers where stock valued under national standard cost scheme and the herd scheme

Where a taxpayer in any income year values any livestock under the herd scheme and also values other livestock of the same type under the national standard cost scheme, any reduction in the number of livestock of that type below the number on hand at the end of the immediately preceding income year must first be accounted for from the relevant class (in any case where the taxpayer adopts a class by class separation of livestock numbers) or inventory grouping valued at the end of the immediately preceding income year under the national standard cost scheme. Accordingly, any reduction in the number of livestock of that type shall only commence to reduce the number of livestock valued under the herd scheme:

- (a) In any case where the taxpayer uses an inventory system which separates out livestock of that class, where no livestock of that class is on hand at the end of the income year to be valued under the national standard cost scheme; or
- (b) In any case where the taxpayer uses an inventory system which does not separately identify livestock of that class, where no livestock of the relevant inventory grouping is on hand at the end of the income year to be valued under the national standard cost scheme.

18. Treatment of livestock bailed by a taxpayer which may be valued under the national standard cost scheme

Under section 86C(3) of the Act, taxpayers who bail livestock are only eligible to use the national standard cost scheme in relation to bailed livestock where the taxpayer expects to have the livestock originally bailed to be re-delivered. In such a case, the provisions of this determination shall apply as if the bailed livestock were livestock on hand.

Movement between National Standard Cost and Other Livestock Valuation Schemes

19. Changing from herd scheme, market value option or replacement price option to national standard cost scheme

In respect of each livestock type, in the income year in which the national standard cost scheme is first adopted by the taxpayer, the opening inventory structure and cost must be calculated, in accordance with the appropriate paragraph 20 or 21 of this determination, in order to allow calculation of the closing inventory number and cost in respect of that type of livestock in that income year under the provisions of paragraphs 13 to 15 of this determination.

20. Where the taxpayer adopts the average cost system of cost flow identification

If a taxpayer is to use the average cost system in respect of livestock valued under the national standard cost scheme, in respect of each relevant inventory grouping of livestock, the average cost at the beginning of the income year will be deemed to be equal to the amount calculated in accordance with the following formula:

$$\frac{a}{b}$$

where—

- a is the aggregate value adopted for income tax purposes in the preceding income year by the taxpayer in respect of all classes of livestock of the taxpayer of the type which would have been included in the inventory grouping on hand at the end of the immediately preceding income year;
- b is the number of livestock of the taxpayer of the type which would have been included in the inventory grouping on hand at the end of the immediately preceding income year.

21. Where the taxpayer adopts the FIFO system of cost flow identification

If a taxpayer is to use the FIFO system to account for livestock under the national standard cost scheme, the value of the opening inventory of mature livestock of the taxpayer in the relevant income year will be equal to the values for income tax purposes of each class of livestock of the taxpayer in an inventory grouping of the type in question on hand at the end of the immediately preceding income year. For the purposes of application of the FIFO system in the income year of the change and subsequent income years, the opening inventory of mature livestock (in all cases other than pigs) shall be subdivided and be deemed to be aged as follows (from newest to oldest):

- (a) Rising two year female breeding stock;
- (b) Older classes of female breeding stock (subdivided and ranked from newest to oldest to the extent possible having regard to the taxpayer's preceding tax accounting system);
- (c) Non-breeding livestock (excluding male non-breeding dairy cattle and male non-breeding beef cattle);
- (d) Male breeding stock.

In the case of pigs, the mature livestock included in opening inventory in the income year shall be subdivided and be deemed to be aged as follows (from newest to oldest):

- (a) Weaner pigs less than 10 weeks of age;
- (b) Growing pigs between 10 and 17 weeks of age;
- (c) Pigs over 17 weeks of age;
- (d) Breeding sows less than one year old;
- (e) Breeding sows over one year of age;
- (f) Breeding boars.

The FIFO system will be applied accordingly, in the income year in which the national standard cost scheme is first adopted and in subsequent income years in which it is used, so that dispositions and deaths are deemed to reduce first the oldest still existing class of mature livestock.

22. Change from national standard cost scheme to the herd scheme, market value option or replacement price option for any complete inventory grouping

Irrespective of which cost flow identification system was used in the income year preceding the year of the change, the opening value of the livestock of the inventory grouping in the year of change shall be treated as being equal to the value for tax purposes at the end of the immediately preceding income year. A value of the livestock at the end of the year of change will be calculated accordingly under the chosen valuation option on a class-by-class basis.

23. Change from national standard cost scheme to the herd scheme for some livestock only

If the number of livestock of an inventory grouping moved from valuation under the national standard cost scheme to valuation under the herd scheme in any income year still leaves some livestock of the particular inventory grouping to be valued under the national standard cost scheme at the end of the income year, then paragraphs 24 to 26 (as appropriate) of this determination shall apply.

24. Average cost system used in year preceding the year of change

If the average cost system of cost flow identification was used in the income year preceding the income year of change to the herd scheme, the number of livestock moved to the herd scheme shall be accounted for as if they were livestock disposed of or dying in the income year (see paragraphs 14 and 15 of this determination). No adjustment is required to opening inventory numbers and costs.

25. FIFO system used in year preceding the year of change

If the closing inventory system used in the income year preceding the income year of the change to the herd scheme was the FIFO system, then the number moved to the Herd scheme will be deemed to have been derived from the oldest inventory on hand at the opening balance date in the income year of the change to the Herd scheme in the same manner as sales and deaths are accounted for when using the FIFO type of inventory system unless the inventory account has been accurately prepared on an age class by age class basis with the appropriate costs per head recorded for each group of livestock in each age class, under which conditions, the adjustment to closing inventory numbers and costs can be made on a class by class basis.

26. Change in cost flow identification system in the same income year as some livestock are moved from the national standard cost scheme to the herd scheme system of valuation

If a change in the cost flow identification system is made in the same income year as some livestock are moved to the herd scheme, this adjustment shall be effected only after the appropriate adjustment has been made for moving those livestock to the herd scheme on the basis of the cost flow identification system used in the immediately preceding income year.

27. Complete change from national standard cost scheme to self assessed cost or from self-assessed cost to national standard cost scheme

The value of livestock of each type on hand in each inventory grouping at the end of the immediately preceding income year under the preceding method will be deemed to be the opening value of livestock of that type in that inventory grouping in the year of change. Any change in the cost flow identification system accompanying the change will be subject to paragraphs 16 and 26 of this determination.

28. Value of Livestock where NSC used in conjunction with the herd scheme.

Where a taxpayer has adopted the herd scheme for any class of livestock in any income year and the livestock numbers for that class are more than the base number of herd scheme animals, in accordance with section 86D(5) of the Act, and wishes to value those livestock under the national standard cost scheme, the following provisions will apply:

For the purposes of calculating national standard cost for those livestock the opening value of rising 1 year livestock and rising 2 year male non-breeding dairy and beef cattle the definition of 'd' in the formulae in paragraphs 4, 5 and 6 of this determination will be:

In the case of paragraph 4 and 5:—

The opening number of rising 1 year livestock of that type multiplied by the national standard cost calculated for rising 1 year livestock of that type for, at the taxpayers' option, the current or immediately preceding income year using the formula contained in paragraph 3 and 5.

In the case of paragraph 6:—

The opening number of rising 2 year male non-breeding dairy or beef cattle multiplied by the national standard cost calculated for rising 2 year male non-breeding dairy or beef cattle in, at the taxpayers' option, the current or immediately preceding income year using the formulae in paragraphs 3 and 5.

In the event of there being no rising 1 year livestock of that type or rising 2 year male non-breeding dairy or beef cattle on hand in either the current or immediately preceding income year on which to base the calculations in paragraphs 4, 5 or 6, the national standard cost will be the average purchase cost of the rising 2 year livestock of that type or the rising three year male non-breeding dairy or beef cattle.

This Determination is made and signed by me on the 29th day of March 1994.

SIMON SHERRY, Director (Rulings).

New Zealand Dairy Board

Dairy Board Act 1961

“NEW ZEALAND DAIRY BOARD

At its meeting on 31st March 1994, the Dairy Board resolved to approve the Terms and Conditions of Herd Testing Licences issued by the New Zealand Dairy Board pursuant to the Herd Testing Regulations 1958 as set out below, to take effect on the issue of any new licences.

J. B. Murray,

Secretary,

New Zealand Dairy Board”.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF HERD TESTING LICENCES ISSUED BY NEW ZEALAND DAIRY BOARD

Pursuant to its powers under the Dairy Board Act 1961 and the Herd Testing Regulations 1957, the New Zealand Dairy Board (“NZDB”) sets the following terms and conditions (“Conditions”) to apply to all herd testing licences issued by the NZDB. The purpose of these Conditions is to ensure the integrity of data supplied to or held in the National Dairy Herd Improvement Database (“Database”) by:

(a) setting and maintaining uniform standards for the accurate collection and processing of all herd testing data; and

(b) ensuring that all herd testing in New Zealand is conducted in a consistent and uniform manner nationwide.

The integrity of herd testing data is essential in order to optimise the rate of genetic gain in the national dairy herd to the benefit of the New Zealand dairy industry.

Licence Holder to Supply All Herd Testing Data

1.1 The Licence Holder shall faithfully and accurately collect and supply to the Database Manager all herd testing data relating to its herd testing activities and such other data as may be required from time to time by the Database Manager. All data shall be provided strictly in accordance with any time limits prescribed by these Conditions or by the Database Manager, or where no time is specified, forthwith as soon as reasonably possible. In default of the Licence Holder supplying such data, the Database Manager may obtain these.

1.2 The Licence Holder shall supply to the Database Manager, within 30 days of the data coming under its control, a copy of the RDIPM for every animal for which information is received or recorded by the Licence Holder.

1.3 The Licence Holder shall supply to the Database Manager before 31 July in each year such data as will enable the Database Manager to provide NZDB with a summary of its herd testing operations showing all herds, cows and samples tested and averaged test results for the previous 12 month season for which the licence has been granted.

1.4 All data collected by the Licence Holder pursuant to a herd testing licence shall be supplied to the Database Manager and not to any other person, except as is otherwise permitted in accordance with the Access Code.

Integrity of Information

2.1 The Licence Holder shall ensure that all data it supplies are valid, accurate and complete in accordance with the Database Manager's requirements.

2.2 The Licence Holder shall take out or maintain adequate insurance against any failure, breach or default of these Conditions, by the Licence Holder and hereby indemnifies the NZDB in respect of all damages, costs, claims or expenses (including legal fees) incurred by or awarded or made against the NZDB and arising out of or in connection with such failure, default or breach.

2.3 The Licence Holder shall comply with all methods or systems of identification of farms, farmers, herds, animals, locations and stored genetic material and with all quality control procedures and record formats that may from time to time be required by the Database Manager.

2.4 The Licence Holder shall on request (but no more frequently than annually) demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Database Manager or the NZDB that it operates quality control procedures to ensure as far as is practicable, that the RDIPM for each animal is suitable for use in animal evaluation and for research, in that:

(a) the date of birth, identification, and birth details are accurate for each animal;

(b) the lactation identification and test day production detail information associated with each animal can be field verified to the specific cow;

(c) the cows tested are not treated in any way so as to cause the herd test results for the 24 hour period to be other than representative of the normal daily production for the cow;

(d) the milk tested to determine composition has not been modified in any way to cause the results of the composition analysis to be other than an accurate reflection of the production from the cow;

(e) any abnormalities associated with the production of an individual cow are indicated by use of the appropriate codes; and

(f) information is available for all lactating cows on a farm and that any cows with missing lactation and test day details are accounted for.

2.5 The Licence Holder shall ensure that the equipment and methods used for the purposes of sampling, measuring and analysing milk are only those approved for the purpose from time to time by the Database Manager and published in the New Zealand Gazette or as described in Appendix I.

Use of Information

3.1 The Database Manager shall not be obliged to enter any data into the Database unless it is satisfied that the data or the manner in which it has been supplied complies with these Conditions.

3.2 The NZDB or the Database Manager, acting on its behalf, shall be entitled to use any data supplied by a Licence Holder in any manner at any time as it sees fit provided that such use complies with the Access Code.

Licensed Territory

4.0 Each Licence Holder shall offer its service to all farmers within the boundaries fixed by the NZDB and annexed to its herd testing licence. If no boundaries are defined, the district shall be the whole of New Zealand.

Variations

5.0 The NZDB may, from time to time, change or revoke these Conditions or part of them provided that 60 days written notice of such changes or revocation has been given to each Licence Holder. Any revocation will be subject to clause 6 of these Conditions.

Cancellation

6.0 The NZDB may at any time cancel any herd testing licence if:

(a) the Licence Holder fails to remedy, within 30 days of having received a written notice requesting it to remedy, any non-compliance with the general intent of, or any default on any of its specific obligations under, these Conditions, including a failure to comply with any requirement in any Appendix; or

(b) after having given the Licence Holder 30 days notice to answer any allegations, the NZDB is of the opinion that any claim made or implied by the Licence Holder about the value or quality of the information is either false or materially misleading.

Dispute Resolution

7.1 In the event of any dispute or difference arising between the Licence Holder, the NZDB, or the Database Manager as to any matter concerning herd testing, either from these Conditions or otherwise, the parties to the dispute or difference shall in the first instance use their best efforts to resolve their dispute or difference by negotiation, but if the dispute or difference is not resolved within 7 days they shall refer it to the Dairy Herd Improvement Tribunal ("Tribunal") which may then either refer it to conciliation or decide the issue in accordance with its own procedures as a submission to arbitration under the Arbitration Act 1908 and its amendments.

7.2 If the Tribunal refers any dispute or difference to conciliation and that process is terminated without agreement having been reached then the Tribunal shall decide the issue by arbitration as described in the preceding paragraph.

7.3 Pending a reference to the Tribunal and its decision being made known, the Licence Holder shall at the option of the NZDB continue to perform all its obligations under these Conditions without prejudice.

7.4 The Tribunal's decision whether as a result of the conciliation or the arbitration procedure shall be final and binding on all parties.

Limited as the Database Manager of the National Dairy Herd Improvement Database.

J. B. Murray,
Secretary,
New Zealand Dairy Board".

ACCESS CODE FOR THE NATIONAL DAIRY HERD IMPROVEMENT DATABASE

Background

Under the Dairy Board Act 1961 the New Zealand Dairy Board ("NZDB") is charged with the development of the New Zealand dairy industry with a view to maintaining and improving the standard of quality, and expanding production, of the stock or produce derived from that industry, and generally ensuring as far as may be practicable the adoption of measures and practices designed to promote greater efficiency in the dairy industry in furtherance of the interests and welfare of persons engaged in it.

As a consequence, the NZDB initially through its Livestock Improvement Division and latterly through Livestock Improvement Corporation Limited (LIC) has established and continues to maintain a single database, (the "Database") now known as the National Dairy Herd Improvement Database, to facilitate the efficient collation, storage and use of information it has acquired on the New Zealand dairy industry generally for the efficient implementation of that industry's Herd Improvement Plan. The Database is now an extremely valuable record or library of information which LIC continues to accumulate, hold and use for the benefit of the industry as a whole. It contains among other things, valuable data on mating, calving, identification, location, indicators of genetic merit, production traits, traits other than production for or concerning a large part of that industry. It is intended to continue to enhance and expand that library of data with such other information as may be considered appropriate for those purposes and for the continuing overall benefit of the New Zealand dairy industry.

The Database facility is currently owned by LIC. It has been appointed by NZDB to manage the Database and as Database Manager to be the industry's custodian of that data. LIC has proprietary rights over much of the information contained in the Database as well as having responsibilities for ensuring the integrity and security of the Database as a whole and the accuracy, validity and completeness of the information held or derived.

In 1991 the operation of the Database was the subject of an extensive review by a Committee which included representatives of the New Zealand dairy industry and was chaired by Mr K J Macdonald. On the recommendation of that Committee, the NZDB has established a Dairy Herd Improvement Tribunal (the "Tribunal") as an independent body to develop guidelines and conditions for access to the information contained in that Database and to mediate on issues referred to it by any party relating to such.

The Tribunal has accordingly developed this Access Code to set out, among other things, the powers and procedures of the Tribunal and to clarify that there shall be no access to the Database by any party except in accordance with the Access Principles set out in this Code.

Applications for Access to Information

1.1 Any person or entity (the "Applicant") may apply for access to the Database as an individual or as a provider of a service in the form prescribed from time to time by the Tribunal to view (which includes to download or copy), add, delete or modify the information in the Database.

1.2 In dealing with any application the Tribunal may

"NEW ZEALAND DAIRY BOARD

At its meeting on 31st March 1994, the Dairy Board resolved to:

(a) approve the Access Code for the National Dairy Herd Improvement Database as set out below, to take effect from 1 May 1994;

(b) appoint the Livestock Improvement Corporation regulate its own process and may obtain and have regard to the advice or opinions of such persons as it may from time to time decide, but shall decide any application for access solely in accordance with the Access Principles set out in clause 2.

1.3 A decision on every access application shall (except in the case of a delegated authority under clause 1.6) be made by the Tribunal after consultation with the Database Manager who shall report whether the application complies with Access Principles and may recommend that:

- (a) the application be granted;
- (b) the application be rejected;
- (c) the application be accepted in part; or
- (d) the application be subject to conditions.

1.4 Where the Database Manager makes a recommendation under (b), (c) or (d) above, the Tribunal shall:

(a) make available to the Applicant all information which will be taken into account by the Tribunal in reaching a decision; and

(b) invite the Applicant to submit a written response to the Tribunal within 14 days of the date of the recommendation; and

(c) advise the Applicant whether or not they may be heard.

1.5 After the expiry of the 14 days response time, the Tribunal:

(a) may consider any information or factor it considers relevant, provided the Applicant has been notified in accordance with clause 1.4(c);

(b) shall consider any submission of the Applicant made under 1.4;

(c) may require the Applicant to supply information or evidence, additional to that provided in the Applicant's submission, to assist in reaching a decision; and

(d) may seek to consult with the Applicant prior to finalising the Tribunal's decision in such a manner and at such time as it thinks proper.

1.6 (a) The Tribunal may in its discretion delegate to the Database Manager its decision-making power in respect of any particular application or category of applications subject to such conditions as the Tribunal may impose. In such cases the Database Manager may decide the application (rather than make recommendations) in accordance with the provisions of clause 1.3(a) to (d) inclusive, and in accordance with the Access Principles and procedures set out in clauses 2.2 and 2.3, or it may refer the application to the Tribunal for its determination as if the delegated authority did not apply. The Tribunal may at any time vary or revoke any delegated authority.

(b) The Tribunal shall on application being made to it on appeal, provide an independent review of any decision made under any delegated power and deal with and decide the application as if that delegated power had not been given in respect of that application.

1.7 The Tribunal may without prior notice revoke any decision or authorisation at any time and that revocation shall have effect forthwith. As soon as practicable after such revocation the Tribunal shall give notice of and the reasons for its revocation to the applicant.

The Access Principles

No access without approval

2.1 There shall be no access to the Database by any party except as is approved by the Tribunal solely in accordance with the following Access Principles.

2.2 The Tribunal may allow access to the Database if it is first satisfied that any consequence of that access will advance any of the following objectives:

(a) the promotion and organisation of the orderly development of the dairy industry in New Zealand;

(b) the improvement of the standard of quality of the dairy stock in New Zealand;

(c) the planning, promotion and the carrying out of testing to produce quality stock;

(d) the development of artificial breeding for the improvement of New Zealand dairy stock;

(e) the promotion of greater efficiencies in the New Zealand dairy industry in furtherance of the interests and welfare of persons engaged in that industry; or

(f) the promotion and carrying out of any research or experimental work undertaken in New Zealand or elsewhere with a view to improving the quality of dairy stock in New Zealand.

2.3 In considering an application, the Tribunal may then have regard to any of the following:

(a) the need to respect the commercial sensitivity or confidentiality of the information in the Database or the privacy of any provider;

(b) the integrity or the security of the Database, including the accuracy, validity and completeness of any information held within;

(c) compliance with or the upholding of any condition imposed on the Applicant's access to the Database;

(d) the interests of any information supplier to the Database to obtain or modify that information; or

(e) any other factor the Tribunal believes is consistent with the objectives of the Dairy Board Act 1961 and any Regulations made thereunder.

Good reasons to refuse access

2.4 Without limiting the Tribunal's discretion to refuse access after consideration of the objectives in clause 2.2 and having had regard to the factors in clause 2.3, the Tribunal may reject an application and refuse access if:

(a) the application is frivolous or vexatious, or the information requested is trivial; or

(b) the information requested is not readily retrievable; or

(c) the information requested is not held in the Database, cannot be found, or cannot be severed from other information which is unable to be disclosed; or

(d) the granting of the application would significantly impair the efficient administration, or be a substantial drain on the resources, of the Database Manager.

Information to be used only for the purpose requested

2.5 The applicant shall use the information obtained pursuant to any request only for the purposes stipulated in that application and for no other, and shall in each case satisfy the Tribunal that access to the Database will be only for the purpose for which the application was made.

Publication of research

2.6 Where access has been for research, the Applicant shall not without the prior written consent of the Database Manager publish or disclose any of the results of that research which identifies or is capable of identifying the information which has been accessed from the Database and on which the research is based or if such publication or disclosure might in any way compromise any of the Access Principles. The Database Manager's consent shall be determined in accordance with the Access Principles.

Public benefit override

2.7 In any case, the Tribunal may on its own application or upon request release information (subject to any conditions that the Tribunal thinks fit) from, or refuse access to, the Database, where the Tribunal is satisfied that access is required for any one or more of the following purposes:

- (a) any criminal proceedings; or
- (b) in the interests of the maintenance or protection of public health or safety.

Conditions of Access

3.1 The Tribunal may impose, vary or revoke any conditions it deems appropriate, including without in any way limiting the power of the Tribunal:

- (a) an order for the Applicant to contribute to or pay any costs which either the Database Manager or the Tribunal may incur arising out of the access application or as a result of any grant of access;
- (b) the time when, and circumstances under which, access should be allowed;
- (c) the frequency of access to be granted or allowed;
- (d) in cases where data are to be provided, the form of any data to be provided, including whether or not it forms part of an existing service offered by the Database Manager;
- (e) any restrictions or limits on the use, disclosure or publication of information accessed from the Database;
- (f) the supply to, and use by, the Database Manager of any information which is the subject, or is derived as a consequence, of the access application in order to update or correct the Database;
- (g) any time limits on the provision of the information;
- (h) any procedures or process for managing any change to the requested information or the Database; or
- (i) a requirement that the Applicant provide such security, performance bond or undertaking as may be required by the Tribunal as a condition of access.

Dispute Resolution

4.1 In addition to its decision-making powers in respect of an application, the Tribunal shall also (as the case may require) be empowered to investigate, mediate on, determine, or refer to conciliation or arbitration (subject to clauses 4.2 and 5.1 to 5.3) any issue arising out of an application or more generally relating to access to the Database, including on any recommendation, charge, term or condition on implementing access or on any amendment to the provisions in the Access Code.

4.2 If any dispute or difference arises between the Applicant, the NZDB, or the Database Manager as to any matter concerning or arising out of an access application, the parties to the dispute or difference shall in the first instance use their best efforts to resolve their dispute or difference by negotiation. If the dispute or difference is not resolved within 7 days, it shall be referred to the Tribunal which may then either refer it to conciliation or decide the issue in accordance with its own procedures as a submission to arbitration under the Arbitration Act 1908 and its amendments.

Conciliation

5.1 For the purposes of clause 4.2, "conciliation" means the procedure whereby the Tribunal appoints a conciliator to assist the parties in an independent and impartial manner. The aim of such assistance is to reconcile their views on the dispute or difference in order to reach an amicable settlement or solution. If they are unable to reach such an agreement or solution, the conciliator may formulate the terms of its determination or proposal for a settlement or solution. Such determination or proposal shall be binding on both parties unless within 5 days one party notifies the other that it rejects the conciliator's determination or proposal.

5.2 The conciliation procedure shall be deemed to have terminated:

- (a) by the signing of a settlement agreement by the parties; or
- (b) by a written declaration of one party to the other and to the conciliator that the conciliation is terminated; or
- (c) by a written declaration by the conciliator to the parties that further efforts at conciliation are no longer justified; or
- (d) by the parties not objecting to the conciliator's determination or proposal within 5 days.

5.3 If the Tribunal refers any dispute or difference to conciliation and that process is terminated without agreement having been reached, then the Tribunal shall decide the issue by arbitration as described in clause 4.2.

5.4 The Applicant shall bear its own costs in respect of any referral to the Tribunal.

5.5 The decision of the Tribunal shall be final and binding on all parties.

Dated the 31st day of March 1994.

The Common Seal of New Zealand Dairy Board was hereunto affixed in the presence of:
