Australia New Zealand Food Authority

Australia New Zealand Food Authority Act 1991

Australia New Zealand Food Authority—Food Standards

Australia and New Zealand agreed to a joint food standards system in December 1995. The Australia New Zealand Food Authority has been created to develop and implement uniform food standards. Under this system, any person or organisation can apply to have food standards developed or varied. The Australia New Zealand Food Authority can also propose to change or vary a standard on its own initiative.

Notice about these applications and proposals are published in Australia and New Zealand. Public submissions help the authority make an informed assessment.

The processes of ANZFA are described in the booklet Introducing the Australia New Zealand Food Authority. Please contact the liaison officer below for your copy.

The new authority began its operations on 5 July 1996. At the time, there were a number of applications and proposals being processed in Australia. To give the New Zealand community the opportunity to have their say, the authority invites submissions on the following applications and proposals.

All submissions should be forwarded by mail or facsimile to the above named by 18 September 1996.

Matters at Inquiry

The authority has completed assessments of the following applications and proposals, and now seeks comments on the draft variations to the Food Standards Code.

Artificial Sweetening Substances in Reduced Energy Cordials, Syrups and Toppings (A251). To extend the use of six artificial sweetening substances in reduced energy cordials, syrups and toppings. The authority has decided not to approve the extension of use of two substances (cyclamate and saccharin) and to progress the application for the remaining four substances (aspartame, acesulphame K, alitame and sucralose)—draft variations to Standards A8—Artificial Sweetening Substances, O1—Cordials, Syrups and Toppings.

The New Zealand regulations are quite dissimilar from the Australian Food Standards Code because the two countries have taken different approaches to regulating these types of products.

Acesulphame K in Electrolyte Drinks and Electrolyte Drink Bases, Reduced Energy Soft Drinks and Soft Drink Bases and Spoon for Spoon Products (A253, A255 and A256). To permit acesulphame K for use in electrolyte drinks and electrolyte drink bases (A254), soft drinks and soft drink bases (A255) and spoon for spoon products (A256)—draft variations to Standard A8—Artificial Sweetening Substances.

The New Zealand regulations are fundamentally quite different from the Australian Food Standards for these types of products.

Dimethyldicarbonate (A259). To permit the use of dimethyldicarbonate (DMDC) as a cold sterilising agent in fruit juices and related products, soft drinks and related products, orange juice and related products, fruit drinks and fruit drink products, fruit wine, vegetable wine, mead, and wine and wine products—draft variation to Standard A16—Processing Aids.

The New Zealand regulations do not permit the use of this processing aid.

Processed Eucheuma Seaweed (A262). To permit the use of natural grade carrageenan (also known as processed eucheuma seaweed) as an alternate form of carrageenan—draft variations to Standards A1—Labelling and Advertising, A10—Modifying Agents, A11—Specifications for Identity and Purity of Food Additives, Processing Aids, Vitamins, Minerals and Other Added Nutrients.

The New Zealand regulations do not permit the use of this processing aid.

Malt and Malt Extract (A275). To delete or amend clauses of Standard B5—Malt and Malt Extract, to cater for the range of products with different diastatic activity currently on the market. These products would be regulated under Standard S1—Miscellaneous Foods and the clause regulating diastatic power would be retained and relocated to Standard A1—Labelling and Advertising—draft variations to delete Standard B5 and amend Standards A1—Labelling and Advertising and K1—Sugar and Related Products.

The variations to the Australian Food Standards Code will enhance trans-Tasman alignment of the requirements.

CaNa<sub>2</sub>EDTA in Canned Fish (A282). To permit the addition of up to 250 mg/kg of calcium disodium ethylenediaminetetraacetate (CaNa<sub>2</sub>EDTA) in canned crustacea and canned molluscs. The authority proposes to extend the use of (CaNa<sub>2</sub>EDTA) to all canned fish, including canned tuna and canned salmon to further promote consistency with international food regulations—draft variation to Standard D2—Canned Fish, Canned Fish Products.

New Zealand permits the use of (CaNa<sub>2</sub>EDTA) in canned fish, other than shrimps, prawns, or paua, up to a level of 250 mg/kg.

Deletion of Standard G3 (P130). To delete Standard G3—Imitation Cream—draft variation to Standard A3—Food Additives.

New Zealand does not have specific regulations for imitation cream which is standardised as a ‘table confection’. The deletion of Standard G3 will enhance trans-Tasman alignment of requirements.

Edible Inks on Food Surfaces (A268). To allow shellac to be used as a base for permitted colourings and to permit colourings to be applied to the surface of chocolate—draft variations to Standards A5—Colourings and Q3—Cocoa and Cocoa Products.

The New Zealand regulations do not currently permit this use of shellac.

Microcrystalline cellulose (A278). To recognise microcrystalline cellulose as a vegetable gum—draft variation to Standard A10—Modifying Agents.

The New Zealand regulations permit microcrystalline cellulose, along with several other forms of cellulose, as stabilisers, thickeners, modified starches and gelling agents, and it is permitted as a food conditioner in a wide range of foods. This application would achieve alignment with New Zealand.

Matters Before Council

The authority has completed inquiries into the following applications and proposals and has recommended to the council the adoption of draft variations. The authority will now hold a further inquiry into these matters in New Zealand and will make a further recommendation to the council on the issues following this consultation.

Mucorpepsin (A243). To permit the use of mucorpepsin, derived from a genetically modified organism, in the production of cheese and cheese products and thickened cream—draft variations to Standards A11—Specifications for the Identity and Purity of Food Additives, H2—Cream and Cream Products, H9—Cheese and Cheese Products.

The New Zealand regulations do not specifically permit the use of mucorpepsin as a coagulating agent in cheese and cheese products when derived from the particular organisms specified in the application.

Polydextrose in Baked Goods (A246). To permit the addition of polydextrose as a bulking agent in biscuits, cakes, pastry and other flour products excluding bread—draft variation to Standard B3—Biscuits, Cake, Pastry and Other Flour Products Excluding Bread.

Polydextrose is already permitted in these products in small amounts as a humectant in the New Zealand regulations, not in greater amounts as a bulking agent.

Vegetable Gums for Coating Raw Peeled Potatoes (A252). To permit the use of agar, alginic acid and alginates for coating raw peeled potatoes—draft variation to Standard F1—Vegetables and Similar Foods. The New Zealand regulations do not specify that these substances can be used as a coating on raw peeled potatoes.

Silicon Dioxide in Shredded or Grated Cheese (A292). To permit the use of silicon dioxide as an anti-caking agent in shredded or grated cheese at a maximum level of 20 g/kg—draft variation to Standard H9—Cheese and Cheese Products. The New Zealand regulations do not specify that silicon dioxide may be used in these products.

Titrateable Acidity of Ultra-pasteurised Whipped Thickened Cream (A253). To redefine the maximum titrateable acidity for ultra-pasteurised whipped thickened cream to 2500 mg/kg—draft variation to Standard H2—Cream and Cream Products. New Zealand does not specify the maximum titrateable acidity for this product.

Mercury in Ling Fish (A296). To allow the mean permitted mercury levels for ling (fish) to be increased to 1.0 mg/kg—draft variation to Standard A12—Metals and Contaminants in Food. The New Zealand regulations specify that the permissible proportion for mercury in fish and fish products is 0.5 mg/kg.

Notice Pursuant to Section 17

Protection Against Photodegradation of Milk (A288). The authority received application A288 on 28 September 1995 from Mrs Janet Rundel on behalf of Mothers Opposing Pollution to require that all milk packaging protect milk vitamin content from photodegradation.

Pursuant to section 15 of the Australia New Zealand Food

Authority Act 1991, the authority has made a full assessment and has decided to reject the application for the following reasons:

1. The vitamins of which milk is an important source are available in abundance from the Australian food supply; dietary intakes of these vitamins are likely to be adequate where milk is consumed in recommended amounts, irrespective of its packaging.
2. Package type has little impact on the content of the nutritionally-important vitamins in milk under current Australia and New Zealand market, retail and distribution conditions.
3. Where existing intakes of these vitamins are inadequate, dietary modelling demonstrates that the maximum theoretical increase of vitamin content of milk will have little impact on the adequacy of these intakes.
4. There would be an insignificant benefit to public health from mandating light transmission criteria for milk packaging.
5. A statutory requirement for all milk packaging to meet strict limits on light transmission would place an unnecessary burden on a significant proportion of the milk packaging industry and be likely to increase the price of milk for consumers to who now purchase milk in translucent containers.
6. Differential price changes may confer an advantage on one segment of the milk packaging market over another which, if sufficient, may result in a restriction of present consumer choice.
7. There are no New Zealand, Codex or international food standards that require milk packaging to comply with limits on light transmission.

In view of the assessed lack of benefit to public health, the authority also determined that:

- mandatory labelling of milk packaging to alert consumers to the potential impact of light exposure on milk vitamin content is inappropriate because it would make reference to only one factor potentially affecting milk quality, and it may unnecessarily reduce consumer confidence in the overall nutritional quality of milk; and
- mandatory establishment of an industry code of practice to minimise exposure of milk to light is also inappropriate because of the insignificant benefit to public health and the additional costs of implementing and monitoring a new code.

Notice Pursuant to Section 22

Review of the Provisions for the Statement of Ingredients (P143). The authority has prepared proposal P143 to review the current provisions for the statement of ingredients.

The authority will now make a full assessment of this proposal. To assist in the process, the authority invites written submissions on matters relevant to the proposal by 22 November 1996.

The land was once owned by the Crown. It was transferred to a state-owned enterprise under the State-Owned Enterprises Act 1986.

There is a special notice or "memorial" on the certificate of title for the land which provides that, if the Waitangi Tribunal recommends it, the land shall be resumed by the Crown and returned to Maori ownership (see sections 27A and 27B of the State-Owned Enterprises Act 1986).

The current owners of the land, Inner City Properties Limited, have applied to the Waitangi Tribunal to have this notice removed. The application has been made under section 8D of the Treaty of Waitangi Act 1975.

Section 6 of the Treaty of Waitangi Act 1975, describes what a claim is. Claims may be posted or sent to the Registrar, Waitangi Tribunal, Seabridge House, 110 Featherston Street (P.O. Box 5022), Wellington.

If no claim about this land is made to the Waitangi Tribunal before the 29th day of November 1996, then the Tribunal may recommend that the land no longer be liable to be resumed by the Crown and returned to Maori ownership under section 27B of the State-Owned Enterprises Act 1986.
