Citizens Initiated Referenda Act 1993

Citizens Initiated Referendum (Appointed Day) Order (No. 2) 1999

MICHAEL HARDIE BOYS, Governor-General

ORDER IN COUNCIL

At Wellington this 26th day of July 1999

Present:

THE RIGHT HON. JENNY SHIPLEY PRESIDING IN COUNCIL

Pursuant to section 22 (1) of the Citizens Initiated Referenda Act 1993, His Excellency the Governor-General, acting by and with the advice and consent of the Executive Council, and following the presentation to the House of Representatives on 13 July 1999 of an indicative referendum petition, which had been promoted by Mr Norm Withers and which had been certified correct under section 18 (1) (a) of that Act, makes the following order.

Order

1. Title and commencement—(1) This order may be cited as the Citizens Initiated Referendum (Appointed Day) Order (No. 2) 1999.

(2) This order comes into force on the day after the date of its publication in the Gazette.

2. Appointed day—Saturday, 18 December 1999, is appointed as the day on which an indicative referendum is to be held under the Citizens Initiated Referenda Act 1993 on the following question:

Should there be a reform of our justice system placing greater emphasis on the needs of victims, providing restitution and compensation for them and imposing minimum sentences and hard labour for all serious violent offences?

MARIE SHROFF, Clerk of the Executive Council.

Explanatory Note

This note is not part of the order, but is intended to indicate its general effect.

This order appoints Saturday, 18 December 1999, as the day on which an indicative referendum is to be held under the Citizens Initiated Referenda Act 1993 on the following question:

Should there be a reform of our justice system placing greater emphasis on the needs of victims, providing restitution and compensation for them and imposing minimum sentences and hard labour for all serious violent offences?

The intention is that the referendum be held in 1999 on the polling day for the general election.

Saturday, 18 December 1999, is the last possible polling day for the general election.

If the writ for the general election appoints a polling day earlier than 18 December 1999, this order may be revoked and the earlier polling day may be appointed as the day for the holding of the referendum.

Notwithstanding this order or any other order made under section 22 of the Citizens Initiated Referenda Act 1993, the House of Representatives may, under section 22 (4) (b) (ii) of that Act, pass a resolution requiring the indicative referendum to be held on the polling day for the general election.

The referendum results from a petition promoted by Mr Norm Withers (which petition was presented to the House of Representatives on 13 July 1999 after it had been certified correct by the Clerk of the House of Representatives).

Termination of Dumping Investigation: Lead Acid Batteries From the People's Republic of China

Notice is hereby given that, acting pursuant to section 11 of the Dumping and Countervailing Duties Act 1988 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act"), I have terminated a dumping investigation in respect of lead acid batteries from The People's Republic of China (the "subject goods" as described in the Notice of Initiation of Dumping Investigation of 25 February 1999 (New Zealand Gazette, 4 March 1999, (page 707)), imported or intended to be imported into New Zealand.

I have terminated the investigation because I am satisfied under section 11 (1) (a) of the Act that, as a result of the investigations carried out, there is insufficient evidence of dumping to justify proceeding with the investigation.

Dated at Wellington this 22nd day of July 1999.

HON. MAX BRADFORD, Minister for Enterprise and Commerce.

A copy of the non-confidential version of the Final Report which contains details of the investigation and the conclusions reached, is available from the Trade Remedies Group, Ministry of Commerce, P.O. Box 1473, Wellington.

Regulation 10 of the Income Tax (Determinations) Regulations 1987 requires publication of every determination made by the Commissioner, except where the applicant requires the publication of an anonymous version of the determination instead.

The following is an anonymous version of such a determination made for a particular applicant who is, or intends to be, a party to the relevant financial arrangement. It is not, in itself, the determination nor a determination. Rather it is merely a version of the actual determination made with the applicant's name and certain other particulars removed.

Determination S12: Issue of NZ Co Converting Notes Denominated in Australian Dollars

This determination may be cited as "Determination S12: Issue of NZ Co Converting Notes Denominated in Australian Dollars".

1. Explanation (which does not form part of the determination)

1. This determination relates to converting notes ("the Notes") issued by NZ Co, a wholly-owned New Zealand subsidiary of Parent Co Limited ("Parent Co"), to the Noteholder to evidence that the Noteholder has provided money to NZ Co.
2. The Notes constitute financial arrangements issued pursuant to a Prospectus dated 26 October 1998 for the Issue of Unsecured Converting Notes by NZ Co to raise A$155 million. Each Note forms part of a wider financial arrangement comprising the Note and agreement to purchase shares in Parent Co, and the subsequent purchase of the shares.
3. Subject to the terms of the Note, the money lent by the Noteholder is to be payable at a future date in cash. Noteholders have an obligation to purchase shares with the Redemption Proceeds in Parent Co, a company listed on the Australian Stock Exchange, unless NZ Co chooses not to enforce the obligation. If Noteholders are required to purchase shares in Parent Co, the Notes will be redeemed by NZ Co for Face Value and the shares will be issued by Parent Co at a 5 percent discount. If Noteholders are not required to purchase shares with the Redemption Proceeds, the Notes will be redeemed at maturity for Face Value and 5 percent Additional Interest. Prior to Maturity, on the happening of a conversion event, Noteholders can choose to redeem their Notes and purchase shares in Parent Co. Coupon Interest at a fixed rate will be paid in the period between the issue of the Notes and their redemption.
4. Each wider financial arrangement has both a debt component, and equity components which are "excepted financial arrangements" as defined in section OB 1 of the Income Tax Act 1994. The equity components that are excepted financial arrangements are:
 - the option for the Noteholder to acquire shares in Parent Co on the happening of a conversion event prior to Maturity by redeeming the Notes and using the Redemption Proceeds to purchase the shares; and
 - the shares in Parent Co.
5. The amount of gross income deemed to be derived, or expenditure deemed to be incurred, by a person under the qualified accrual rules in respect of a financial arrangement excludes any amount of income, gain or loss, or expenditure that is solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement.

6. This determination prescribes a method to be used when calculating the gross income derived or expenditure incurred in respect of the Notes under the qualified accrual rules.

2. Reference

1. This determination is made pursuant to section 90 (1) (g) of the Tax Administration Act 1994.
2. Determination G5C does not apply to the Notes as the Notes are not Mandatory Conversion Convertible Notes. Determination G22 does not apply as the Notes are denominated in Australian dollars.

3. Scope of Determination

1. This determination applies specifically to the Notes issued pursuant to a Prospectus dated 26 October 1998 for the Issue of Converting Notes by NZ Co to raise A$155 million where:
 - (a) The Notes will be unsecured but guaranteed by Parent Co. The guarantee is subordinated to the rights of other commercial debtholders, but will rank pari passu with Parent Co's obligations to any other Noteholders the company has.
 - (b) Noteholders do not participate in any dividends or any other distributions made in respect of shares. The Notes carry no voting rights.
 - (c) The Notes carry a fixed coupon (semi-annual) rate of interest of 7.535 percent. The interest rate on the Notes is set on a stand alone basis having regard to the terms of the Notes alone, and without reference to the shares in Parent Co. Pursuant to the guarantee by Parent Co, NZ Co will suspend the Coupon Interest where Parent Co does not declare a dividend for a half-year period. Any suspension of the Coupon Interest is non-cumulative.
 - (d) The Issue Price for the Notes will be determined by a formula detailed in clause 2.4 of the Prospectus. The effect of the formula is that the Notes can be issued at either a discount or a premium. However, Retail Investors subscribing for Notes under the prospectus will receive a minimum yield on their Notes of not less than 7.25 percent per annum. The Notes have been issued at their A$5.00 face value per Note.
 - (e) The Notes are issued with mandatory "conversion" on maturity (i.e. on 12 June 2003). At various times (on the happening of a conversion event) until maturity, the Noteholder has the option to convert the Note into ordinary shares in Parent Co. NZ Co has the option at maturity to redeem the Notes for cash rather than convert to shares.
 - (f) The mechanism by which Notes are "converted" is that NZ Co will redeem the Notes in cash for their Face Value and the Noteholder is obliged to use those Redemption Proceeds to acquire shares in Parent Co.
 - (g) The Noteholder will receive shares in Parent Co at a 5 percent discount to the weighted average market price for the 5 business days prior to the date of conversion (subject to a minimum conversion price of A$0.25 which equals the par value of the shares). The 5 percent discount is in recognition that the Noteholder holds a debt instrument and would likely wish to immediately realise the shares acquired. The various transaction costs associated with share realisation and the risks of downward share price movement on large scale share sales, require that the Noteholder be compensated to ensure the Noteholder is in the same position had it simply received cash equal to the face value of the debt. The 5 percent discount on the market price is to ensure the Noteholder can in essence realise the equivalent of the Face Value of the note on liquidating its position in Parent Co.

(h) The Noteholder also has a right to elect to convert the Notes and receive a maximum of 6 months' interest (or "Termination Fee") in the event interest is suspended (as outlined in paragraph (c) above). Additional rights of conversion are available in certain circumstances (such as in certain exceptional default events such as Parent Co delisting, issue of a bonus issue by Parent Co, or on an announcement of a takeover).

(i) At maturity of the Note, rather than requiring the Noteholders to purchase shares in Parent Co, NZ Co may elect to redeem the Notes at their Face Value plus an amount of Additional Interest equal to 5 percent of the Face Value. Under this cash redemption option, NZ Co will pay the Noteholder and the amount of Additional Interest will be reimbursed to NZ Co by Parent Co or one of its Australian subsidiaries.

(j) In the event of a change in control of Parent Co, NZ Co may also elect to redeem the Notes for the Cash Redemption Amount.

4. Principle

1. The Note forms part of a wider financial arrangement which has both a debt component, and equity components that are "excepted financial arrangements" as defined in section OB 1 of the Income Tax Act 1994. The equity components that are excepted financial arrangements are:

- the option for the Noteholder to acquire shares in Parent Co on the happening of a conversion event prior to Maturity by redeeming the Notes and using the Redemption Proceeds to purchase the shares; and
- the shares in Parent Co.

The option that NZ Co has to require the Noteholders to use the Redemption Proceeds to purchase shares in Parent Co does not satisfy the definition of "excepted financial arrangement" because it is not an option to buy shares or an option to acquire or to sell or otherwise dispose of shares.

2. Any income, gain or loss, or expenditure that is solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement is not included when calculating gross income or expenditure under the qualified accrual rules.

3. This determination specifies that no amounts are attributable to the excepted financial arrangements.

5. Interpretation

1. In this determination, the following expressions (which have not been defined elsewhere within the determination) have the following meanings:

"Additional Interest" means 5 percent of the Face Value of the Note.

"Cash Redemption Amount" means the cash amount expressed in Australian dollars being the amount which the Noteholder would receive upon the exercise by NZ Co of the right to redeem the Notes in cash, being the Face Value plus Additional Interest but excluding any Coupon Interest.

"Coupon Interest" means the cash interest amounts paid on a semi-annual basis by NZ Co to the Noteholder.

"Face Value" means the amount of money provided to NZ Co as evidenced by the Note.

"NZ Co" means NZ Co, a company incorporated in New Zealand.

"Parent Co" means Parent Co Limited, a public company listed on a recognised stock exchange.

"Maturity" means 12 June 2003.

"Note" means the Converting Notes issued by NZ Co pursuant to a Prospectus dated 26 October 1998 for the Issue of Converting Notes.

"Noteholder" means a person or persons investing in the Notes.

"Redemption Proceeds" means the cash amount expressed in Australian dollars, being the amount which the Noteholder receives upon the Notes being redeemed which must then be used to purchase shares in Parent Co.

"Retail Investor" persons who would not qualify as one of the institutional offerees under the Australian Corporations Regulation 7.12.05.

"Termination Fee" means the interest payable (up to a maximum of 6 months) where the Noteholders elect to convert the Notes into shares following an interest suspension.

6. Method

1. No part of the following amounts are attributable to the excepted financial arrangements:

- Where the Noteholder uses the Redemption Amounts to subscribe for Parent Co shares, the amount by which the aggregate market value of the Parent Co shares (expressed in Australian dollars in which the Notes are denominated) is above the Face Value of the Notes held by that Noteholder and redeemed by NZ Co.
- The Coupon Interest payments.
- The Additional Interest.
- The Termination Fee.

7. Examples

(Any reference to the redemption amount, value of Parent Co shares, or interest calculation is illustrative only.)

Example 1

Investor C has 2000 Notes issued by NZ Co at A$5.00, and on maturity must convert the Notes to shares in Parent Co. NZ Co elects to redeem the Notes for cash at maturity.

The weighted average market price of Parent Co shares for the 5 business days prior to the date of conversion is A$2.63. Investor C receives A$10,500 as the Cash Redemption Amount.

NZ Co pays the Noteholder A$10,500 Cash Redemption Amount and the accrued Coupon Interest of A$360 to the date of maturity. NZ Co is then reimbursed for A$500 from Parent Co or a related subsidiary (being the amount of Additional Interest).

The Face Value of the Notes is A$10,000.

In accordance with the method prescribed in the determination, neither the Coupon Interest nor the Additional Interest is attributable to the excepted financial arrangements.

Example 2

Investor A has acquired 2000 Notes on the stock market for A$4.80 with a face value of A$5.00 for a total consideration of A$9,600. On 12 June 2001, Investor A elects to convert the Notes to shares in Parent Co.

Accrued Coupon Interest of A$360 to the date of conversion is paid to Investor A in cash.

The weighted average market price of Parent Co shares for the 5 business days prior to the date of conversion is A$2.63. The conversion price is A$2.50 [i.e. $A$2.63 \times 0.95$ (rounded to the nearest whole cent)]. Investor A is issued with 4000 shares which have a total market value of A$10,520.

The Face Value of the Notes is A$10,000.

In accordance with the method prescribed in the determination, neither the Coupon Interest, the $520 difference between the Face Value of the Notes and the value of the shares, nor the $400 difference between the acquisition price of the Notes and the Face Value of the Notes is attributable to the excepted financial arrangements.

Example 3

Investor B has acquired 2000 Notes on the stock market for A$5.20 for a total consideration of A$10,400. On maturity, Investor B must convert the Notes to shares in Parent Co. NZ Co does not elect to redeem the Notes for cash at maturity.

The weighted average market price of Parent Co shares for the 5 business days prior to the date of conversion is A$2.63. The conversion price is A$2.50. Investor B is issued with 4000 shares which have a total market value of A$10,520.

Accrued Coupon Interest of A$360 to the date of maturity is paid to the Noteholder in cash.

The Face Value of the Notes is A$10,000. Investor B receives A$10,520 worth of shares.

In accordance with the method prescribed in the determination, neither the Coupon Interest, the $520 difference between the Face Value of the Notes and the value of the shares, nor the $400 difference between the Face Value of the Notes and the acquisition price of the Notes is attributable to the excepted financial arrangements.

This determination is signed by me on the 9th day of July 1999.

MARTIN SMITH, General Manager (Adjudication & Rulings).

Regulation 10 of the Income Tax (Determinations) Regulations 1987 requires publication of every determination made by the Commissioner, except where the applicant requires the publication of an anonymous version of the determination instead.

The following is an anonymous version of such a determination made for a particular applicant who is, or intends to be, a party to the relevant financial arrangement. It is not, in itself, the determination nor a determination. Rather it is merely a version of the actual determination made with the applicant's name and certain other particulars removed.

Determination S13: Investors Subscribing for Convertible Notes in Company and Units in Unit Trust

This determination may be cited as "Determination S13: Investors Subscribing for Convertible Notes in Company and Units in Unit Trust".

1. Explanation (which does not form part of the determination)

(1) This determination rescinds and replaces Determination S10: Investors Subscribing for Convertible Notes in Company and Units in Unit Trust made by the Commissioner on 18 June 1998. This determination differs from Determination S10 by:

- defining the term "distribution" for the purposes of the determination;
- clarifying the nature of the wider financial arrangement; and
- clarifying the scope of the determination.

(2) This determination applies to holders of Convertible Notes denominated in New Zealand Dollars issued by ABC Limited ("the Issuer") and Units in the XYZ Unit Trust ("the Unit Trust").

The arrangement involves Investors subscribing for Convertible Notes issued by the Issuer (which bear interest at the rate of 2% per annum) and Units issued by the Unit Trust. These will be subscribed for on the basis of two Convertible Notes for every Unit subscribed for. The Issuer will lend the proceeds from the issue of the Convertible Notes to the Unit Trust at interest at the rate of 2% per annum. The Unit Trust will use the total funding subscribed by Investors to contribute towards the purchase of a commercial property.

The Unit Trust will repay the loan from the Issuer by way of regular repayments of principal. The Issuer will use the money received from the repayment of the loan to repay the principal amount of the Convertible Notes on issue.

An Investor has the option to convert the Convertible Note into Units in the Unit Trust. The conversion of the Convertible Note extinguishes the Issuer's liability to repay the principal amount owing to the holder of a Convertible Note.

(3) The form of the investment structure used to issue the Convertible Notes and Units to the Investors involves a number of financial arrangements which together form a "wider" financial arrangement. These financial arrangements include:

- (i) the Units in the Unit Trust;
- (ii) the Convertible Notes issued by the Issuer;
- (iii) the loan of the proceeds received by the Issuer from the issue of the Convertible Notes to the Unit Trust.

The Units and Convertible Notes held by individual Investors constitute wider financial arrangements in their own right, which form part of the overall wider financial arrangement.

(4) These financial arrangements can be analysed in the following way.

- (a) The Units in the Unit Trust are deemed to be shares by section HE 1(b) of the Income Tax Act 1994. Section EH 14 of the Act therefore classifies the Units as excepted financial arrangements.
- (b) The Convertible Notes have a debt and equity component. The debt component is the loan to the company with repayment being made in cash or units. The equity component is the option to convert repayment to Units in the Unit Trust and is also an excepted financial arrangement under section EH 14.

(5) In relation to the Convertible Notes, the coupon interest payments made by the Issuer to the Investors in respect of the Convertible Notes are below a "market" interest rate, but are nevertheless income or expenditure subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules.

When calculating income or expenditure in relation to the Convertible Notes the repayment in instalments of the principal amount of the Convertible Notes does not constitute income or expenditure subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules.

There is no amount attributable to the option to convert the Convertible Notes into Units in the Unit Trust because the conversion from the Convertible Notes into Units in the Unit Trust is made on a market value basis.

(6) The Units in the Unit Trust are not excluded from the application of the Qualified Accruals Rules because they form part of a "wider" financial arrangement. The fact that the proceeds of the issue of the Convertible Notes are lent by the Issuer to the Unit Trust and that the interest payable on this loan is below a "market" interest rate means that any gain on Units is not solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement.

(7) The gain on Units is, in part, attributable to the low rate of interest that is payable on the loan from the Issuer to the Unit Trust and the correspondingly low rate of interest that is payable on the Convertible Notes. Therefore, part (or possibly all) of any gain on Units will be income for the purposes of the Qualified Accruals Rules.

(8) This Determination prescribes the method to be used by an Investor who subscribes for and holds the Notes and Units to determine how much of the increase of the value of a Unit is solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement and therefore excluded from the Qualified Accruals Rules as well as the method for spreading the accrual income, gain or loss, or expenditure under the Qualified Accruals Rules.

2. Reference

(1) This determination is made pursuant to sections 90 (1) (c), 90 (1) (g) and 90 (6) of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

(2) Determination S10: Investors Subscribing for Convertible Notes in Company and Units in Unit Trust is rescinded with effect from the day on which this determination is signed.

3. Scope of Determination

(1) The Determination will apply to the Convertible Notes issued by the Issuer and the Units issued by the Trust. Investors will subscribe for these on the basis of two Convertible Notes for one unit subscribed for in the Unit Trust.

(2) The terms of the Convertible Notes are that they will bear interest at a rate of 2% per annum. The Convertible Notes will be convertible at the option of the Investor. The Convertible Notes will convert on a market value and not on the basis of some pre-determined ratio.

(3) The proceeds of the Convertible Note issue made by the Issuer will be lent to the Unit Trust. This loan will be secured by a second mortgage over the properties held by the Unit Trust. The loan made to the Unit Trust of the proceeds from the Convertible Note issue will be made at the rate of 2% interest per annum. The Unit Trust will repay this loan through regular repayments. The Issuer will use these funds to pay the interest on the Convertible Notes, and to repay in regular instalments the principal amount of the Convertible Notes.

(4) Investors may elect to convert their Convertible Notes into Units in the Unit Trust. Once such an election has been made by an Investor it will be irrevocable. On receipt of a Unit in the Unit Trust, the Issuer's liability under the Convertible Note will be extinguished.

(5) When the Issuer receives a request from an Investor to convert one of the Convertible Notes, the Issuer will elect to convert the relative amount of the loan to the Unit Trust into Units in the Unit Trust. Therefore, the Unit Trust will issue Units to the Issuer and the loan from the Issuer will be reduced by the value of the units issued by the Unit Trust.

(6) The value attributed to the Units when Convertible

Notes are converted by the Issuer will be determined by calculating a "unit value" for each unit so converted. The "unit value" shall be determined by dividing the market value of the Unit Trust's net assets by the number of units currently issued by the Unit Trust.

(7) The effect of this conversion mechanism is intended to be that the balance of the Convertible Notes outstanding with the Issuer will equal the balance of the loan between the Issuer and the Unit Trust. When the Unit Trust makes regular repayments of the loan to the Issuer, the Issuer will use these amounts to redeem or partially redeem the Convertible Notes, and when an Investor wants to convert some of the Convertible Notes into Units in the Unit Trust, the liability of the Unit Trust to the Issuer will be discharged by reducing the balance of the loan outstanding. Therefore, regardless of whichever procedure occurs, the amount of the loan between the Issuer and the Unit Trust and the amount of the Convertible Notes outstanding with the Issuer will always be maintained in equilibrium.

(8) This Determination applies to all Investors and prescribes the method for determining the part of the income, gain or loss, or expenditure in respect of the growth in value of the Units that is solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement as well as the method for spreading the accrual income, gain or loss, or expenditure under the Qualified Accruals Rules.

(9) For the avoidance of doubt, this Determination does not apply to persons other than Investors, being the plural of the term "Investor" as that is defined in the Interpretation section of this Determination.

4. Principle

(1) The low interest rate payable on the loan of the proceeds of the Convertible Note issue to the Unit Trust means that any increase in the value of a Unit is not solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement. As the Convertible Note and the Unit are both part of a wider financial arrangement, part (or possibly all) of any increase in the value of a Unit is income attributable to the Convertible Notes for the purposes of the Qualified Accruals Rules.

(2) The amount of growth in value of a Unit that is solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement is determined by deducting the part of the increase in value of the Unit that can properly be attributed to the non-market interest rate payable on the loan by the Issuer to the Unit Trust.

5. Interpretation

(1) In this Determination, unless the context otherwise requires:

- (a) the "Act" means the Income Tax Act 1994.
- (b) "Convertible Note" means any of the notes to be issued by the Issuer with the following terms:
 - (i) The Convertible Notes are not redeemable for cash;
 - (ii) The Convertible Notes entitle the holder to elect, by giving 10 days' notice to the Issuer prior to 31 July in any year, to elect to convert the Convertible Note into Units in the XYZ Unit Trust as at 31 July;
 - (iii) Any conversion will be at the unit value at the preceding 31 March;
 - (iv) Interest will accrue on a daily basis at a rate of 2% per annum on the principal amount outstanding from time to time;
 - (v) Payments of interest will be made annually and repayments of principal will be made by equal annual instalments of one quarter of the initial principal.

(c) "Distribution" means any amount distributed by the Unit Trust in respect of the Units issued by the Unit Trust, but does not include:

- (i) any amount received by the Investor on the redemption of any Unit in the Unit Trust; or
- (ii) any amount received by the Investor on the liquidation of the Unit Trust.

(d) "Investor" means a person who initially subscribes for Convertible Notes issued by the Issuer and Units issued by the Unit Trust and who continues to hold both the Convertible Notes and Units until the Convertible Notes have been fully repaid by the Issuer, and who does not elect to convert their Convertible Notes into Units.

(e) "Qualified Accruals Rules" means the accruals rules, section EH 11, and section FF 2, as that section was before the commencement of the Taxation (Accrual Rules and Other Remedial Matters) Act 1999.

(f) "Units" means the units in the Unit Trust.

(2) For convenience, words and phrases defined in this Determination are indicated by initial capital letters, but the absence of a capital letter shall not alone imply that the word or phrase is used with a meaning different from that given by its definition.

(3) A determination to which this Determination refers may be changed or rescinded by a new determination made by the Commissioner. In such a case, a reference to the old determination is taken to be extended to the new determination.

6. Method

(1) The amount of increase in value of a Unit that is not solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement, and is therefore subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules, is calculated as follows:

(a) The increase in value of the Unit is the amount by which the market value of the Unit exceeds the cost of the Unit (the "Gain"). If the cost of the Unit is greater than or equal to the market value of the Unit, then there will be no Gain and any difference between the cost and market value will be solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement. There will be no amount which will be included as gross income under the Qualified Accruals Rules.

(b) Where there is a Gain, part of the Gain will be attributable to the low rate of interest. The amount that is attributable to the low rate of interest (the "Interest Advantage") is the difference between the specified rate and 2% multiplied by the amount of principal outstanding. However, there may be difficulties in determining the daily balance in cases where part repayment of the principal outstanding occurs during the income year rather than on 31 March. These difficulties may be avoided by using the amount of interest payable during the year divided by 2% as a substitute for the weighted average of the amount of principal outstanding during the income year. The Interest Advantage is therefore calculated using the following formula:

$$\frac{SR - R}{R} \times AI; \text{ where:}$$

"SR" is the specified rate prescribed by Determination G23: Specified Rate, calculated in accordance with Determination G13A: Prices or Yields based on the term of the loan between the Issuer and the Unit Trust;

"R" is the interest rate of 2% per annum; and

"AI" is the sum of the amounts for each income year since the Convertible Notes and Units were issued calculated in accordance with the formula:

$$I \div U; \text{ where:}$$

"I" is the total interest payable by the Unit Trust on the loan from the Issuer to the Unit Trust, for the relevant income year or part year; and

"U" is the number of Units on issue from the Unit Trust at the end of the relevant income year or part year calculated on a weighted average basis to take into account any Units arising from the conversion of Convertible Notes.

(c) Where the Gain is greater than the Interest Advantage, then any amount over and above the Interest Advantage will be solely attributable to the excepted financial arrangement (being the Units) and not subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules. The Interest Advantage will not be solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement and will be subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules.

Where the Interest Advantage is greater than the Gain, all of the Gain will be subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules.

(d) To determine the amount deemed to be gross income under the Qualified Accruals Rules, an adjustment must be made to the amount subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules under clause 6 (1) (c) of this Determination. The following amount must be subtracted from the amount subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules referred to in clause 6 (1) (c) of this Determination. The amount to be subtracted comprises the total of all amounts previously deemed to be gross income under clause 6 (1) (d) of this Determination less any amounts previously allowed as a deduction under clause 6 (1) (d) of this Determination.

(2) Any interest payment received by an Investor on the Convertible Notes is attributable to the Convertible Notes and is therefore not solely attributable to any excepted financial arrangement. As such, it will be included as gross income under the Qualified Accruals Rules.

(3) Any distribution paid by the Unit Trust to an Investor is solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement (being the Units) and not subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules.

7. Examples

Example One

An Investor who is a cash basis holder invests in Convertible Notes and Units on the following terms:

- the Investor subscribes for and receives 4,000 $1 Units and 8,000 $1 Convertible Notes which bear interest at a rate of 2% per annum on 1 April 1998
- the total number of $1 Convertible Notes issued by the Issuer is 80,000, with the number of $1 Units issued by the Unit Trust being 40,000. The proceeds from the issue of the Convertible Notes (being $80,000) is loaned from the Issuer to the Unit Trust for a period of four years bearing interest at 2% per annum (meaning that the Unit Trust will repay to the Issuer $20,000 on 31 March each year starting on 31 March 1999), plus interest on the balance of the loan calculated on a daily basis
- the Convertible Notes held by the Investor are redeemed at a rate of 2,000 Notes per year (meaning the Investor receives $2,000 on 31 March each year)

- the market value of the Units in the Unit Trust at the end of each of the four income years are as follows:

31 March	Market Value of Unit
1999	$1.15
2000	$1.25
2001	$1.35
2002	$1.50

- on 31 March 2002, an income distribution of $0.25 per Unit is paid to Investors by the Unit Trust
- no Investors exercise the option to convert the Convertible Notes
- the "specified rate" is to be determined in accordance with Determination G23 and Determination G13A, based on the term of the loan between the Issuer and the Unit Trust. The term of the loan is from 1 April 1998 to 31 March 2002. Applying Determination G23, the specified rate will be the yield for New Zealand Government Stock of a similar term to the loan determined in accordance with Determination G13A. Under Determination G13A, for the purposes of this example the yield as at 31 March 1998 for New Zealand Government Stock maturing on 15 March 2002 will be taken as being 7.35% and so, the specified rate is 7.35%
- the Units are sold by the Investor on 1 April 2002 for an amount of $6,000.

Taxation consequences of the financial arrangement

For the year ending 31 March 1999:

The coupon interest payment received by the Investor from the Issuer for the year ended 31 March 1999 will be $160. This equates to the initial investment in the Convertible Notes of $8,000 at interest of 2% per annum. This will be gross income.

For the year ending 31 March 2000:

The coupon interest payment received by the Investor from the Issuer for the year ended 31 March 2000 will be $120. This equates to the balance of the investment in the Convertible Notes outstanding of $6,000 at interest of 2% per annum. This will be gross income.

For the year ending 31 March 2001:

The coupon interest payment received by the Investor from the Issuer for the year ended 31 March 2001 will be $80. This equates to the balance of the investment in the Convertible Notes outstanding of $4,000 at interest of 2% per annum. This will be gross income.

For the year ending 31 March 2002:

The coupon interest payment received by the Investor from the Issuer for the year ended 31 March 2002 will be $40. This equates to the balance of the investment in the Convertible Notes outstanding of $2,000 at interest of 2% per annum. This will be gross income.

The distribution of $1,000 (including withholding tax) received by the Investor from the Unit Trust in respect of the Units held on 31 March 2002 is solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement. Therefore, it does not have to be considered under the Qualified Accruals Rules, but is gross income as being a dividend.

For the year ending 31 March 2003:

The Investor has not received any further interest on the Convertible Notes as they have been fully repaid and has not received any further distributions on the Units prior to the Units being sold on 1 April 2002.

- (a) The 4,000 Units were sold for $6,000. This represents a selling price of $1.50 per Unit. The Gain in the value of the Unit will be the value received of $1.50 per Unit less the original cost of $1.00 per Unit. Therefore, the Gain on a per Unit basis is $0.50. As this is a positive amount, some of the Gain will be attributable to the low rate of interest and will be subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules.

(b) The Interest Advantage per Unit at the end of the fifth year is calculated using the following formula which uses the mathematical convention of using the Greek letter "sigma" to indicate that the formula "I + U" is to be summed for the appropriate number of periods:

$$\text{Interest Advantage per Unit} = \frac{SR - R}{R} \times \sum_{t=1}^5 (I_t + U_t)$$

In this case, the formula will become:

$$\begin{aligned} \text{Interest Advantage per Unit} &= ((7.35\% - 2\%) + 2\%) \times \\ & \quad (($1,600 \div 40,000) + \\ & \quad ($1,200 \div 40,000) + ($800 \\ & \quad \div 40,000) + ($400 \div \\ & \quad 40,000) + ($0 \div 40,000)) \\ &= 2.675 \times $0.10 \\ &= $0.2675 \end{aligned}$$

(c) As the Gain in the value of the Unit is greater than the Interest Advantage, the maximum amount per Unit subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules will be the amount of the Interest Advantage, being $0.2675. As the Investor holds 4,000 Units, this equates to an amount of $1,070. The further amount of the Gain of $0.2325 per Unit is solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement and not subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules.

(d) As the Investor is a cash basis holder, there will not have been any amounts previously included as gross income under clause 6 (1) (d) of this Determination so there will not be any amounts to deduct from the amount calculated above of $1,070. This is the amount which will need to be included as gross income.

Example Two

In this example the facts are the same as for the first example, but the Investor is not a cash basis holder. It is not necessary to realise the Units in order to consider the accrual treatment for a non-cash basis holder as gross income will have to be returned on a yearly basis.

Taxation consequences of the financial arrangement

For the year ending 31 March 1999:

The coupon interest payment received by the Investor from the Issuer for the year ended 31 March 1999 will be $160. This equates to the initial investment in the Convertible Notes of $8,000 at interest of 2% per annum. This will be gross income.

The Investor will also need to consider the part of the increase in the value of the Unit which is attributable to the low interest rate paid on the loan by the Issuer to the Unit Trust.

(a) The Gain in the value of the Unit will be the market value of $1.15 less the original cost of $1.00. Therefore, the Gain on a per Unit basis is $0.15.

(b) The Interest Advantage per Unit at the end of the first year is calculated using the following formula:

$$\text{Interest Advantage per Unit} = \frac{SR - R}{R} \times \sum_{t=1}^1 (I_t + U_t)$$

In this case, the formula will become:

$$\begin{aligned} \text{Interest Advantage per Unit} &= 2.675 \times ($1,600 \div 40,000) \\ &= $0.107 \end{aligned}$$

(c) As the Gain in the value of the Unit is greater than the Interest Advantage, the maximum amount per Unit subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules will be the amount of the Interest Advantage, being $0.107 per Unit. As the Investor holds 4,000 Units, this equates to an amount of $428. The difference between the Gain and the Interest Advantage will be an amount which is solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement.

(d) The Investor has not previously included any amounts as gross income under clause 6 (1) (d) of this Determination and so there is no amount to be deducted from the amount of $428. This amount will need to be included as gross income.

For the year ending 31 March 2000:

The coupon interest payment received by the Investor from the Issuer for the year ended 31 March 2000 will be $120. This equates to the balance of the investment in the Convertible Notes outstanding of $6,000 at interest of 2% per annum. This will be gross income.

(a) The Gain in the value of the Unit will be the current market value of $1.25 less the original cost of $1.00. Therefore, the Gain on a per Unit basis is $0.25.

(b) The Interest Advantage per Unit at the end of the second year is calculated using the following formula:

$$\text{Interest Advantage per Unit} = \frac{SR - R}{R} \times \sum_{i=1}^2 (I_i \div U_i)$$

In this case, the formula will become:

$$\begin{aligned} \text{Interest Advantage per Unit} &= 2.675 \times (($1,600 \div 40,000) \\ &\quad + ($1,200 \div 40,000)) \\ &= $0.18725 \end{aligned}$$

(c) As the Gain in the value of the Unit is greater than the Interest Advantage, the maximum amount per Unit subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules will be the amount of the Interest Advantage, being $0.18725. As the Investor holds 4,000 Units, this equates to an amount of $749. The difference between the Gain and the Interest Advantage will be an amount which is solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement.

(d) The Investor has previously included as gross income under clause 6 (1) (d) of this Determination an amount of $428 and so this amount will need to be deducted from the amount of $749. The amount to be included as gross income will be $321.

For the year ending 31 March 2001:

The coupon interest payment received by the Investor from the Issuer for the year ended 31 March 2001 will be $80. This equates to the balance of the investment in the Convertible Notes outstanding of $4,000 at interest of 2% per annum. This will be gross income.

(a) The Gain in the value of the Unit will be the current market value of $1.35 less the original cost of $1.00. Therefore, the Gain on a per Unit basis is $0.35.

(b) The Interest Advantage per Unit at the end of the second year is calculated using the following formula:

$$\text{Interest Advantage per Unit} = \frac{SR - R}{R} \times \sum_{i=1}^3 (I_i \div U_i)$$

In this case, the formula will become:

$$\begin{aligned} \text{Interest Advantage per Unit} &= 2.675 \times (($1,600 \div 40,000) \\ &\quad + ($1,200 \div 40,000) + \\ &\quad ($800 \div 40,000)) \\ &= $0.24075 \end{aligned}$$

(c) As the Gain in the value of the Unit is greater than the Interest Advantage, the maximum amount per Unit subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules will be the amount of the Interest Advantage, being $0.24075. As the Investor holds 4,000 Units, this equates to an amount of $963. The difference between the Gain and the Interest Advantage will be an amount which is solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement.

(d) The Investor has previously included as gross income under clause 6 (1) (d) of this Determination amounts of $428 and $321 so these amounts will need to be deducted from the amount of $963. The amount to be included as gross income will be $214.

For the year ending 31 March 2002:

The coupon interest payment received by the Investor from the Issuer for the year ended 31 March 2002 will be $40. This equates to the balance of the investment in the Convertible Notes outstanding of $2,000 at interest of 2% per annum. This will be gross income.

(a) The Gain in the value of the Unit will be the current market value of $1.50 less the original cost of $1.00. Therefore, the Gain on a per Unit basis is $0.50.

(b) The Interest Advantage per Unit at the end of the second year is calculated using the following formula:

$$\text{Interest Advantage per Unit} = \frac{SR - R}{R} \times \sum_{i=1}^4 (I_i \div U_i)$$

In this case, the formula will become:

$$\begin{aligned} \text{Interest Advantage per Unit} &= 2.675 \times (($1,600 \div 40,000) \\ &\quad + ($1,200 \div 40,000) + \\ &\quad ($800 \div 40,000) + ($400 \div \\ &\quad 40,000)) \\ &= $0.2675 \end{aligned}$$

(c) As the Gain in the value of the Unit is greater than the Interest Advantage, the maximum amount per Unit subject to the Qualified Accruals Rules will be the amount of the Interest Advantage, being $0.2675. As the Investor holds 4,000 Units, this equates to an amount of $1,070. The difference between the Gain and the Interest Advantage will be an amount which is solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement.

(d) The Investor has previously included as gross income under clause 6 (1) (d) of this Determination amounts of $428, $321 and $214 so these amounts will need to be deducted from the amount of $1,070. The amount to be included as gross income will be $107.

The distribution of $1,000 (including withholding tax) received by the Investor from the Unit Trust in respect of the Units held on 31 March 2002 is solely attributable to an excepted financial arrangement. Therefore, it does not have to be considered under the Qualified Accruals Rules, but is gross income as being a dividend.

As can be seen through the two examples, the total amount which is included as gross income is the same between the two Investors, except that the cash basis holder does not have to include the amount until realisation through making a base price adjustment.

This determination is signed by me on the 16th day of July 1999.

MARTIN SMITH, General Manager (Adjudication & Rulings).

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards in New Zealand. We planned and performed our audit so as to obtain all the information and explanations which we considered necessary in order to provide us with sufficient evidence to give reasonable assurance that the financial report is free from material misstatements, whether caused by fraud or error. In forming our opinion we also evaluated overall adequacy of the presentation of information in the financial report.

Other than in our capacity as auditors we have no relationship with or interests in the trust.

- the financial report
 - complies with generally accepted accounting practice;
 - gives a true and fair view of the financial position of the trust as at 31 March 1999 and the results of its operations for the year ended on that date.

Our audit was completed on 28 June 1999 and our unqualified opinion is expressed as at that date.
