Electricity Regulations 1997

Regulation 102—Notice of Prohibition of the Importation, Sale or Use of a “26 watt Fluorescent Work Light”

Pursuant to Regulation 102 of the Electricity Regulations 1997, and acting under delegated authority from the Chief Executive of the Ministry of Economic Development, pursuant to section 41 of the State Sector Act 1988, I, Graham Boxall, Manager, Operations, Ministry of Consumer Affairs, hereby notify that the following electrical appliance, being a 26 watt Fluorescent Work Light, as described below, is prohibited from importation, sale or use in New Zealand.

This prohibition is to take effect on and from the following date of publication of this notice in the New Zealand Gazette.

Description

The 26 watt Fluorescent Work Light has an enclosure constructed of two red plastic moulded halves held together by six screws.

The top half of the enclosure contains two 13 W PL type fluorescent lamps, which are covered by a clear plastic clip-on lens at the front.

The lower half of the enclosure is the handle, which includes two black rocker switches on the rear and a three pin socket-outlet on the heel of the enclosure together with the supply cord entry.

The work light is provided with adjustable hooks top and bottom and a magnetic clip, to allow the option of other than handheld.

The work light is identified by the marking “26 watt Fluorescent Work Light 240V, 50Hz, AC.13amps”.

Approximate overall dimensions (mm) – 370H x 100W x 80D.

The front of the 26 watt Fluorescent Work Light packaging is marked with:

- “26 watt Fluorescent Work Light”
- “25-foot, 16 gauge-cord”
- “●Two twin 13 Watt fluorescent lamps”
- “●Individual on/off switch for each lamp”
- “●Adjustable magnet”
- “●Grounded outlet in handle”
- “●240V 60Hz 13amps 16gauge” and
- “●“CE” approved”

The supply plug is an approved two pin, flat pin, insulated pin 10 A plug, and an approved 20.75mm core supply cord compatible with the New Zealand plug/socket system.

A sample of the 26 watt Fluorescent Work Light was obtained from a Trade Tools Limited, Penrose, Auckland, although the 26 watt Fluorescent Work Light may also be available elsewhere in New Zealand.

Details of Hazard

The appliance constitutes or may constitute an electrical hazard in that:

- the work light socket-outlet is not earthed. This may constitute an electric shock hazard to the user if connecting a Class I appliance to the socket-outlet in the event of an insulation failure; and
- the work light supply cord conductors have an inadequate cross-sectional area for the rated output of the work light socket-outlet; this may constitute a fire or an electric shock hazard if fully loaded for extended periods of time.

Reasons for Prohibition

The work light does not meet the safety requirements of Electricity Regulations 69, in that:

- the lack of earth continuity in the work light socket-outlet means that appliances supplied through this adaptor will have “its unearthed conductive parts separated from live parts only by basic insulation” (76A (1) (c)); and
- the work light supply cord conductors have an inadequate cross-sectional area for the rated output of the work light socket-outlet; this constitutes a hazard in that in normal use, or in the event of abnormal operation, it may function unsafely so as to cause danger in persons, property, or animals (76A (1) (a)).

Accordingly, I issue this prohibition.

Signed this 18th day of February 2005.

GRAHAM BOXALL, Manager, Operations, Ministry of Consumer Affairs.

Electricity Act 1992

Notice of Making of Electricity Governance Amendment Rules (No. 19) 2005 and Notice of Reasons for Decision

1. Pursuant to section 172I of the Electricity Act 1992, I notify the amendment of the Electricity Governance Rules 2003 ("the Rules") under section 172H of the Electricity Act 1992.

2. The empowering provisions for the electricity governance regulations in relation to which the Rules are made are sections 172D (1) (1) (c) and (d) of the Electricity Act 1992.

3. A brief description of the nature of the amendment follows:

HVDC component flow and risk offset information will be published in the "Pre-dispatch Schedule" and the "Schedule of Dispatch Prices and Quantities". The primary effect of publishing this information is to facilitate more accurate forecasting of the potential constraints on Benmore power station. This in turn facilitates more efficient management of hydro resources, leading to potentially reduced national electricity dispatch costs.

4. The amendment is made in reliance on section 172F (3) of the Electricity Act 1992.

5. Pursuant to section 172Z (4) of the Electricity Act 1992, the reasons for my decision to amend the Rules are that:

- the amendment facilitates lower national dispatch cost through more efficient use of the available water.
6. These Rules come into force on 2 May 2005.

7. Copies of the Rules may be inspected free of charge or purchased from the Electricity Commission, Level Seven, ASB Bank Tower, 2 Hunter Street, Wellington.

The Rules can also be viewed on the Electricity Commission web site:

2. The empowering provisions for the electricity governance regulations in relation to which the Rules are made are sections 172D (1) (1) (c) and (d) of the Electricity Act 1992.

3. A brief description of the nature of the amendment follows:

Those embedded generators which are required to offer, will be able to amend their reserve offers up to 30 minutes prior to the trading period. The primary effect of this change is to allow such embedded generators to more accurately match their total offered quantities to their actual available quantities. Other minor amendments clarify the Rules.

4. The amendment is made in reliance on section 172F (3) of the Electricity Act 1992.

5. Pursuant to section 172Z (4) of the Electricity Act 1992, the reasons for my decision to amend the Rules are that:

- the amendments will align the rules for embedded generators regarding the gate closure times for reserve offers and energy offers, which will correct a drafting oversight in the Rules; and
 - the amendments facilitate lower national dispatch cost through more efficient use of the available energy resources.
6. These Rules come into force on 24 March 2005.
7. Copies of the Rules may be inspected free of charge or purchased from the Electricity Commission, Level Seven, ASB Bank Tower, 2 Hunter Street, Wellington.

Section 172F (3) provides that the Commission is not required to comply with section 172F (1) if it is satisfied that the effect of the recommendation is minor and will not adversely affect the interests of any person in a substantial way.

Accordingly, no such assessment has been carried out under section 172F (1) of the Act.

Recommended Amendment to the Rules

The recommended amendment to the Rules was the HVDC component flow and risk offset information be published (to purchasers and generators) for each respective trading period of the “Pre-dispatch Schedule” and the “Schedule of Dispatch Prices and Quantities”.

The primary effect of publishing this information is to facilitate more accurate forecasting of the potential constraints on Benmore power station.

This in turn facilitates more efficient management of hydro resources, leading to potentially reduced national electricity dispatch costs.

Primarily, the amendment to the Rules involves:

Defining the terms, and the information to be specified by the terms, “HVDC component flows” and “HVDC risk offsets” in Part A of the Rules;

Adding the newly defined terms to the relevant Rules regarding preparation and publication of pre-dispatch and dispatch Schedules in section III, Part G; and Amending Schedule G6, Part G, of the Rules in accordance with the above changes.
