Fisheries (Commercial Fishing) Amendment Regulations 2006

Seabird Scaring Devices – Circular Issued Under Authority of the Fisheries (Commercial Fishing) Amendment Regulations 2006 (No. F361)

Pursuant to section 58B of the Fisheries (Commercial Fishing) Amendment Regulations 2006, the Chief Executive of the Ministry of Fisheries gives the following notice:

Circular

1. Title—This circular is the April 2006 seabird scaring devices circular.
2. Commencement—This circular shall come into effect on the date of its notification in the New Zealand Gazette.
3. Interpretation—In this circular:

“bird baffler” means:

two or more booms attached to the stern quarter of the vessel, with at least one boom attached to the starboard stern quarter and at least one boom attached to the port stern quarter, which are able to be lifted and lowered over the sides or stern of the vessel;

- (a) each boom shall extend outwards not less than 4 metres from the side or stern of the vessel;
- (b) dropper lines shall be attached to the booms no more than 2 metres apart;
- (c) plastic cones, rods or other brightly coloured and durable material shall be attached to the ends of the dropper lines, so that the bottom of the cone, rod or material is not more than 500 millimetres above the water, in the absence of wind and swell; and
- (d) lines or webbing may be attached between the dropper lines to prevent tangling.

“paired streamer lines” means:

two lines of a minimum of 8 millimetres in diameter, hereafter known as “streamer lines”, which shall be of a length so that when deployed the streamer lines have an aerial extent of at least 10 metres behind the point at which the trawl warps enter the water, in the absence of wind or swell;

- (a) streamer lines shall be attached to the port and starboard sides of the vessel from a point as close to 2 metres above the trawl blocks as practicable and as close to the stern as practicable. Streamer lines shall be attached either:
 - (i) between 1–3 metres from the outside edge of the trawl blocks on both sides of the vessel, on a sidearm if necessary; or
 - (ii) to a “boom and bridle” system that allows the streamer lines to be adjusted on a horizontal plane in order to vary the distance between the streamer line attachment point and the outside of the trawl blocks and is positioned to ensure maximum protection of the trawl warps at all times;
- (b) an object shall be attached at the seaward end of each of the streamer lines. The object must create sufficient drag on the streamer line to ensure that the streamer line is taut behind the vessel at all times; and
- (c) branched streamers, each comprising of two strands of fluorescent red, yellow, orange or pink plastic tubing of a minimum of 3 millimetres in diameter, shall be attached no more than 5 metres apart commencing no more than 5 metres from the point of attachment of the streamer line to the vessel and thereafter along the seaward extent of the line. When a streamer line is deployed, each of the branched streamers must reach the sea surface in the absence of wind and swell. Branched streamer length will therefore vary depending on the height of its attachment point above the water but, in any event, every branched streamer must be at least 1 metre in length; and
- (d) each branched streamer shall be attached to the streamer line in a manner to prevent fouling of individual branched streamers on the main streamer line, and to ensure vertical displacement of individual branched streamers to the waterline in the absence of wind or swell.

“warp deflector” means:

a weighted device fixed to each warp with clips or hooks, which allow for the device to slide up and down the warp freely and to stay aligned under each warp;

- (a) when set, the backbone of the device must extend under the warps from a point not less than 4 metres behind the stern and extend as close as practicable to the point where the warps enter the water, in the absence of wind or swell; and
- (b) the backbone of the device shall be made of rope or metal and shall be fitted with colourful durable material of no less than 300 millimetres in length, woven or tied to the backbone at spacings of no less than 250 millimetres apart in a manner designed to create a visible deterrent.

“seabird scaring device” means:

- (a) paired streamer lines;
- (b) a bird baffler; or
- (c) a warp deflector.

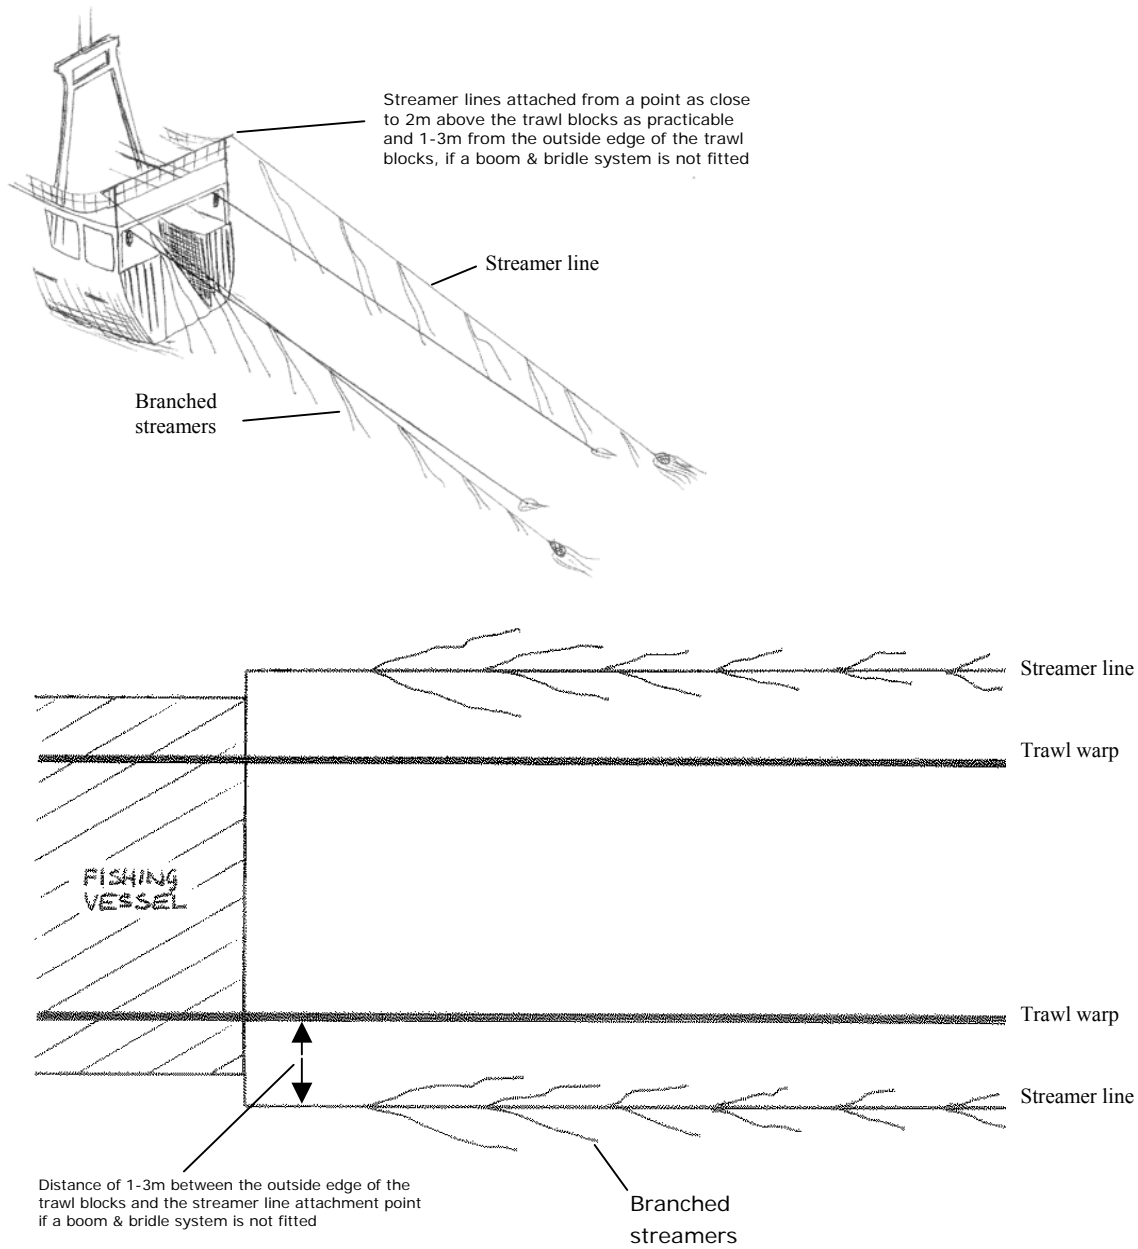

4. Seabird scaring devices authorised by the Chief Executive of the Ministry of Fisheries—(1) All vessels 28 metres or greater in overall length that use a trawl net in New Zealand fisheries waters are required to carry one of the seabird scaring devices contained in this circular.

(2) A seabird scaring device contained in this circular must be deployed as soon as practicable after the shooting of the net, and shall remain deployed for as long as practicable prior to the net being brought back on board the vessel.

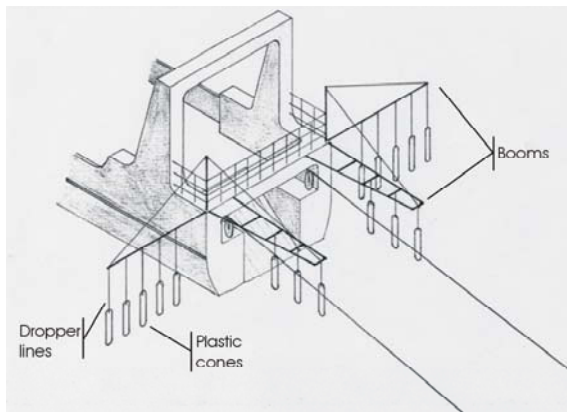

5. The Schedule—(1) The Schedule sets out an illustration to guide the definition of “paired streamer lines”, “bird baffler” and “warp deflector”.

(2) If there is any inconsistency between the illustration in the Schedule and the definition, the definition prevails.

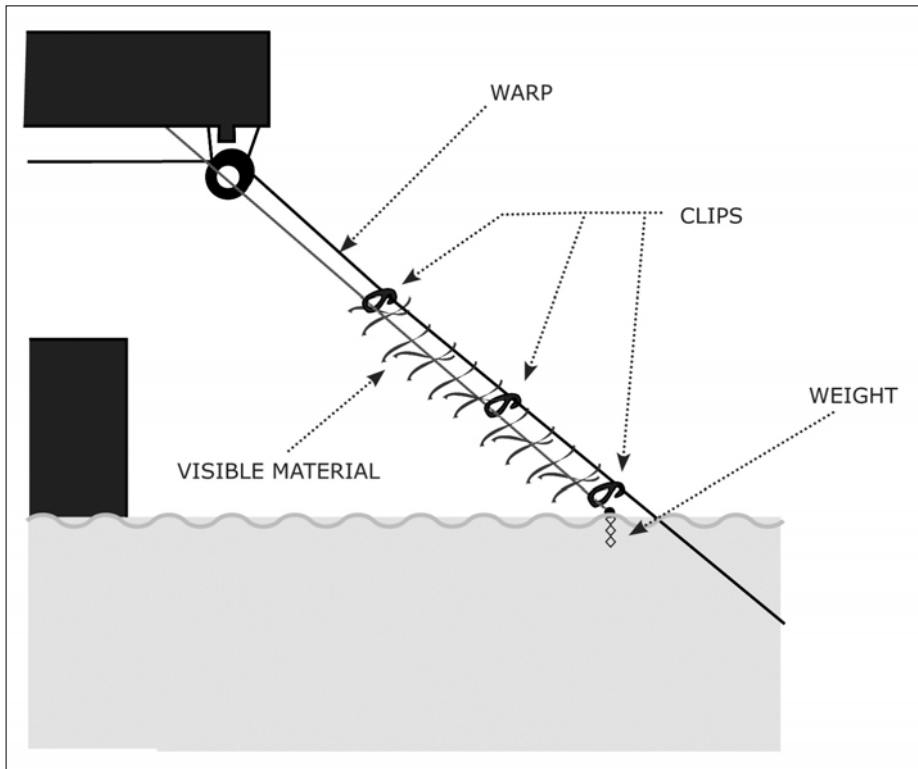

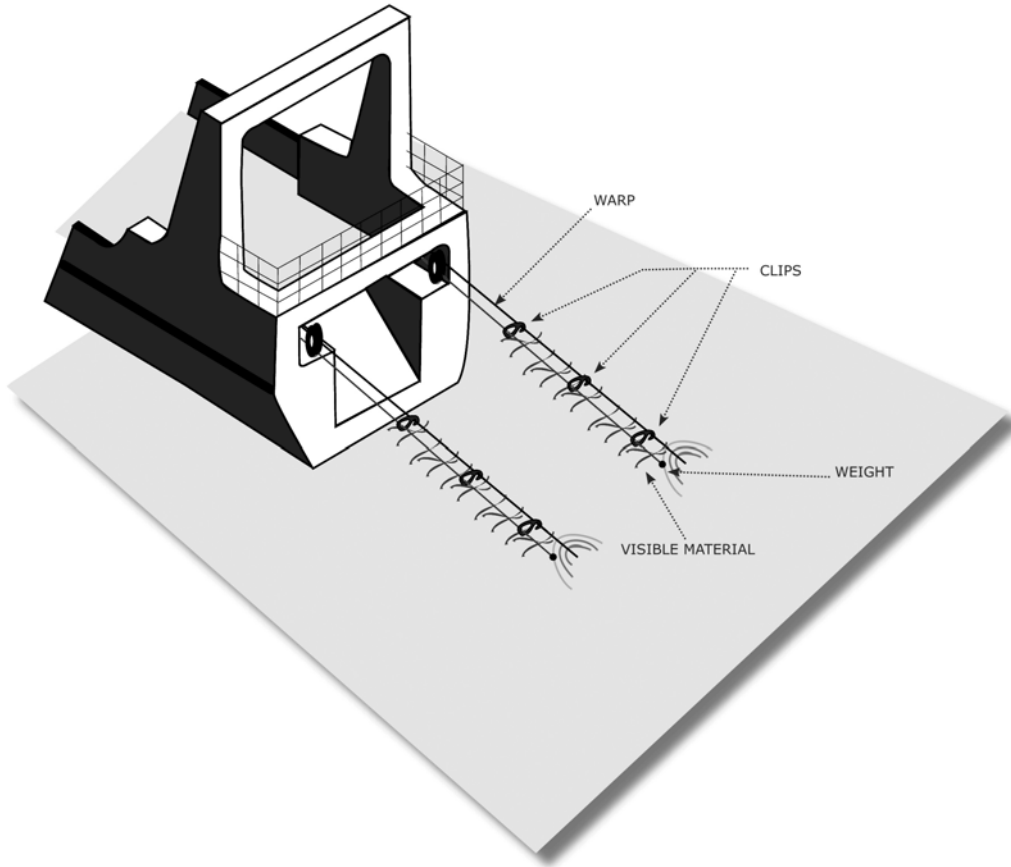

“Paired streamer lines”:

“Bird baffler”:

“Warp deflector”:

JONATHAN PEACEY, National Manager Fisheries Operations, Ministry of Fisheries.

Dated at Wellington this 4th day of April 2006.

Explanatory Note

This note is not part of the circular, but is intended to indicate its general effect.

The intent of this circular is to set out what seabird scaring devices are authorised by the Chief Executive of the Ministry of Fisheries for the purpose of avoiding, remedying or mitigating the effects of fishing-related mortality on seabirds. This circular applies to all vessels 28 metres or greater in overall length that use a trawl net in New Zealand fisheries waters.

Research, Science & Technology

Foundation for Research, Science, and Technology Act 1990

Notice of Revocation of Ministerial Scheme and Introduction of New Ministerial Scheme— Te Tipu Pūtaiao Fellowship

Direction to: The Foundation for Research, Science and Technology (“the foundation”).

Under section 8A of the Foundation for Research, Science and Technology Act 1990, I direct the foundation to allocate funds in accordance with the Te Tipu Pūtaiao Fellowship scheme (“the scheme”), as specified in this direction.

This direction revokes and replaces the notice published in the New Zealand Gazette, 1 August 1996, page 2019, which established the Tūāpapa Pūtaiao Māori Fellowship Scheme.

From the date of this direction, the scheme will be renamed “Te Tipu Pūtaiao Fellowships” and its focus amended to align with government policies.

The Nature and Objectives of the Scheme

The Te Tipu Pūtaiao Fellowship Scheme is intended to develop, or assist in the development of, the research, science and technology skills of individuals.

The objective of the scheme is to build a research community capable of unlocking the distinct innovation potential of Māori knowledge, people and resources for the benefit of New Zealand.

The scheme is intended to foster the development of New Zealand's scientists and future science leaders, and complements other government initiatives implemented to assist New Zealand to compete successfully as a knowledge society.

Mechanisms of Support

The objectives of the scheme will be achieved by providing funding support for undergraduate, post-graduate and early career stage New Zealand scientists, technologists and engineers to undertake research of relevance to one of the four Vision Mātauranga¹ themes identified below.

Nature of Support

Fellowships will be available to undertake research of relevance to one of the following four Vision Mātauranga themes:

- Indigenous Innovation: Contributing to economic growth through research and development;
- Taiao: Achieving environmental sustainability through iwi and hapū relationships with land and sea;
- Oranga: Improving social well-being; and
- Mātauranga: Exploring the interface between indigenous knowledge and research, science and technology.

Fellows under the scheme will be selected primarily on the basis of:

- benefits to New Zealand: Alignment and contribution to Māori knowledge and innovation theme, and benefit to New Zealand.
- science and technology benefits to New Zealand: This may include attributes such as quality of proposed science, science capability, and Māori knowledge research capability and development.

- ability to deliver: This may include attributes such as academic record and host institution support.
- implementation pathway: This may include attributes such as quality of technology transfer and uptake pathway.

The primary focus of the scheme will be on science, technology and engineering disciplines.

Other academic disciplines may be considered, where relevant, at the margin of the scheme.

Administration and Selection

The scheme will be administered by the foundation using an advisory committee mechanism. The advisory committee will be chaired by a member of the foundation's board and consist of members who have a range of research expertise in science, engineering and technology.

The foundation may contract some administrative responsibilities to tertiary institutions.

Duration

The scheme will re-commence on 24 March 2006 and I estimate that the scheme will run for at least six years.

Monitoring

The scheme will be monitored by the Ministry of Research, Science and Technology ("the Ministry").

Reporting

The foundation will provide annual reports to the Ministry on the scheme.

Reports will include information on the number of fellows completing degrees (by degree type) and the distribution of research across science, technology and engineering disciplines, host institutions and Vision Mātauranga themes.

Dated this 22nd day of March 2006.

STEVE MAHAREY, Minister of Research, Science and Technology.

¹Vision Mātauranga is a policy framework developed by the Ministry of Research, Science and Technology, which aims to unlock the innovation potential of Māori knowledge, resources and people for the benefit of New Zealand.
