By His Excellency Sir GEORGE GREY, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Governor and Commander-in-Chief in and over Her Majesty's Colony of New Zealand and its Dependencies, and Vice-Admiral of the same, &c., &c.,

WHEREAS by an Act passed in the Session of Parliament held in the Fifteenth and Sixteenth years of Her Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to grant a Representative Constitution to the Colony of New Zealand," it is amongst other things enacted that no Bill which shall be reserved for the signification of Her Majesty's pleasure thereon shall have any force or authority within the Colony of New Zealand until the Governor of the said Colony shall signify by Speech or Message to the Legislative Council and House of Representatives of the said Colony, or by Proclamation, that such Bill has been laid before Her Majesty in Council, and that Her Majesty has been pleased to assent to the same;

And whereas a certain Bill passed by the Legislative Council and House of Representatives of the said Colony, intituled "An Act to regulate the descent of Lands held by persons of the Native Race under Title derived from the Crown," was presented to the Governor of the said Colony for Her Majesty's Assent, and the said Bill was reserved for the signification of Her Majesty's pleasure thereon:

Now, therefore, I, the Governor of New Zealand, in pursuance of the provisions of the said in part recited Act, do by this Proclamation signify and proclaim to all to whom it may concern that the said Bill has been laid before Her Majesty in Council, and that Her Majesty has been pleased to assent to the same.

A PROCLAMATION

Bringing into force certain Regulations touching the carriage of passengers from New Zealand to other English possessions in Australasia.

By His Excellency Sir GEORGE GREY, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Governor and Commander-in-Chief in and over Her Majesty's Colony of New Zealand and its Dependencies, and Vice-Admiral of the same, &c., &c., &c.

WHEREAS by an Act of the Imperial Parliament, passed in the Session held in the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth years of Her present Majesty's reign, intituled, "An Act to empower the Governors of the several Australian Colonies to regulate the number of passengers to be carried in vessels plying between Ports in those Colonies," it is amongst other things enacted that it shall be lawful for the Governor of each of Her Majesty's Colonies already or hereafter to be established in Australasia by any Proclamation to be by him from time to time issued for the purpose (which Proclamation shall take effect from the issuing thereof, if no day shall be named therein for the purpose) to prescribe such Rules as he shall think proper for determining the number of passengers to be carried in any passenger ship which shall proceed from any such Colony to any other of Her Majesty's possessions for the time being in Australasia, and for determining on what deck or decks and subject to what reservations or conditions passengers may be carried, and also to prescribe such penalties for the infraction or non-observance of such Rules as to such Governor may seem proper; and it is also enacted that from the time when any such Proclamation shall take effect, and so long as the same shall continue in force, the rules and enactments contained in "The Passengers Act, 1855," relating to the number of passengers to be carried in any passenger-ship, and the deck or decks whereon they are to be carried, shall cease to apply to any vessel to which such Proclamation shall be applicable save only as to the recovery and application of any penalty for any offence committed against the said Act before such Proclamation shall take effect:

Now, therefore, I, Sir George Grey, the Governor of New Zealand, in exercise of the power vested in me by the above recited Act, do issue this my Proclamation to take effect from the 16th day of June, One thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, and I do hereby prescribe the Rules hereinafter set forth for determining the number of passengers who may be carried in any passenger ship which shall proceed from the Colony of New Zealand to any other of Her Majesty's possessions for the time being in Australasia, and on what deck or decks and under what reservations or conditions passengers may be carried, and the penalties for the infraction or non-observance of such Rules, that is to say:—

A.—SAILING VESSELS.

1. No ship propelled by sails only shall carry a greater number of persons (including every individual on board) than in the proportion of one statute adult to every two tons of her registered tonnage.

2. No ship shall carry under the poop or in the round-house or deck-house or on the upper passenger-deck a greater number of passengers than in the proportion of one statute adult to every twelve clear superficial feet of deck allotted to their use.

3. No ship shall carry on her lower passenger-deck a greater number of passengers than in the proportion of one statute adult to every fifteen clear superficial feet of deck allotted to their use, provided, nevertheless, that if the height between such lower passenger-deck and the deck immediately above it shall be less than seven feet, or if the apertures (exclusive of side scuttles) through which light and air shall be admitted together to the lower passenger-deck shall be less in size than in the proportion of three square feet to every one hundred superficial feet of the lower passenger-deck no greater number of passengers shall be carried on such deck than in the proportion of one statute adult to every twenty-five clear superficial feet thereof.

4. No ship, whatever be her tonnage or superficial space of passenger-decks, shall carry a greater number of passengers on the whole than in the proportion of one statute adult to every five superficial feet clear for exercise on the upper deck or poop (if secured and fitted on the top with a railing or guard to the satisfaction of the Emigration Officer at the port of clearance) on any round-house or deck-house.

5. In the measurement of the passenger-decks, poop, round-house, or deck-house the space for the hospital and that occupied by such portion of the personal luggage of the passengers as the Emigration Officer may permit to be carried there shall be included.

B.—STEAMERS.

The number of passengers who may be carried on board of any vessel propelled by steam power shall be ascertained and determined in manner following, viz. :—

1. Measure in cubic feet the clear space allotted to fore-cabin passengers between decks, and divide the cubic contents by 72.

2. Count the number of sleeping berths exclusively provided for the accommodation of fore-cabin passengers, and add to it the number obtained as above.

3. The total number thus obtained is the total number of fore-cabin passengers who may be carried.

4. Proceed in the same manner with the space allotted to after-cabin passengers.

The results of the said computations shall determine the number of fore-cabin and after-cabin passengers respectively who may be carried on board of a vessel propelled by steam power, and all passengers on board thereof shall be included in one or other of the said denominations.

PENALTIES.

If there shall be on board of any ship or vessel at or after the time of clearance a greater number either of persons or passengers (except by births at sea) than in the proportions respectively hereinbefore mentioned, the master of such ship or vessel shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding Five pounds nor less than One pound sterling for each person or passenger constituting such excess.

Given under my hand, at Wellington, and issued under the Seal of the Colony of New Zealand, this Sixteenth day of May, in the year of our Lord, One thousand eight hundred and sixty-two.
