L. A. J. KAVANAGH, Secretary, New Zealand Dairy Board".

Terms and Conditions of Herd Testing Licences Issued by New Zealand Dairy Board

Pursuant to its powers under the Dairy Board Act 1961 and the Herd Testing Regulations 1958, the New Zealand Dairy Board ("NZDB") sets the following terms and conditions ("Conditions") to apply to all herd testing licences issued by the NZDB. The purpose of these Conditions is to ensure the integrity of data supplied to or held in the National Dairy Herd Improvement Database ("Database") by:

(a) setting and maintaining uniform standards for the accurate collection and processing of all herd testing data; and

(b) ensuring that all herd testing in New Zealand is conducted in a consistent and uniform manner nationwide.

The integrity of herd testing data is essential in order to optimise milk quality and the rate of genetic gain in the national dairy herd to the benefit of the New Zealand dairy industry.

Licence Holder to Supply All Herd Testing Data

1.1 The Licence Holder shall faithfully and accurately collect and supply to the Database Manager all herd testing data relating to its herd testing activities and such other data as may be required from time to time by the Database Manager. All data shall be provided strictly in accordance with any time limits prescribed by these Conditions or by the Database Manager, or where no time is specified, forthwith as soon as reasonably possible. In default of the Licence Holder supplying such data, the Database Manager may obtain these.

1.2 The Licence Holder shall supply to the Database Manager, within 7 days of the data coming under its control, a copy of the RDIPM for every animal for which information is received or recorded by the Licence Holder.

1.3 The Licence Holder shall supply to the Database Manager before 31 July in each year such data as will enable the Database Manager to provide NZDB with a summary of its herd testing operations showing all herds, cows and samples tested and test results for the previous 12 month season for which the licence has been granted.

1.4 All data collected by the Licence Holder pursuant to a herd testing licence shall be supplied to the Database Manager and not to any other person, except as is otherwise permitted in accordance with the Access Code.

Integrity of Information

2.1 The Licence Holder shall ensure that all data it supplies are valid, accurate and complete in accordance with the Database Manager's requirements.

2.2 The Licence Holder shall take out or maintain adequate insurance against any failure, breach or default of these Conditions, by the Licence Holder and hereby indemnifies the NZDB in respect of all damages, costs, claims or expenses (including legal fees) incurred by or awarded or made against the NZDB and arising out of or in connection with such failure, default or breach.

2.3 The Licence Holder shall comply with all methods or systems of identification of farms, farmers, herds, animals, locations and stored genetic material and with all quality control procedures and record formats that may from time to time be required by the Database Manager.

2.4 The Licence Holder shall on request (but no more frequently than annually) demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Database Manager or the NZDB that it operates quality control procedures to ensure as far as it is practicable, that the animal details, the location details for the herd, and the herd testing results it has reported for each animal, are suitable for use in animal evaluation and for research, in that:

(a) Up-to-date, complete and accurate date of birth, identification, mating and birth details for each animal that has been in the herd during the period that the herd test service has been provided by the licence holder are recorded on the database.

(b) the lactation identification and test day production detail information associated with each animal can be field verified to the specific cow;

(c) the cows tested are not treated in any way so as to cause the herd test results for the period they are reported to represent to be other than representative of the normal production for the cow for that period;

(d) Where a cow or a group of cows from a herd are separated from the rest of the herd and/or receive different treatment or management such separation or differing treatment is advised to the database manager;

(e) the milk tested or the sample taken to determine composition has not been modified in any way to cause the results of the composition analysis to be other than an accurate reflection of the production from the cow; and

(f) any abnormalities associated with the production of an individual cow or the quality / treatment of samples used for milk analysis are indicated by use of the appropriate codes;

2.5 The Licence Holder shall ensure that the equipment and methods used for the purposes of sampling, measuring and analysing milk meet the required operating and accuracy specifications as approved for the purpose from time to time by the Database Manager and published in the New Zealand Gazette or as described in Appendix I.

Use of Information

3.1 The Database Manager shall not be obliged to enter any data into the Database unless it is satisfied that the data or the manner in which it has been supplied complies with these Conditions.

3.2 The NZDB or the Database Manager, acting on its behalf, shall be entitled to use any data supplied by a Licence Holder in any manner at any time as it sees fit provided that such use complies with the Access Code.

Licensed Territory

4.0 Each Licence Holder shall offer its service to all farmers within the boundaries fixed by the NZDB and annexed to its herd testing licence. If no boundaries are defined, the district shall be the whole of New Zealand.

Variations

5.0 The NZDB may, from time to time, change or revoke these Conditions or part of them provided that 60 days written notice of such changes or revocation has been given to each Licence Holder. Any revocation will be subject to clause 6 of these Conditions.

Cancellation

6.0 The NZDB may at any time cancel any herd testing licence if:

(a) the Licence Holder fails to remedy, within 30 days of having received a written notice requesting it to remedy, any non-compliance with the general intent of, or any default on any of its specific obligations under, these Conditions, including a failure to comply with any requirement in any Appendix; or

(b) after having given the Licence Holder 30 days notice to answer any allegations, the NZDB is of the opinion that any claim made or implied by the Licence Holder about the value or quality of the information is either false or materially misleading.

Dispute Resolution

7.1 In the event of any dispute or difference arising between the Licence Holder, the NZDB, or the Database Manager as to any matter concerning herd testing, either from these Conditions or otherwise, the parties to the dispute or difference shall in the first instance use their best efforts to resolve their dispute or difference by negotiation, but if the dispute or difference is not resolved within 7 days they shall refer it to the Dairy Herd Improvement Tribunal ("Tribunal") which may then either refer it to conciliation or decide the issue in accordance with its own procedures as a submission to arbitration under the Arbitration Act 1908 and its amendments.

7.2 If the Tribunal refers any dispute or difference to conciliation and that process is terminated without agreement having been reached then the Tribunal shall decide the issue by arbitration as described in the preceding paragraph.

7.3 Pending a reference to the Tribunal and its decision being made known, the Licence Holder shall at the option of the NZDB continue to perform all its obligations under these Conditions without prejudice.

7.4 The Tribunal's decision whether as a result of the conciliation or the arbitration procedure shall be final and binding on all parties.
